COLONEL AND ROBINS UNDER SHERMAN FIRE

ONCE ROOSEVELT ALLY

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—United States Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman today made formal reply to the speeches of Col. Roosevelt and Raymond Robins, delivered last week throughout Illinois.

Senator Sherman denounces Roosevelt's charge of a Sherman-Sullivan combine at Springfield in the last legislature as "utterly false." He sails into the colonel as a "man of moods," charges him with insincerity, and bent on a reign of "destruction."

Senator Sherman attacks Robins. He ties him up with the single tax movement and shows him to have been a member of the Joseph Fels commission, charged with spreading the single tax theory throughout the United States.

Recalls Roosevelt Rules.

Senator Sherman charges Col. Roosevelt used the rules in the 1908 Republican convention to force the nomination of Mr. Taft that he since complained of in the 1912 convention.

Turning to Col. Roosevelt's appeal for Mr. Robins, Senator Sherman says:

"He is not a candidate himself and offers nothing new or useful for those who are. His faithful friends in former years now face his arrival on a mission of destruction. He now is attempting to deliver them, not to himself, but to a new and unknown candidate, who, at the recent primary showed but a ridiculous fraction of the voters of this state and a still more ridiculous fraction of Mr. Roosevelt's vote of 1912.

"The Illinois legislature has enacted more law to promote social justice than Robins has ever read. The element in Illinois politics responsible for such remedial legislation has not been in sympathy with those whom Roosevelt attacks.

Cites Former Hostility.

"At the time I was struggling for direct primary laws, civil service, factory inspection, coal mining acts, child labor laws, and other acts of social justice, Mr. Roosevelt was allied in this state with the element of the Republican party then opposed to me. Some time has elapsed since this happened and many people have forgotten it.

"For several years I had to maintain myself against those whom President Roosevelt appointed to office in this state. I was defeated many times by his Illinois friends. I remained a Republican in defeat. My efforts for betterment were exerted as a member of the Republican party. I stayed inside the Republican house to clean it from the inside. I never went outside to pull it down. I am still a Republican. I submit to the people of Illinois my record in the efforts for improvement.

Points to Steam Roller.

"Mr. Roosevelt nominated Taft in 1908. He used the rules then in force to control the convention. In 1912 he became dissatisfied with President Taft. He was a candidate against him. He declined in 1908 to amend the rules he complained of in 1912. He had the power to do so.

"He wanted their benefit in 1908. In 1912 he vociferously objected to Taft's receiving the benefit of the same rules. Roosevelt's name was submitted to that convention. If he had been nominated under the old rules or any rules, the Republican party would have been a virtuous body.

"A Republican governor, Deneen, called a special session of the legislature to enact a presidential preference act. Under that law Roosevelt was enabled to come before the Republican voters of this state. He received a most sincere and loyal support. It might properly be called the turning point of his candidacy.

"Our state convention met April 19, 1912. Roosevelt's managers on the ground greatly desired strong resolutions and proper delegates at large to the national convention. I was somewhat serviceable to him on both subjects. His campaign manager, now ex-United States Senator Joseph M. Dixon of Montana, wired me from Washington, April 20, 1912, thanking me 'most heart-

French Wounded Near Dijon Left To Die on Field

Survivor Tells Horrors of Being Helpless and Deserted.

[By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 28, 3 a. m.—A correspondent of the Chronicle who has just returned to Dijon, after a visit to the eastern frontier of France, gives a vivid description of the pitiless nature of the fighting in that region.

It has been constant for six weeks, but has been overshadowed by the conflict in the western part. He quotes a French soldier, who had come out of the trenches at Luneville, as saying:

"It is absurd to talk of Red Cross work. It has not existed, as far as many of these fights are concerned. How could it? A few stretchers came with us on some of our expeditions, but their attendants were shot down, and after that the wounded just lay where they fell or crawled away into the shelter of the woods.

Can't Attend Wounded.

"Those of us who were unhurt were not allowed to attend our wounded comrades. It is against orders. We have to go on, regardless of our losses.

"My own best comrade was struck down by my side. I heard his cry and saw him lying there. My heart wept to leave him. He wanted me to take his money, but I just kissed his hand and went on. I suppose he died, for I could not find him when we retreated.

"Another French soldier lay on the edge of a wood, ten miles from Luneville. When he recovered consciousness he saw there were only dead and dying men around him. He remained for two days, unable to move his shattered limbs, and cried out for death to relieve him of his agony.

"At night he was numbed by cold, in the day thirst tortured him to the point of madness. Faint cries and groans came to his ears across the field. It was on the morning of the day that French peasants come to rescue those who still remained alive."

Guerrilla Warfare Now On.

Continuing, the correspondent says:

"After the heavy battle of Sept. 4, when the Germans were repulsed with severe losses after an attack in force, both sides retired for about fourteen miles and dug themselves into lines of trenches, which they still hold.

"But every day since that date there has been a kind of guerrilla warfare with small bodies fighting; from village to village and from wood to wood the forces on each side being scattered over a wide area in advance of their main line. This method of warfare is even more terrible than a pitched battle."

Deputy's Demand for Explanation of Delay in Arms Manufacture Brings Up Question.

ROME, via Paris, Sept. 27.—Sig. Monti-Guarnieri, deputy from Pesaro, has called upon the ministry of war for an explanation of the delay in the manufacture of cannon ordered from Italian firms. Parliament not being in session, the interrogation, in the absence of an official reply, may cause some uneasiness.

It is semi-officially stated that the question concerns eighty-seven field batteries. The delivery of the guns of seventy-five millimeters was delayed owing to a modification in the specifications made after the order had been given.

However, 400 of the guns already have been delivered and 100 more will be ready before the end of the year.

LITTLE PARTY OF FRENCH STANDS OFF 5,000 GERMANS.

Only Thirteen Survive After Fifty Have Fought with Large Body of Enemy.

ON THE BATTLE FRONT, via Paris, Sept. 27.—A French lieutenant, M. Verlin, is the hero of the day as the result of an affair in which he was the main figure yesterday.

The lieutenant and fifty men of his company were reconnoitering ten miles in advance of the main body on the Oise river when they encountered 5,000 Germans. The Frenchmen took refuge in near by woods and from this shelter fired volleys until only thirteen of their detachment remained alive, and of these four were wounded. The party then crept away.

The Germans hesitated to attack the woods for fear of a trap.

VILLA TELLS CARRANZA TO QUIT OR FIGHT

Demands Former Friend Turn Office Over to Calderon.

ONLY HOPE FOR PEACE

Chihuahua, Mexico, Sept. 27.—Immediate resignation of Gen. Venustiano Carranza as first chief of the Constitutionalists is the only basis on which Gen. Francisco Villa will agree to settlement of differences between himself and Carranza.

This was his reply today to messages from officials in Mexico City, who protested against his attitude towards Carranza.

Text of Villa's Reply.

Gen. Villa's reply, as given out here today, follows:

"I lament the circumstances that have brought about grave danger, but sincerely protest that my sole ambition will be to arrange existing difficulties without shedding blood if possible.

"I emphatically state, however, that the only move that can bring about cessation of hostilities on my part is that Venustiano Carranza deliver supreme command to Fernando Iglesias Calderon so that, in the shortest possible time, elections may be called.

Not to Accept Carranza.

"At the same time I declare I shall not accept Carranza as president or vice president or president ad interim of the republic.

"I shall prove the rectitude of my intentions and the disinterestedness which animates the force of this division.

Obregon to Meet Villa Envoy.

Mexico City, Sept. 27.—Gen. Alvaro Obregon, the Carranza commander, and three generals left here for Aguas Calientes this afternoon to meet a like commission from Gen. Francisco Villa's army in an attempt to adjust the difficulties existing between Villa and Carranza.

Calderon a Liberal.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 27.—Fernando Iglesias Calderon, the choice of Gen. Villa for president of Mexico, some months ago was mentioned as a possibility for the presidency while on a trip to Washington, where he conferred with American officials. He at present is in Mexico City, it is said.

Calderon is leader of the Liberal party, a political organization which allied itself with the Constitutionalists in the revolution.

It has been announced that he would run at the elections.

PUT HOPE IN CALDERON.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Fernando Iglesias Calderon is the man upon whom those in close touch with the Mexican situation here are pinning their hopes for permanent peace in the southern republic.

It is generally believed in diplomatic circles that Gen. Carranza will retire on or before next Thursday, Oct. 1, and that the convention called for that date at Mexico City will choose Iglesias provisional president.

Word was received at the state department today that Gen. Natera, the commander of the Constitutionalist forces of the central division, with headquarters at Zacatecas has notified Villa that he will support him in the present break.

Zacatecas was one of the last places taken by the Constitutionalist forces in their campaign against Huerta, and there are only one or two important points between it and Mexico City.

Carranza Loses Supporters.

The desertion of Carranza by Gen. Natera leaves Carranza with only two of his four generals. The two who are still standing by the first chief are Pablo Gonzales, who is head of the eastern division, and Gen. Obregon, who is head of the western division. Villa himself was head of the northern division of the army.

With Villa and Natera in the field against him, and with Zapata, the bandit

WAR NEWS SUMMARIZED

For three long days without cessation the Germans have hurled their masses against the French and English along the entire front in northern France. The French official view is that these operations, the fiercest that have yet taken place, are by high command, meaning possibly direct instructions from the emperor himself.

Their purpose has been to break through the allied lines, but both French and British official reports say they have failed. From Paris it is announced that not only have the Germans not been able to achieve their object but they have lost a flag, guns, and men in the attempt.

The British are laconic.

"The situation is satisfactory," the report reads, "and the counter attacks on the British front have been beaten back with heavy losses to the enemy."

The bayonet has played an important part in these engagements, where the men in the trenches on the one side or the other, only a few hundred yards apart, come to grips with steel after the positions have been shelled and raked with rifle fire.

The French claim appreciable progress on the left wing and a decisive victory over the famous Prussian guard in the center. Of the Woevre district, where the Germans have made gains in the last two or three days, little is said.

One of the remarkable things in this great battle, which has now entered upon its sixteenth day, is the spirit maintained by the troops. British, French, and Germans have withstood the most terrific shelling the world has ever known, an alost constant rain of bullets from the rifles and hand-to-hand encounters with gun and bayonet, but all reports agree that they are fighting with the same determination and tenacity as in the beginning and that even the commanders in some cases are having difficulty in holding their men back.

The German general staff, by way of Berlin, reports that the allies are using their railroads in a general attack on the extreme end of the right flank of the German army. The general staff also reports slight gains on the center of the battle front and an engagement with artillery south of Verdun.

The German casualty list, as officially reported from Berlin, numbers 104,589 up to date, of whom 15,674 are dead, 65,908 wounded, and 23,007 missing.

In the far east, according to Japanese reports, the Japanese have defeated the Germans on the outskirts of Tsingtau, capital of the German protectorate of Kiao-chow. Though the battle lasted fourteen hours, the losses so far as known were small.

German Zeppelins have dropped bombs on Belgian towns, a German aeroplane has paid another visit to Paris, dropping explosives in its flight, while a Zeppelin also has appeared above the city of Warsaw. But not much damage was done in any of these instances.

From Petrograd comes an official statement from the Russian general staff that the German attempts in Russian Poland have been repulsed and that the Germans are in retreat.

A Rome dispatch says the news has come from Vienna that the Russians have occupied most of the Galician stronghold of Przemysl and have driven the garrison into the eastern line of forts. The Russians also have occupied Dembica, on the railroad between Przemysl and Cracow and are within three marches of the latter fortress.

GERMANS PREPARE SIEGE OF ANTWERP; PLACE GUNS.

[By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The Weekly Observer prints this dispatch from its Antwerp correspondent:

"It is daily becoming more apparent that the Germans are preparing for a siege of Antwerp. Aviators have brought information to the effect that the Germans are entrenched ten or twelve miles beyond the outer line of fortresses and are merely biding their time. Their heavy guns are being brought up, which takes considerable time. The projectiles used in these guns weigh 2,500 pounds.

"The authorities calculate that the Germans must be prepared to lose 100,000 in killed and 600,000 wounded, which they probably know, as Antwerp is infested with spies."

BREAK OPEN POINCARE TOMB.

Germans Bury Number of Their Dead in Family Vault, Says Paris Report.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—At Nubecourt, home of the parents of President Poincare, the Germans broke upon the Poincare family funeral vault, it is reported, and buried a number of their dead there.

CZAR'S ARMY IS 80 MILES FROM CITADEL

PUSH INTO HUNGARY

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Sept 28, 5 a. m.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Times says it has been ascertained beyond doubt that the kaiser has arrived in East Prussia to direct the operations in that region.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—"The Russians on Saturday occupied the greater part of the city of Przemysl in Galicia, according to a message from Vienna," says the Rome correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company. "The Russians approached the city from the southwest, forcing the Austrians to take shelter in the eastern forts, where the entire garrison is now concentrated and is preparing to make a final resistance.

"The situation of the garrison is critical, as it is entirely surrounded.

"The Russian troops are advancing from Grodek on the Austrian position, while the right wing continues to attack from the north. Troops are being poured into the city of Przemysl to press the attack from the southwest."

Russians Close to Cracow.

A dispatch from Petrograd to the Morning Post says that the Russians who are pursuing the retreating Austrians have occupied Dembica, which is within one day's march of Tarnoff and three of Cracow. The population of Cracow is fleeing toward Vienna.

There have been Russian successes elsewhere. The Russians who captured Turka, which is high up on the Galician side of the Carpathians, have pushed over the mountains and captured Uzok, where a number of guns, stores, and prisoners were taken, and have descended to the plains of Hungary.

A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Petrograd says:

The Petrograd correspondent of the Daily Telegraph has forwarded the following semi-official statement regarding the operations in Russian Poland:

"The movement of German troops from East Prussia in the direction of Warsaw has come to nothing. In the government of Suwalki in Russian Poland the Germans have suffered a serious repulse. The left flank of the Russian army has defeated the troops under the command of Gen. von Hindenburg, near Suwalki.

"At the same time our troops won a complete victory at Mariampol, and the attacking Germans were thrown back ten miles across the River Scheschupa with a loss of many guns and prisoners. On the right flank, at the Niemen river, the battle ended in success for us at Snedniki, where a German attempt to cross the river was repulsed with great loss."

Battle Line Not Extensive.

A Petrograd dispatch to Reuter's Telegram company says:

"So far as is disclosed by the official announcements the fighting line on the East Prussian frontier does not exceed twenty miles. Both Sopotzkin and Druskeniki, where the Russians accepted battle, are on the left bank of the river Niemen. Sopotzkin is twenty miles west of Grodno.

"On the German right, in the vicinity of the river Bober, are vast marshes, rendering operations difficult. The Germans at one point are only twenty miles from the Warsaw-Petrograd railway, but the Russian troops and the river Niemen intervene."

Great Battle Expected Soon.

The Daily Mail correspondent at Petrograd wires:

"We are evidently on the eve of the long expected great German offensive. In accordance with the Germans' favorite

PARIS, Sept. 27.—Four bombs were dropped on the city from a German aeroplane today.

One missile, exploding in Avenue du Trocadero at the corner of Rue Freycinet, blew the head from the shoulders of a man who was with his daughter and crippled the child. The other bombs did little damage.

Crowds, taking advantage of a beautiful autumn day, were promenading on the banks of the Siene when the aerial warrior appeared almost directly over the Eiffel tower.

Try to Wreck Wireless Station.

It is believed the first bomb dropped was intended for the wireless station on the tower or possibly for the near by buildings containing army stores. It landed in Avenue du Trocadero not far from the tower, and the explosion was heard for many blocks.

The houses in the vicinity were badly damaged, many of the walls cracking and windows being shattered.

The bomb struck only a block from the American embassy at 5 Rue de Chaillot, where Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, who did not accompany the government to Bordeaux, still makes his home.

Parisians Flee for Shelter.

In the wake of the bomb fluttered a German flag. At the sound of the explosion the promenaders in that section first rushed for shelter and then, as the airship moved on, they hurried to where the bomb fell.

A cordon of police was quickly thrown about the débris and the mangled body of the man was found and removed. Near his body the girl was discovered. Her lower limbs had been shattered. Women in the crowd wept audibly as the child was borne to a hospital.

Among the houses damaged was the residence of the Prince of Monaco. The buildings containing army stores suffered considerably.

At the time of the attack services were being conducted in the American Holy Trinity church in Avenue de l'Alma. Many of the congregation fled to the street.

In the midst of the excitement the aeroplane dropped three more bombs. One landed among a herd of cows pastured on the Auteuil racecourse. One cow was killed and others toppled over stunned.

A third bomb fell in Rue Vineuse, and a fourth in Rue de la Pompe, a quarter in which many Americans live. Comparatively little damage was done in either instance.

The missiles dropped today were the most powerful of those that have been used in the aerial raids on the city.

Belgian Cities Hit.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—A German Zeppelin made a bomb dropping tour last night, visiting several Belgian cities, according to a dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company from Ostend. The airship passed over Alost, Ghent, Dynze, Mineibeke, and Rolleghem, dropping five bombs.

At Dynze a man 82 years old was badly wounded and may die. He was near a hospital, upon the roof of which a bomb struck, doing considerable damage to the building. Another bomb, dropped at Rolleghem, did no damage.

Retiring by way of Thielt, the Zeppelin dropped two bombs upon the gas works there, causing considerable monetary loss. The airship then proceeded by way of Courtrai in the direction of France.

Drop Bombs in Warsaw.

WARSAW, Sept. 27.—This morning (probably Saturday) at 5 o'clock a German Zeppelin appeared above the city and dropped many bombs, killing three soldiers.

The airship was fired upon, but succeeded in escaping to the vicinity of Novo-Georgiewsk (formerly called Modlin, twenty miles northwest of Warsaw), where the guns of the fortress brought it down.

FRENCH WIN, KILLING 20,000; DO NOT KNOW IT, BRITON SAYS

Reports Crown Prince's Army Defeated with Loss of 100,000 in Action That Saved Paris.

[By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 28, 3 a. m.—A correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, writing from Sezanne on Sept. 21, claims to be able to reveal the secret that the action which saved Paris was the thorough defeat of the crown prince's army.

"The French," he said, "did not know the extent of the damage which they had inflicted and indeed have not claimed a victory, but they had actually smashed the flower of the German military power.

"The impression that the great battles near Paris began with Von Kluck's defeat is a mistaken one. Von Kluck's misfortunes are directly due to the retirement of the German left on the night of Sept. 6, after a smashing defeat that day, when it lost 100,000 men, of whom 20,000 were killed.

"The French also suffered very severe losses, one army corps being practically annihilated.

"The total artillery expenditure was 4,000 shells.

JOFFRE DENIES LOOKOUTS WERE IN REIMS CATHEDRAL.

French General Says That German Excuse for Firing on Building Is Without Foundation.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—The French embassy made public the following communication today:

"The French government has been informed that the German government officially alleges that the bombardment of the Reims cathedral (first denied, and now openly acknowledged by its authors) had been caused by a French post of observation having been established on the cathedral.

"A telegram of Gen. Joffre to the minister of war shows that the destruction was, as stated before, without the shadow of an excuse. The telegram is as follows:

"'The Fifth (French) army had occupied Reims until Sept. 18 and then was relieved by the Ninth. Both declare they established no post of observation on the cathedral, the systematic bombardment of which began on the 19th at 3 p. m.'"

ARTHUR M. TREE IS DEAD IN HIS HOME IN ENGLAND.

Cables Bring News of Death of Son of Late Chicago Jurist—Lived Abroad for Years.

Arthur M. Tree, only son of the late Judge Lambert Tree of Chicago, died Saturday in Southampton, England, according to cable dispatches received here yesterday. Mr. Tree was a former husband of a daughter of the late Marshall Field, now the wife of Admiral David Beatty of the English navy.

Mr. Tree had resided in England for many years. He owned a large country estate in Warwickshire. His father, who died at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York on Oct. 9, 1910, after returning from a visit to his son, was a Chicago pioneer and a leader in Democratic politics. The old family residence was at Cass and Ontario streets, but Judge Tree spent a greater part of his time abroad filling various diplomatic posts. He took his son with him on most of these trips and his early residence in England caused Arthur Tree to decide to make it his home.

That Judge Tree did not like the idea of his son living abroad was shown by a wish expressed in his will that his grandson, Arthur Ronald Tree, now 17 years old, be educated in the United States. The net income of the estate was bequeathed to Arthur Tree until his son should reach the age of 30 years, when he was to continue to receive three-fourths of the income and Arthur Ronald Tree one-fourth.

A special trust fund of $50,000 also was left to the Merchants Loan and Trust company, Arthur Tree, and Seymour Morris, as trustees, to be held for the grandson until he reached the age of 30.

GERMANS REPORT 104,589 DEAD, WOUNDED, MISSING.

Latest Casualty List Issued in Berlin Adds 10,527 to Those Known Before.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—The total German casualties in dead, wounded, and missing, as officially reported to date, are 104,589. The casualty list announced today adds a total of 10,527 casualties to those previously announced.

MAY DECIDE BATTLE

ON THE BATTLE FRONT, via Paris, Sept. 28, 1 a. m.—Desperate attempts of the Germans to break through the western end of the allies' army and stop the turning movement yesterday resulted in the most furious fighting of the whole campaign.

Corps after corps of the Germans were hurled against the flower of the French and English armies in bayonet charges, only to be thrown back with enormous losses.

The engagement extended over nearly two-thirds of the whole battle front, and even where the charges were not made the fighting by the millions of troops was almost hand to hand, as the two lines are only a few hundred yards apart.

ARTILLERY TAKES A PART.

The infantry bore the brunt of the incessant fighting, but the artillery of both armies continued throughout twenty-four hours to bombard each other's positions.

The French colonial infantry, most of whose men wear many medals for bravery displayed in colonial campaigns, was to the fore, and beside these men fought the Black Sengalese troops, while further along the line the British troops held an important point with the greatest determination.

The French troops showed more than their accustomed dash in attacks, and everywhere acts of wonderful courage were performed. The cavalry also participated in the engagements at many points, the allies' horses having enjoyed a long rest, which enabled this arm of the service to distinguish itself.

PERILS WHOLE GERMAN LINE.

It is thought that the Germans now realise that only by holding their extreme right and driving the allies back can they hope to keep their positions on the rest of the line. If the right should be crumpled back it would force the retirement of the whole army on the center, and it is possible another defensive position could not be taken by the invaders in France.

For days the allies had been pounding at the extreme right of the Germans and their advance had been steady, although slow. It was this progress which led the Germans to taking the offensive.

The allied armies in their advances had constantly "dug themselves in" at each new position gained and their entrenchments are almost as strong as forts. It is these entrenchments which the Germans are now trying to storm. Their bayonet charges are continued by day and by night.

GERMANS ADMIT ALLIED GAIN.

[By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The great battle in France today turned into desperate fighting at close quarters on nearly two-thirds of the whole line.

The official dispatches given out in Paris and Berlin are both optimistic in tone. The messages from Paris say that the allies have "made marked progress" on the left wing, which is attempting a turning movement around the German right. These dispatches assert that the vicious counter-attacks of the Germans have been repulsed with enormous losses.

From Berlin there comes the first official announcement which in any way admitted that the allies are getting the better of the contest. The statement issued from the German headquarters tonight, while insisting the allies' attack had been repulsed, still referred to it as an advance.

Neither army has achieved anything notable since the allies have reported progress in one direction. The allies at one point claim to have thrown back a desperate advance by the crack Prussian guard, and the Germans insist that today, with a weaker force, their right has checked the advance of a mixed French and British force brought up by rail.

Recurring references to bayonet charges seem to prove conclusively that this picturesque and romantic phase of warfare, which it was thought had been killed by the advent of the great guns and other equipment of modern armies, is not all a thing of the past.

The desperate struggle of the Germans to fling back the onslaughts of the allies between the Somme and the Oise shows that they realize that the fate of their campaign depends on the result to be attained there.

"First—On our left wing the battle has been continued with perceptible progress on our part. On the front between the rivers Oise and Somme and on the north of the Somme from the Aisne to Reims violent attacks by the Germans have been made at several points, some of them being at the point of the bayonet, but they were all repulsed. In many places the French and German trenches were not more than 100 yards apart.

"Second—In the center, from Reims to Souain, the Prussian guard has undertaken unsuccessfully a vigorous offensive, being hurled back in the region of Berry-Au-Bac (eleven miles northeast o. Reims and about twenty-five miles east of Soissons) and Nogent l'Abbesse (three miles due east of Reims). From Souain the enemy yesterday morning made a successful attack between the highway leading from Sommepy to Chalons-Sur-Marne and the line of the railway from St. Menehould to Vouziers. At the end of the day our troops regained the ground that they had lost.

"Between the region of the Argonne and the Meuse the enemy has not manifested any activity. On the heights of the Meuse nothing new has developed. In the southern part of the Woevre district the Germans occupy a front which passes by St. Mihiel and to the northwest of Pont-a-Mousson.

"On our right wing, in Lorraine, the Vosges and Alsace, there has been no important change."

STATEMENT MADE IN BERLIN.

The Berlin statement, in the form of a message from the headquarters of the German general staff, says:

"The enemy are using their railroads in a general attack on the extreme end of the right flank of the German army.

"At Bapaume (in Pas de Calais, fourteen miles southeast of Arras) an advanced French division was repulsed by a smaller German force.

"In the center of the battle front we have made slight gains.

"The forts under bombardment south of Verdun have withdrawn their fire and our artillery is now engaged with forces which the enemy brought up on the west bank of the Meuse.

SUM UP LATE ACTIVITIES.

Another statement in Paris, summing up the activities of the last few days, says:

"It is confirmed that since the night of the 25th to the 26th and up to far into the day of the 27th the Germans have not ceased, night or day, to renew on the entire front attacks of unprecedented violence, with the determined purpose of trying to break through our lines.

"These attacks were made with a uniformity which denotes instructions from the highest command to seek the solution of the battle.

"Not only have they not been able to accomplish it, but during the action we have captured one flag, some cannon, and many prisoners. The flag was taken from the enemy by the Twenty-fourth regiment of colonial infantry.

"All our army commanders make special mention of the fact that the morale of our troops, notwithstanding this uninterrupted struggle, continues to be excellent and that they themselves even have trouble to hold back the troops in their desire to rush on the enemy, who is sheltered in defensive positions."

BELGIANS FIGHT GERMANS.

The following official statement, issued at Antwerp today, has been received by Reuter's Telegram company:

"Yesterday (Saturday) a detachment of German troops, comprising one brigade of infantry, two regiments of cavalry, and two heavy and four light batteries of artillery, was surprised on the march from Brussels to Termonde via Alost. Attacked on the front and flank, they retired in disorder towards Assche, leaving in Belgian hands many prisoners, wounded, and caissons.

"Today (Sunday), apparently in revenge for this check, Malines was bombarded by long range guns, and our front between Malines and Alost was subjected to a general attack by strong forces. Toward Alost the Belgian cavalry division succeeded in taking the German left wing on the flank, and generally our troops maintained their positions.

"At Malines the railway station suffered severely from the bombardment. Numerous houses are in ruins and others have been burned. A dozen civilians were killed and many wounded."

FEVER HALTS GERMAN ARMY.

Typhoid Invades Forces Before Antwerp, Says Correspondent of London Express.

LONDON, Sept. 28, 3:15 a. m.—"An epidemic of typhoid fever has broken out among the Germans in the field before Antwerp and large numbers of the invaders have been stricken," says the Antwerp correspondent of the Daily Express.

TROOPS GATHER AT MARSEILLES TO JOIN ALLIES

British, Scotch, Russians and Arabians There, Carolyn Wilson Says.

SCOUTS TALES OF CRUELTY

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TRIBUNE.]

MARSEILLES, Sept. 12.—It did not need the quickly falling nights nor the dark, dusky beauty of the faces in the streets to assure me that I was in the south. I had already made acquaintance with the fleas; I had understood with difficulty the wordy burring speech of the Midi, and I had bowed and smiled and "meci-ed" incessantly to the many little courtesies and gallantries which were offered me by all ranks of men, from crossing policemen to railroad managers.

Having experienced these typically southern things, it is a wonder that I was surprised at the sight of Marseilles. But even the oldest inhabitants in their zeal to praise the city do not pretend that in its palmiest days it ever had the bustle and life and zest of its today.

There is every nationality under the sun in its streets. There is every type of uniform and every style of peasant dress. It has been the mecca of every refugee and now the streets bustle and overflow with a cosmopolitan group that it would be hard to equal.

See British at Tea.

In the biggest hotel you see a dozen English soldiers grouped around a tea table at 4 in the afternoon, neat and business-like in their khaki.

Go down the Cannobière a little farther and at one of the restaurants are ten Scotch laddies resplendent in tartan kilts, or, if the day is rainy, wearing hearty plaid trousers that even a boy of five would howl upon being put into.

There are Russian soldiers who have come in by way of the Black sea, at least that is the translation I made of their halting French.

And every day about noon, if you go to the busiest corner of this busy city, you will see hundreds of Arabian troops passing through on horseback. Their fiery, lean little steeds are curbed in so tightly that nearly every mouth is bleeding. The Arabs themselves are the most picturesque people of the war. The common soldiers wear great capes of a dull blue lined with white, and their heads are covered with the high rope caps covered with white linen, beside which their dusky faces show with an added contrast.

Wear Splendid Robes.

Their leaders have splendid loose robes of spotless linen. The chief of one of the regiments was swathed in a cape of white silk, embroidered in elaborate designs. Countless medals were pinned on his breast, and behind his huge European spectacles his eyes gleamed friendly greetings to the hurrahs and clapping of the crowd.

Every evening the street is full of Arabs, standing grouped on corners and talking in a fascinatingly unintelligible language which makes me draw near the charmed circle with the same degree of enthusiasm of all the young people of Marseilles who follow them around.

By order of the prefecture, all the restaurants are closed each night at 10, and poor Marseilles takes it much harder than Paris did. The men stand uneasily around on the street corners and wait for the latest communiqué to come out. They gather in little knots around the Arabs, or they stand in long lines to cheer some British soldiers who are leaving for "directions unknown," as the papers always say.

Many Young Men Seen.

The ordinary population of Marseilles includes 100,000 Italians. They are still all here, and that accounts mainly for the large amount of young and middle aged men in the streets. It was the greatest contrast imaginable to Paris, where all the youths have gone and you see only old men and very young boys. But here the streets are fuller than any street Paris can boast. Indeed, they have a proverb here which goes something like this: "If Paris only had a Cannobiere [the main boulevard], it would be a little Marseilles."

Every day new refugees arrive with harrowing tales from the front. I try to forget that they have told me these things. For I know that the German papers print the same things about the French, and I hope they both are exaggerations. I lived in Berlin for a long time, I have many friends among the people, and it seems impossible that the events of a moment could wipe out all the admirable traits of generations.

Everywhere along the road, coming down here, I met wounded. Most of them, of course, were very slightly hurt, and were going to return as soon as possible. But there was no enthusiasm in their voices when they said it.

Boys Go to the War.

In the little mountainous regions, coming down from Clermont-Ferrand, every tiny village, so successfully hidden out of sight in the hills that you wonder always where the people came from, was making the sacrifice of its youngest for the country. All the boys of 18, the class of 1915, had been called, and these mere infants were crowding on the trains, delighted to go and join their fathers on the front after six weeks' training in a garrison near Nice. It seemed like wholesale slaughter to send such young things out on the field of battle.

Bordeaux has now become nearly as cosmopolitan a city as Marseilles, since all the refugees as well as all the familiar Parisian faces are to be found there. The rich Americans have gone to Biarrits and to San Sebastian, and are proceeding to enjoy themselves by making both those places into the lively summer places they were before the war.

Several of the Paris newspapers have already withdrawn to Bordeaux, in order to be right on hand for the official communications and to serve the country more quickly than the train service will now permit at Paris.

Map Showing Russian Advance.

The Russian campaign is rapidly approaching a climax in the accomplishment of the first stage of the march to Berlin. This will come with the attempt to capture Cracow in western Galicia, practically at the entrance to Silesia.

According to the latest advices from the eastern seat of war, the fortified camp of Przemysl has been isolated and some of the forts captured. The importance of this development cannot be ignored when it is taken into consideration with the fact that its investment comes at the close of a hard fought campaign in which the invading army of the Austrians was smashed back from Lubin in Russian Poland, decisively defeated, and put into flight toward Cracow.

So far the Russian campaign has resolved itself into three parts.

1. A northern movement from Kovno and Grodno towards Insterburg and Konigsberg. This was at first eminently successful, but has been forced back, and it has only been in the last day or two that the Russians have been able to take the offensive against the Germans who invaded Russia from the extreme east end of East Prussia.

2. A central movement from Warsaw towards Posen, with supporting movements north and south against Thorn and Breslau.

3.—A southern movement on Lublin and the clearing of Galicia, north of the Carpathian mountains, of the big Austrian army that had advanced from Lemberg, Jaroslau, and Cracow.

The German main defenses against Russia extend in a general line from Koenigsberg to Danzig, thence south along the Vistula to the great fortress of Thorn. From there it swings to the southwest to Posen, thence south to Breslau, the main fortress along the Oder, and from there to Cracow.

From now on the Russians will meet with determined resistance from the Germans in their advance on Cracow. The kaiser has thrown out a strong line from Posen and Breslau extending to Cracow, and has formed a juncture with the Austrians. A decisive battle will no doubt be fought within the next week in the region of Cracow and to the north along the frontier between Russian Poland and Silesia.

JAPANESE WIN 14 HOUR BATTLE WITH GERMANS

CHINA PROTESTS ADVANCE

TOKIO, Sept. 27.—It is officially announced that the Japanese have defeated the Germans in a stubborn battle lasting fourteen hours on the outskirts of Tsing-Tau, seat of the government on the German island possession of Kiau-Chau, China.

The Japanese casualties, so far as ascertained, are given as three killed and twelve wounded.

According to the statement, the fight began on Sept. 26. German gunboats bombarded the positions of the Japanese troops. Japanese aeroplanes proved effective in reconnoitering expeditions and are reported to have escaped unharmed.

Pei-Ho Lost to Germans.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Peking says it is officially announced there that Pei-Ho was occupied on Sept. 27 by a small Japanese detachment, which repulsed 300 Germans.

Japs Advance in China.

PEKING, Sept. 28.—It is learned from Wei-Hsien, in Shantung, that a second detachment of Japanese troops arrived there at sundown on Saturday with fifteen cartloads of ammunition and supplies.

Other troops have advanced west along the railway and hold Fangtse, where the Germans flooded the coal mines before their departure. All the Chinese miners fled.

The American mission is crowded with women of all classes from the city and country districts. They are said by the correspondent at Wei-Hsien to fear both the Japanese and the Chinese soldiers.

GERMANS USING NIGHT ATTACKS

MEN WORK IN RELAYS.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The night attack employed by the German army will prove a greater terror than aeroplanes or Zeppelins, in the opinion of the officers of the general staff. It was learned today that they are marveling at the audacity of the German commanders in using this movement with large bodies of troops.

Reading between the lines of the reports sent from Paris and London, American officers have concluded that the German commanders have divided their forces into two sections. One section is on the firing line during the day while the other organizations retire to their rests and sleep.

When the day's fighting is over, the night force is ordered to the front and begin their operations under the cover of darkness. After having been on the firing line all day, some of the organizations, it is believed, are marched into new positions at night so that the lines of the German army are continually shifting. This is done to keep the enemy's artillery from locating the different mobilization points.

Well Trained Troops Needed.

The night attack is the latest military movement. Only a few years ago night attack problems were taken up by the general staff of the army. It requires the highest trained troops and has not been undertaken by a large organization.

Night manuevers are of an older origin and were employed extensively by the Japanese in the Russo-Japanese war. In this war troops were lined up during the night for an early morning attack. Such movements were employed by commanders in the civil war, but not as extensively and in such a scientific manner as in the Russo-Japanese war.

The Japanese commanders made a few night attacks, but they were met with disastrous results. Apparently, the Japanese army had not reached that high state of efficiency which made night attacks effective. They proved more disastrous and demoralizing to the Japanese troops than to the Russians. But if the reports are to be relied upon, the German commanders are employing an entirely different system of night attacks and are relying upon them for their offensive work in the present campaign.

Must Instruct Each Man.

In undertaking a night attack not only the company commanders but privates of an army must receive special instructions every night. The commanding officers of the advance guard are furnished with compasses and pocket flashlights. They carry maps of the line over which they are to advance, and with the aid of compasses follow the route which has been laid out by the commander of the force on a previous day.

Secret passes and signs are communicated to every officer and enlisted man in the attacking force. Often badges are placed on the arms and hats of the officers and soldiers. All these precautions are taken so that the enemy can be distinguished when it is met in the dark.

Cannot Use Field Artillery.

If the attacking force is able to hold the position which they capture at night until daybreak, it is relieved in the morning by reinforcements and retires to the rear to rest for the next night's operation.

It has become evident that the German commanders intend to rely upon this mode of fighting to drive back the allies. If it is successful, the German commanders will be able to overcome the effectiveness of the fire of the modern French field artillery. Field artillery will be of little effect against night attacks, as it must depend almost entirely upon searchlights to locate the German troops. The use of searchlights will expose the position of the French to an attack from German field artillery.

RUSSIAN FORCES ENTER PRZEMYSL

strategy, they are concentrating all their might to deliver a heavy blow at one of the enemy's flanks, contenting themselves with a defensive attitude on the other fronts.

"As far as it is possible to estimate the Germans number thirty army corps of the line and the first reserve. These are divided into three groups. The southern one, consisting of three army corps that has been coöperating with the Austrians in Galicia, is now concentrating at Cracow. The central group, consisting of four or five army corps, is distributed along the River Wartha, which forms the boundary of the Polish governments of Kalish and Petrokov.

Great Army in East Prussia.

"This group connects the southern Austro-German group with the northern group in East Prussia. The latter is by far the strongest of all and numbers probably twenty-two or twenty-three army corps, amounting to 900,000 men, ready for active field operations, not counting the landwehr and landsturm, which are doing garrison service.

"The concentration of this huge army is hardly entirely completed. Information at hand seems to indicate that the enemy's first strategical object will be to break up Gen. Rennenkampf's army, which forms the right wing of all the Russian forces now in the field.

"If they succeed in this move the German main force will turn on the Warsaw army with the strategical object of taking Warsaw or Brestletowsk. The Russians, however, are well aware of what is doing and have had ample time to take what measures are necessary."

All Austrians and Germans remaining within the respective radii of the fortresses of Cronstadt, Petrograd, and Viborg, according to a Petrograd dispatch to the Daily Telegraph, will be tried as spies. The use of the German language in these districts is prohibited.

Retreat of Germans Reported.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 27.—The general staff today gave out the following official statement:

"The German attempts to cross the Riven Niemen, near Druseniki in Russian Poland, have been foiled by our forces. The German artillery has been unable to oppose our offensive movement near Sopotzkin. The German retreat toward the government of Suwalki has become general. The fortress of Ossowetz continues to resist the German heavy siege artillery with success.

"The fights in Galicia have been marked by especial tenacity, particularly at a hill where the Hungarians were dislodged from three positions and withdrew in disorder. We have taken a whole battery and several hundred prisoners. The pursuit of the enemy continues.

"The fords of the River Visiok are occupied by the Russians. The Austrian rear guards have fallen back toward Dounaietz."

Austria Calls on Reservists.

ROME, via Paris, Sept. 27.—Dispatches from Austria report that a decree has been issued which says:

"In view of the heroic dash of the Austrian army the emperor has granted the reservists the honor to go and fight for the defense of the fatherland."

The Austrian reservists are men of mature age, with families. They are not legally required to leave their provinces, but they will be sent to Galicia or the Servian frontier.

FRENCH OFFICIAL REPORT.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Russian advances toward Cracow, marked by the capture of Rzcasow, were indicated today in official dispatches to the French embassy.

SERVIANS ADMIT HEAVY LOSSES

PUSH ON IN BOSNIA.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—A dispatch to the Havas agency from Nish, Servia, dated Sept. 24 and delayed in transmission, says:

"The Servians have lost heavily during the battle with the Austrians which has been progressing for a fortnight. The Austrians have brought five army corps into action. With several brigades of fresh troops they crossed the River Drina and attacked the Servians, whose numbers were inferior.

"Over 30,000 Austrians, with much artillery and many machine guns, advanced with the object of reaching Kroupani, Valy, and Evo. The Servians beat back the Austrian left wing, which lost 10,000 men in killed and wounded. In the center, however, the Servians were compelled to retire six miles. Later the Servians forced the Austrian right wing also to retreat with enormous losses.

CHINESE STATE RELIGION AIM OF YUAN SHI KAI?

President Officiates Today at Confucian Temple—Christians Protest Against Move.

PEKING, Sept. 28, 1:35 a. m.—Between the hours of 3 and 6 o'clock this morning President Yuan Shi Kai will officiate at the first annual ceremony at the Confucian temple.

Strict military precautions have been taken because of the danger to which the president was exposed when he left the palace a year ago.

Yuan Shi Kai issued a mandate directing that Confucianism be again taught in the schools throughout the country and appointing a day when the president, like the former monarchs, should repair to the Temple of Confucius.

Christians and those of other faiths protested and Yuan Shi Kai in a second mandate declared that he had no intention of creating a state religion. The general opinion, however, appears to be that today's ceremony will be equivalent to establishment of a state religion.

SAYVILLE LICENSE ISSUED.

Authorizes Charge of 75 Cents a Word Between Wireless Station and Nauen, Germany.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—A license to operate the wireless station at Sayville, L. I., as a "limited publik service station" was issued yesterday by the department of commerce.

Assistant Secretary Sweet of the department wrote the Atlantic Communication company, which owns the station, as follows:

"The license forwarded to you today authorizes you to collect the rate of 75 cents a word between Sayville and Nauen, Germany, up to noon on Jan. 1, 1915. In the meantime it may be possible for you to increase your power or in other respects improve your communication. The license will terminate at the hour and day named, and you may then apply for a new license at lower rates."

The possibility of operating the Marconi wireless station at Siasconset, Mass., of which the government has taken possession because of failure to observe censorship regulations, was discussed, but no conclusion reached.

leader, also in arms against Carranza, and with Gen. H. Aguilar, the former federal commander, with a body of Huerta's old troops near Vera Cruz siding with Villa, the days of the first chief's rule in Mexico City seem to be numbered.

Time for Catholic Protest.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 27.—Intimating that it was time for Catholics in the United States to protest to the Washington government against the alleged brutal treatment of thousands of Catholics in Mexico, Bishop Joseph Schrembs of Toledo preached a striking sermon at the cathedral here this morning.

The occasion was the opening of the thirteenth annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies. Cardinal Gibbons approved of the bishop's sermon. The cardinal imparted the papal benediction to the members of the federation.

Cites Russian Jew Case.

Bishop Schrembs contrasted the great outcry from "men of all faiths and of no faith" over the imprisonment a few years ago of a Russian Jew for alleged ritual murder with the seeming indifference of the American people to conditions in Mexico, where "not one individual but thousands upon thousands of Catholic men and women are being outraged and in many cases brutally murdered."

He declared that priests and bishops have been robbed of all they possessed, tortured and exiled, and that "numbers of women who have sacrificed their lives for their Catholic faith have been handed over to that which is worse than death—the lust of an inhuman soldiery."

Time for Action, Not Words.

The bishop said that he honored the sentiment once uttered by "a great political genius who helps steer the wheel of government," that "suffering humanity should not be crucified with a cross of gold."

"But I feel tempted," he added, "in this present crisis, when men and women, because of religious faith and conviction, are made to drink the bitter cup of religious persecution to the very dregs, to say to this political genius, 'Here is a splendid field for translating rhetoric into action.'"

French Minister's Son Hero.

BOER CHIEF TO AID ALLIES.

Joubert-Pienaar Will Fight with Gen. French, Whom He Opposed in South Africa.

BORDEAUX, Sept. 27.—The Boer general, François Joubert-Pienaar, has arrived at Bordeaux to offer his sword to the allied armies.

"I fought against Gen. French in South Africa. Now I am going to fight with him," the general said. "I commanded a Boer army opposed to him at Elandslaagte, where I received my baptism of fire in civilized warfare. I have offered my services unconditionally.

"The war will be long and fierce. The German army, which I know well, is the finest fighting machine in the world, but we shall beat it in the end because our armies are something better than a machine."

PEACE FOREVER IF GERMANS WIN? WAR OTHERWISE?

Representative Bartholdt Makes Prediction During Teuton Day Speech.

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Terrace garden throbbed for six solid hours this afternoon and evening under the cheers and songs of 5,000 German-Americans. They roared their support of the fatherland in its time of peril, wept a little, and hailed the day when the German flag should "fly over Paris and London."

All the German singing societies in the city took part in the celebration of Germany day, and a hundred school children sang "Deutschland Uber Alles" and "Die Wacht Am Rhein," which were illustrated by tableaux.

That Germany has only the best of feeling for the United States was the statement of Prof. Eugene Kuhnemann of the University of Breslau.

"Between the Germany of victory and the Germany of liberty on the one hand and the United States on the other," he said, "there will be eternal friendship."

Predicts Peace Forever.

And Congressman Richard Bartholdt of Missouri backed this up in a stirring speech. He predicted disarmament and permanent world peace in case the two German nations should be in a position to dictate the terms of peace, while in his judgment permanent war would result from the defeat of the German arms.

"The hostile attitude of a large part of the American press toward Germany," he said, "is the most bitter disappointment of my life. While on German day we usually point with justifiable pride to the history of the American Germans, today we are obliged to ask the humiliating question whether our diligent cooperation in the upbuilding of this country has even been noticed by our non-German contemporaries.

False Stories Humiliate.

"If it had, we could at least have cherished the hope that our Anglo-American fellow citizens might have gained a more favorable conception of the country from which we hail, of its culture and its institutions than we now find expressed in the newspapers, a conception which we thought might have prevented the American press from printing the many absurd and outrageous stories which emanate from London and Paris to poison public opinion in our neutral country against Germany."

Not End of Japan.

Referring to Japan's entry into the war, Mr. Bartholdt said this did not portend any good to the United States.

"England's summons to the black men, the brown men, and the yellow men to fight its battles against a white and highly cultured nation," he said, "will not be the end of it. Japan will demand its pound of flesh, which is bound to be cut out of the skin of one Uncle Sam.

"Even now supremacy in the Pacific may have been promised the yellow man in return for his present aid and for the protection by Japan of India. Who, I ask you, would be America's natural ally, when that time comes?"

Under its treaty obligations England will be bound to back up the mikado, hence Germany again will be our only stand-by, as it was when, some years ago, John Hay looked around for support of his policy of the open door and Chinese neutrality. England and France came in only after Germany had demonstratively joined hands with our great secretary of state.

"For this very act, Japan asserts, the Germans are to be punished now, because it frustrated some fine Japanese plans. This being so, will not the mikado have it in for the United States for the same reason?"

Mr. Bartholdt characterized the outcry against German militarism as hypocritical.

"If the protest against militarism were sincere," he said, "I would rejoice in it, but, alas, it is not, for the same papers which are objecting to Germany's militarism are loudest in their support of American militarism.

"We are spending a larger proportion of our income for army, navy, and pensions than Germany does, hence it seems that republican institutions are no guarantee against the system which now is bending down the whole civilized world.

"England's navy is the climax of militarism, and France's army, too, proportionately larger than Germany's. Even the peace advocates, of whom I am one, admit that as long as the world remains an armed camp Germany has more justification in keeping up an efficient army than almost any other country."

GERMANS GET BRUSSELS READY FOR ALLIED ATTACK.

Hard to Enter or Leave City—Belt of Barb Wire Surrounds Town—Austrians Join Guard.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The Ostend correspondent of the Times says the following particulars of the actual state of affairs at Brussels were received from a gentleman who left there yesterday:

"It is becoming more and more difficult every day to enter or leave Brussels. Vendors of French and Belgian papers are especially hunted down. Five or six days ago eighteen of these vendors were arrested and kept for some time in the waiting room of the railway station. They were finally tried by court martial, but nothing has been learned of their fate. Only one newspaper, which is printed by the Germans, is authorized to be sold in Brussels.

"Meanwhile the garrison of the city is anything but idle. The soldiers are busily engaged in constructing defense work in the suburbs. A complete belt of barbed wire encircles the city, and a double line of trenches has now been completed.

"All barrels in the possession of the inhabitants have been requisitioned for use either in the creation of parapets or for being dug into the roads leading to the city, thus serving as road traps for the allied cavalry.

"The garrison was reinforced two days ago by 2,000 Austrian troops, who are encamped in the woods of Cambre and the forest of Soignes."

WOULD BUILD MONUMENTS TO GERMAN "ATROCITIES."

Belgian Appeals to Countrymen Thus to Shame Perpetrators—Urges Execution of 100 Offenders

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

OSTEND, Sept. 27.—A Belgian public man has issued an appeal to his countrymen to erect a monument in each city and village where atrocities have been committed. The object is to commemorate these acts and to give the names of the victims. The appeal says:

"Such permanent testimony in stone or bronze will be as cruel a punishment to German pride as material indemnities."

The appeal further recommends that 100 officers who are deemed to be the most guilty be selected from the army that invaded Belgium and publicly executed in the principal Belgian cities, such as Louvain, Aerschot, Dinant, and Tremonde, in which the crimes were perpetrated.

KING GEORGE SEES WOUNDED

With Queen Mary He Motors to Former Home of Empress Eugenie, Now a Hospital.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—King George and Queen Mary this afternoon motored from Aldershot to Farnboro hill, where they visited the residence of the former Empress Eugénie. A number of wounded officers are quartered there. During the forenoon their majesties visited the wounded at the Connaught hospital.

WANTS LOWER WEDDING FEES

Archbishop of Canterbury Urges All to Reduce Cost to Soldiers Who Would Wed.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The archbishop of Canterbury has sent a letter to all the bishops urging them to reduce the marriage license fees so that soldiers and sailors summoned to active service may marry before leaving home.

CHOLERA FOUND IN VIENNA WARDS; 70,000 PERILED

[By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Rome says a message received there from Vienna states that government bacteriologists have definitely established the presence of Asiatic cholera among the 70,000 wounded in the hospitals of Vienna.

It has been stated officially that an isolated case of cholera was discovered among Austrian soldiers who had returned wounded from Galicia, and unofficial advices received earlier from Vienna by way of Venice said that a total of nine cases of the disease had been discovered among the wounded soldiers.

These cases, however, were reported from widely separated points.

Dispatches from the Austrian frontier say the spread of cholera, especially in Hungary and Galicia, is causing anxiety. Lazarettes are being prepared to prevent the spread of the disease.

MORATORIUM IS CONTINUED BY DECREE OF CABINET.

French Officials Take Action During Meeting Which Is Held in Bordeaux.

BORDEAUX, Sept. 27.—The cabinet met today and adopted two decrees. One decree continues the moratorium during the month of October, but increases the amount of current bank accounts that may be withdrawn to one-fourth the total deposits.

The other decree makes all contracts between Frenchmen and subjects of the belligerents, drawn since the outbreak of hostilities, null and void.

It is explained that the French government considers that it would be contrary to the public welfare if contracts with belligerents made prior to the outbreak of the war were either suspended, if partially executed, or canceled by order of the court.

MORE REFUGEES REACH U. S.

Steamers Philadelphia and Espagne Return Americans from War Zone.

New York, Sept. 27.—Two transatlantic liners carrying many Americans from abroad reached port oday.

The American line steamer Philadelphia brought 674 passengers here from Liverpool—531 in the cabin and 143 in the steerage. For more than a thousand miles of the voyage a heavy fog prevailed and forced the steamer to run at reduced speed.

The other steamer reached port too late to dock tonight. This was the Espagne of the French line, from Havre, bringing mail, passengers, and merchandise. It anchored in quarantine until morning.

GERMANS UNABLE TO PAY.

Switzerland Manufacturer Told Bills Cannot Be Settled—No Money to Go Out of Empire.

BORDEAUX, Sept. 27.—A newspaper published at Chaux-de-Fonds, Switzerland, copies of which have been received here, declares that manufacturers of the Chaux-de-Fonds region have received letters from their German clients informing them that they are unable to settle their bills, it being contrary to the interests of Germany to send money out of the country.

Praises Humanity of Enemy.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—[By Wireless.]—Advices received here and officially made public say: "A captured Russian officer in a letter to the Novoe Vremya of Petrograd praises the humanity exhibited in German hospitals and the untiring efforts of the surgeons on behalf of their patients."

CHICAGO IRISH TO VISIT KAISER

United Societies Will Send Committee to Show Sympathy.

ASSAIL WAR CENSORS.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the United Irish Societies of Chicago it was planned to send a representative committee of Irish-Americans and German-Americans to Germany for the purpose of conveying the sympathies of the Irish Nationalists of this country to the kaiser and the German people. The action of the meeting, which was held secretly at the Hotel La Salle last week, was announced last night by James L. Dwyer, a member of the board.

"We have a special representative in Ireland now," said Mr. Dwyer. "He is preparing a report on conditions there with particular reference to the operation of the British news censorship which is poisoning the minds of the Irish people and trying to make them take up arms against the Germans."

The attitude of the organization toward Great Britain was expressed in the following resolution:

"Resolved, That we, the United Irish Societies of Chicago, having consistently supported and helped finance the fight for home rule, hereby condemn the efforts of the English and Irish press to compel the enlistment of Irishmen in the English army, and we contend that their campaign of vilification against Germany does not express the true sentiment of the Irish people.

"We recognize no obligation on the part of any Irishman to fight for the British empire, now and at all times the inveterate foe of Irish nationality; on the other hand, the German people have been the consistent friends of our countrymen at home and abroad, and their cooperation in helping to defeat the Anglo-American alliance treaties in the United States senate possibly has saved this nation from being dragged into the European conflict.

"We believe that Irish sympathy is no more with England now than at any time during the last 700 years, and we protest against the present campaign to misrepresent to the world the real sentiment of the Irish people and to induce our countrymen to fight again for a government which has never kept faith with them and is now withholding home rule to compel support in the present war."

LASKANS USE TRIBUNE MAPS

Editor of Nome Newspaper Says Big War Guide, Posted Up, Attracts Crowds.

A newspaper man from Alaska, visiting Chicago yesterday, brought word of the far-reaching popularity of the colored war maps published by THE TRIBUNE. His paper, the Nome Nugget, subscribes for THE TRIBUNE. The issue of Sunday, Aug. 9, reached Nome a few days before he left, Sept. 1.

The big colored map of Europe printed in that issue, he said, was posted up in the window of the Nugget offices and immediately attracted an interested and enthusiastic crowd of "war map fans," Americans, Eskimos, and miners of all nationalities from the interior mining regions. He reported that the interest in the progress of the war is just as intense among the inhabitants of the far northwest as he has found it to be here.

The Eskimos, he said, are the most ager for war news. They crowd around the office and when bulletins are posted up they consult THE TRIBUNE map for the location of the towns named.

DENY PROTEST BY THE POPE.

Berlin Hears Pontiff, When Told of Events at Reims, Expressed Satisfaction with Information.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—[By Wireless.]—A Rome telegram to the Cologne Gazette says that the French reports that Pope Benedict XV. has addressed a protest to the emperor of the German government regarding the damage done to the Notre Dame cathedral at Reims are incorrect. On the contrary, the message says, the Prussian envoy at the Vatican explained to the pontiff the real state of affairs. The latter expressed satisfaction at the information received.

GERMAN CLERGY ASSAIL ENEMIES AS CAUSE OF WAR

Federal Council of Churches Makes Document Public at New York.

New York, Sept. 27.—The Federal Council of Churches made public tonight a communication received from twenty-nine leading Protestant churchmen of Germany repudiating, on behalf of German christianity and the German government, responsibility for the European war and fixing it upon "those who have long secretly and cunningly been spinning a web of conspiracy against Germany, which now they have flung over us in order to strangle us therein." The communication is addressed: "To the Evangelical Churches Abroad."

"Its warlike tone," says a statement issued by the federal council," and vigorous denunciation of Germany's opponents is a matter of considerable surprise to members of the council."

Resent Blame for War.

"A systematic network of lies," the communication reads, "controlling the international telegraph service, is endeavoring in other lands to cast upon our people and its government the guilt for the outbreak of this war, and has dared to dispute the inner right of us and our emperor to invoke the assistance of God."

The communication proceeds to point to Germany's forty-three years of peace and to its material development "in friendly competition with other people," and declares that "only under compulsion to repel a wanton act has it now drawn the sword." Its frontiers threatened, Germany was compelled to protect itself "from being ravaged by Asiatic barbarism," it is declared.

Sees Nation at Stake.

"Over against a world in arms," the communication continues, "we recognize clearly that we have to defend our existence, our individuality, our culture, and our honor. No scruple holds back our enemies, where in their opinion there is a prospect through our destruction, of seizing for themselves an economic advantage, or an increase of power, a fragment of our motherhood, our colonial possessions, or our trade.

"We stand over against the raging of the peoples, fearless because of our trust in the holy and righteous God. Precisely because this war has been thrust upon us wantonly, it finds us a single people in which distinctions of race and rank, of parties and confessions have vanished. In a holy enthusiasm, not shrinking from battle and from death, and looking to God, we are all of one mind and prepared joyfully to stake our all for our land and for our liberty."

Vitriolic on Czar's Part.

It is declared that "unnamable horrors have been committed against Germans living peaceably abroad," and that "into the war which the czar has openly proclaimed as the decisive campaign against Teutonism and Protestanism, heathen Japan is now called under the pretext of an alliance."

"Not for the sake of our people, whose sword is bright and keen, but for the sake of the unique world task of the Christian people in the decisive hour of the world mission, we now address ourselves to the evangelical Christians abroad in neutral and inimical lands.

"Germany's Conscience Clear."

"If the peoples among whom missions and brotherly love had begun to be a power lapse into savagery in murderous war through hate and bitterness; if an incurable rent has been made in Teutonic Protestantism; if Christian Europe forfeits a notable portion of its position in the world; if the sacred springs from which its peoples should drive their own life and are able to offer it to others are corrupted and choked the guilt of this rests not on our people. We know full well that through this sanguinary judgment God is calling our nation to repentance, and we rejoice that it is hearing his holy voice and turning to him.

"But in this we know that we are alone with the Christians among our people; that we can and must repudiate on their behalf, and on behalf of their government the responsibility for the terrible crime of this war and all its consequences for the development of the kingdom of God on earth. With the deepest conviction we must attribute it to those who have long secretly and cunningly been spinning a web of conspiracy against Germany, which now they have flung over us in order to strangle us therein."

Professors Sign Document.

In addition to those of clergymen, the names of Prof. Eucken, the widely known German philosopher, and Profs. Harnack, Dryander, De Neufville, Le Seur, and Spiecker are attached to the statement.

The communication was made public with the following comment by the Rev. Charles C. McFarland, secretary of the council:

"I do not see how a statement of this kind can help matters. The American churches are endeavoring to maintain without interruption, the relations previously existing with the German churches, and with the churches of all other nations. Our attitude is more than one of neutrality; it is an attitude of conciliation."

WILL NOT STORM SARAJEVO.

Servians and Montenegrins Realize Impossibility and Plan to Cut Off City Instead.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, Sept. 27.—The bulk of the Servians have withdrawn beyond the Danube, which the Austrians have tried in vain to cross. The Servian forces operating in Bosnia abandoned the idea of investing Serajevo, which is so strongly fortified that it is impossible to storm it. Hence, in conjunction with the Montenegrins, the Servians have now decided merely to surround the city and cut off its communications.

CENSORS BLAMED FOR KEEPING WAR FEELING STRONG

Prof. Graham Taylor Says Withholding Horrors Tends to Prolong Fighting.

Press censorship will tend to prolong the European war in the opinion of Prof. Graham Taylor of Chicago Commons, who spoke yesterday at the joint meeting of the Forum and the Chicago Peace society at Hotel La Salle. His view is that if the horrors of the battle scenes were published in detail it would lessen the battle spirit and make overtures for peace more acceptable to all nations engaged in the conflict. Prof. Taylor spoke on "Personal Observations on the Outbreak of the Great War."

"Even the lists of the dead and wounded are withheld from publication by the press censors," he said. "The war has turned everything upside down, reversed all of the ideals of highest civilization the world has ever known, and in consequence the later generations will look back on us and call us the educated barbarians, the Christian assassins.

Pacifists Blamed for War.

"The pacifists have been blamed for this war. Even in our own country it is said if the United States got into trouble it would be the fault of the pacifists. There is no doubt that any professional military nation could consume us; no doubt of it after this experience. But would not increased armament be an incentive for attack?"

Prof. Taylor paid a tribute to the workingmen of the warring nations, saying that these men made the last stand against the arbitrament of the sword. He recounted the protests that had been made in Germany, France, Russia, and England.

Atavism, Says J. D. Shoop.

The war is to be explained as a case of "atavism in the life of nations," according to John D. Shoop, assistant superintendent of schools, who also spoke.

"As we stand on the wrecks of shattered hopes," he said, "as we perceive the obliteration of the work of centuries, we come to feel that it is atavism in the life of nations, a recurrence to a more brutal type on the pinnacle of civilization.

"The great antidote for militarism, the healing balm for the wounds of the nations is to be found through the agencies of education. The greatest word in the English language today is 'control.'"

Not Ready for Peace Yet.

Dr. Franklin H. Martin, who also was in Europe after the outbreak of hostilities, advised against the tendering of peace proposals at the present time.

Other speakers were H. C. Whitehead of La Grange and L. P. Lochmer, secretary of the Chicago Peace society.

An appeal was made to THE TRIBUNE yesterday to assist in locating Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Stewart and two daughters, who were last heard from in Bergen, Norway.

"Chicago Women Are Really Very Smart"

said a foreign style authority as he viewed several women leaving a prominent South Side Hotel on Hyde Park Boulevard. His remark is heard daily by us as we meet the men and women of the world who come to us for their corsets. Gossard Corsets are more than corsets. They are the largest part of a new democracy in American Styles, which is rapidly sweeping this country. Corsets are the foundation of all styles and Gossards are the accepted standard in corsetry today.

The new season emphasized a slightly higher bust for the figures which need bust support. One of many models shown by us is Model 414 at $10.00. There are others as low as $2.00. Be fitted to-day.

SIXTH ARTICLE.

AIX-LA-CHAPELLE, Sept. 13.—It was 5 o'clock in the evening of Aug. 26 that we left the little town of Soere-sur-Sambre to go to Beaumont, where the main column of the German army was said to be.

The distance was eight miles, a splendid road, running along the French frontier, and at one place passing through the little Belgian frontier custom house town. It was necessary to reach Beaumont before dark, for it would be dangerous to approach the German outposts after dark. Our progress was handicapped by our horse, which was very tired and which could hardly make more than five miles an hour.

The road was beautiful, as most of the Belgian main roads are, with great trees on each side and with patches of forest and well cultivated fields interspersed along the way. But now the road was grim in its brooding silence and in its devastation.

Hilltops Barricaded.

The road was deserted, and as it passed through the Bois l'Avesnes it was inexpressibly lonely. At the top of each sloping hill were hastily constructed barricades and at the bottom were obstructions of tree branches intertwined with barbed wire, which still lay where the French had placed it a day or two before.

At a great gateway on a long driveway that led between somber trees to a distant chateau in the forest there was a French uniform and a scattered heap of French equipment.

A little farther along in the road there were brush breastworks thrown across the top of a hill. They looked pitifully futile against determined advances. Lying at one side was the coat of a French officer.

A few hundred feet beyond lay the broad, silent square of the little town of Montignies St. Christophe. It was woeful in its look of devastation. The houses fringing the side of the square were battered and deserted.

The Village Deserted.

The street was littered with wreckage. The peaceful villagers were gone, driven away by the shells that had beaten down their homes and transformed their quiet village into a mass of ruin. The gashes made by shells appeared on every house—huge, ragged holes through solid walls, shattered windows and wrecked roofs.

Across this sleepy town, directly between the opposing ridges occupied by the French and German cannons, had shrieked the shells which had made an inferno of little Montignies St. Christophe for a few hours. Then the French were beaten back, the Germans marched through, and the little town was left alone with its dead.

We stopped for some time to study the town and the ravages of war. A peasant appeared from some place and we stopped him.

He said there had been about 5,000 or 6,000 French, and he didn't know how many Germans, many more, he thought. It had been a terrible fight.

The French were beaten back with many killed. Along the wayside we saw many pieces of French uniforms and equipment dropped by the French in their frantic retreat.

A short distance farther on, in a little house, we saw some villagers clustered together, talking in subdued tones. They kept within doors. Through the open doors of many of the houses we saw the peaceful evidences of household industry, left just as they were when the women fled in terror. Pots were still on the stoves, tables were still set. Even the doors had not been closed.

Find Bodies in a Cart.

At the edge of town stood a covered cart, within which were the bodies of two French soldiers, their heads on the floor of the cart and their feet resting on the seat. An overcoat had been thrown over their faces. Two villagers were preparing to bury them. Off in a field some more villagers were digging a hole into which the bodies were to be thrown. It was unspeakably pathetic.

Somewhere there will be French mothers and wives and sisters who will wonder what has become of those two men. Weeks will go by with no word from them. They will be reported missing, but whether dead or as prisoners will not be stated. They will lie in their shallow grave in the field near a little Belgian town, with grave unmarked and name perhaps unknown.

Such a scene seems to bring home the horror of war more vividly than anything else. It was terrible, the silence and the tragedy of it.

Germans Bury on Field.

The German army buries all its dead on the battle field. No bodies, either high or low in rank, are sent back home to the relatives. All rank is lost when officers and privates together go into the trench which is to be their last resting place. The son-in-law of the president of the upper Rhine provinces was killed at Liege. A notice of his death was sent to his relatives, and they went at once in an effort to recover the body, which had been buried in a trench. I saw the widow when she returned from this sad errand. Her eyes were red and swollen from weeping and her father and mother were trying to console her.

They had found the body in a grave, lying at the bottom of a pile of six other soldiers, officers and privates, and the father had identified the face of his son-in-law and was bringing home the body in a lead casket.

Find Deserted Equipment.

A thousand yards on from Montignes, down at the bottom of a long slope in the road, we came to a barricade of tree branches and barbed wire. We carried our wheels across it. Some calves, deserted by their owners, came to us as though in distress for attention and human companionship. Over in a field to the right of the road stood a French gun carriage, and at the top of this hill and on the slopes of the fields at each side of the road were French trenches. Articles of French soldier equipment littered the sides of the road. A mill and a large farmhouse at the top of the hill were deserted.

The next village, a thousand yards farther along on the Beaumont road, was absolutely silent and deserted. It was the Belgian frontier customs house town. A French officer's jacket and a lot of scattered equipment marked the course of a hasty flight. There was something grim in the silence and desolation of the town—doors open and the people all gone.

Near Lines in Twilight.

Darkness was coming on and Beaumont was still two or three miles away. We had great anxiety about approaching the German lines in the dark. There was also the possibility that a French scouting party might swing in from the south, for we were on the line dividing France and Belgium and the French were supposed to be only a short distance to the south.

So we hurried along in the gathering dusk until we saw a farmhouse some distance back from the road. In the light of many fires we saw figures walking about and recognized them as German soldiers, evidently a company outpost guarding the approach to Beaumont. The soldiers looked at us with curiosity, but did not stop us, as we expected them to do.

Pass Sentries Unchallenged.

Some distance onward two sentries guarded the road. We passed them without being challenged. Along the edge of the hills ahead were houses which we knew to be the outskirts of Beaumont. Camp fires were burning, and as we approached we saw hundreds of great motor trucks and wagons parked in regular formation. A company of soldiers in fatigue uniform were lined up and were being addressed by an officer.

From the top of the hill we saw Beaumont on the cliff like elevation upon which the quaint old town is built. The road dropped steeply into a deep valley, then ascended as steeply to where it merged into a winding street that led on into the town. We knew that if we followed it we should finally reach the square, inevitable in Belgian towns, where the church and the town hall and the more pretentious buildings are always to be found.

There were many soldiers passing back and forth as we slowly made our way along the cobbled street, which rose and fell across the hilly unevenness of the town. Nobody challenged us.

Troops Jam the Town.

We knew the town was jammed with troops and that we might have great difficulty in getting a place to sleep. Also our horse and cart must be cared for.

We decided to report to the officer in command, as we had done with such excellent results many times before.

From this moment our troubles began. We did not realize that the town hall of Beaumont held the general staff of the army operating in that part of France and Belgium. Compared to all the officers with whom we had hitherto come in contact, these were unmeasurably higher in rank.

We had bumped into the whole works of the German army.

Our equipment consisted of one tired horse, a most peaceful looking cart, two bicycles, and no baggage. We had unshaven faces, dusty clothes, and soiled linen. We were dressed for the street and not for the field, for we had started out from Brussels for an afternoon ride which had extended into days.

Not Dressed "for Court."

Most obviously our appearance was not such as was calculated to impress the high officers of the most perfect and imposing array in the world.

I prefer not to imagine what we looked like when we drew up before the town hall in the square at Beaumont.

A great flag hung above the door of the hall. Several high powered motor cars stood before it. Two sentries were posted at the entrance of the building, and to them we went, a rough, dusty looking crowd of five who looked more like tramps than war correspondents. Our tired roan mare, more motherly looking than usual, stood alone with her little car out among the splendid motor cars.

An officer came out, a stern, handsome man, upon whose coat was the white cloth cross indicating his nobility. These crosses are worn only by officers of very high family and nobility. Mere counts and barons do not wear them unless they have won distinction because of some exceptional service.

Officer Looks 'Em Over.

The officer took us in in one sweeping glance, an all embracing glance that noted our rough equipment and unshaven faces. Two of our party wore straw hats, such as are seen only in cities:

"Who are you and what are you doing here?"

He spoke excellent English and he was polite, but there was an absence of that genial warmth which we hoped to find.

"We are American newspaper correspondents. We have come to report ourselves."

"How did you get here?"

We pointed to our horse and the bicycles, explained how we had come, and told him we thought it was our duty to report ourselves and get permission to go on.

The officer smiled grimly. We would not be permitted to go on, he said, for the German army allowed no correspondents with it. We explained that we had been with the army for some days and that our passes had always been accepted as satisfactory when we had presented them, as we always did when arriving in a town occupied by the army.

He asked to see our passes, and we presented the ones we had gotten from Gen. von Jarotsky in Brussels, the passes which we had always found to be so potent. The officer looked at them one by one. He studied the official stamps carefully.

"They are not dated," he said.

Another and higher officer then came out of the door and said something in German which drew a response which Hansen, who speaks German, understood.

"They are part of the same outfit," said the officer. "The others had these kind of passes, which are meant for Brussels."

We were then asked to step inside and wait.

In a Prince's House.

We went into a beautiful hall, upon the walls of which were lion skins and many other African game trophies, the property, as we learned later, of Prince Caraman Chimay, who is the burgomaster of the town and whose great château stands in a beautiful park to the rear of the town hall, which also is his library. It was this nobleman who married Clara Ward, an American heiress, of Detroit. He is now in Paris, having escaped the Germans.

We had hardly sat down when a most imposing looking officer came out of a room, glanced at us, and asked us to go outside. A conference was being held, probably concerning the plans of battle then being formulated.

We went out.

In a moment or two a general, accompanied by the first officer we had met, came out and looked at our passes. He was rather friendly.

Other Reporters Prisoners.

He said that the German army allowed no correspondents with it and that it wanted none of them following it. If we had gone forward and had been found at the front we would have been shot, he said.

Two men had been caught within their lines with cameras, he told us, and had been arrested. These two men had the same kind of passes that we had. They had been arrested two days before, marched on foot two long, hard days, and now were prisoners in Beaumont.

Instantly we knew who they were, G— and his friend the Belgian photographer. G— was a Frenchman who for many years had been the Brussels correspondent of an American paper. We had lunched with him the day we started and had seen him taken prisoner the second day we were out.

"These two men will be sent as prisoners of war to Liege," said the general; "but you will be sent back to Brussels tomorrow."

Interviews the Reporters.

"How do you get your reports in?" then asked the general.

We told him we had not sent a word and that there was no means of doing so. Our desire was to follow the army in order to tell the truth about what we saw. It was pointed out that our report might have the effect of counteracting the stories of alleged German atrocities which were flooding the world, for we had seen no evidences of German brutality and had investigated many stories without finding any foundation for them. We wanted to be in a position to deny these stories to our American readers.

"World Soon Will Know."

The general shook his head, sadly.

"The world will know the truth in two or three months."

In answer to our request for permission to find quarters for our horse and ourselves, he called a captain, who was instructed to go with us.

"You will go with the captain," he said. "You must all occupy the same house, somewhere near where our guards are stationed. Do not try to leave the town, for our sentries will shoot you. You are not prisoners, but you must not try to escape. Return here tomorrow morning and arrangements will be made for sending you back to Brussels."

SAMPLES TO BE TAKEN

A party of Chicago manufacturers will leave New Orleans Oct. 15 for a seventy-four day trip to the ports of Central America on the gulf of Mexico. The trip which is to be one of introduction as well as selling, will be made in conjunction with many New Orleans business men and manufacturers.

The United Fruit company has provided the party with the largest and best equipped steamer in its service, and each member of the party will have room for 500 pounds of samples. The trip is to be preliminary to the sample ship voyage to South American countries which has been projected for several weeks and is scheduled to follow the gulf trip.

Big Demand for Goods.

Consular reports and other advices from Central America indicate that conditions financially are not as bad in Central America as in South America and, in addition, there has been a large demand from several Central American cities for goods made in the United States.

The short trip will not cost each manufacturer more than $1,000, and a large number of Chicagoans are said to be willing to risk that much to get a line on what the conditions are in that section of the western hemisphere.

"I have heard that quite a large number of our members are planning to take the gulf trip," John M. Glenn, secretary of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, said yesterday. "It is not a very expensive trip and will bring some business to the men who take it.

Sample Ship to Go, Too.

"This trip does not take the place of the sample ship trip to South American ports and we still are receiving acceptances from our members for space in that ship.

The trade trip which the Illinois Manufacturers' association planned to Canada has not been decided on definitely as yet. Letters from officials of the commercial and manufacturing organizations there indicate that Illinois firms who want to build factories in Canada will be welcomed, but firms trying to dispose of goods made in the United States will not receive an enthusiastic reception.

According to the report of the department of commerce received yesterday, the city of Hongkong, China, is in need of American foodstuffs. The jobbers there have been ordering heavily by cable and several large orders of canned meats have been shipped from the packing houses of Chicago to supply the demand. Cuba also has turned to the United States for hardware and a large number of sundries.

COL. ROOSEVELT RECEIVES COMMISSION OF BELGIANS.

Members Thank Him at Cleveland for Tone of War Articles, Which They Hold Favor Their Cause.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 27.—Theodore Roosevelt, on his arrival here this morning on his return eastward from his campaign trip through the middle west, granted a long interview to members of the Belgian royal commission which is in this country presenting claims of alleged German atrocities.

None would discuss the interview. M. Paul Hymans, minister of state for Belgium, said, however, that the commission thanked the former president for the tone of his recent articles on the war, which the members considered favorable to the Belgian cause. The commission left for New York this afternoon, intending to sail for Europe on Tuesday.

Col. Roosevelt went to Mentor and spent the afternoon at the home of James R. Garfield, Progressive nominee for governor of Ohio.

PRICES OF GERMAN FOOD LOWER THAN A YEAR AGO.

Brother Writes to Chicagoan That Everything Is Cheaper and Cites Meat and Vegetables.

Despite the war, everything is cheaper in Germany than a year ago. This was the report sent to Morris Miller of 3549 Rita avenue from his brother, Joseph, a manufacturer of oils and glues at Munden, Hanover.

"Bread is only a half cent more on the pound than before the war, my brother wrote," said Mr. Miller. "Vegetables are cheaper than ever before. Veal, which costs 16 cents a pound retail in Germany, cannot be bought in Chicago for less than 18 cents a pound at wholesale.

"From the dispatches my brother sent me, it is believed the war will continue for two years. One-fourth of the reservists have not been called out yet in Germany."

GERMANS CRITICISE DUTCH FOR FREEING BRITISH TARS.

Hold There Is No Legal Support of Move Permitting Sailors to Go Home and Return to War.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company from Amsterdam says that the Cologne Gazette voices German indignation at the attitude of the Dutch in releasing the surviving sailors from the British cruisers Hogue, Cressy, and Aboukir. It says:

"No legal support for the attitude of the Netherlands government can be found either in the Geneva or the Hague convention."

The paper argues that the men who were rescued after their ships had been sunk by a German submarine and later landed in Holland should have been guarded to prevent their further participation in the war.

GERMAN CHILDREN HARVEST CROPS AND CLEAN STREETS.

EVERY GERMAN DOES HIS UTMOST FOR FATHERLAND

POLICE ON THE ALERT

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
[War Correspondent of The Tribune.]
[Copyright: 1914: By J. O'D. Bennett.]

AIX LA CHAPELLE, Germany, Sept. 12.—The head waiter at the Kaiserhof hotel here regards himself as no contemptible strategist. He is especially gracious on mornings when he can follow the waitress who brings the bacon and eggs with tidings of another German advance. On the morning when another advance in that amazing German descent into France was reported he poised himself judicially and said:

He paused to let the epigram filter.

We were properly receptive, and he waxed enthusiastic—for a German.

"Ah, those camp kitchens," he continued. "They are on wheels, as you saw, always they are ready.

"What is it that they mean to our men? It is that they the hot breakfast can have and the hot food at midday and again the hot supper. It is better than to go from breakfast to supper without food and then to eat like a wolf.

"Therefore, it is that our men are always ready to march and to fight. They eat three times a day."

Fare Same as Men.

Bearing on this matter of the feeding of the army, I have heard a statement that I have not been able to verify. It is that, while the French officers in the field are served with a special ration, the German officers in the field eat precisely the same amount and quality of food as is served to their men.

Discipline is stern and it knows no exceptions.

An old general passed along the railway platform at Liege a few days ago. A group of officers sitting there instantly rose, brought themselves to attention, with a click of the heels and stood at form of salute, rigid as statues. The old general passed them with a curt and abstracted salute.

In the group which had risen as one man at his coming was Prince August Wilhelm, a son of the emperor.

Persons of high social position in Berlin were as anxious for news of their missing and their wounded as was the humblest woman on the countryside, and more clamorous than she.

They brought what they supposed was influence to bear. They were told, not unfeelingly but firmly, that they would have to wait news as it came through the regular official channels and that, keen as was their anxiety, there could be no exceptions and no favoritism in the release of reports.

The dead are buried on the field of battle, for all trains are reserved for the return of the wounded and the forwarding of the living.

Loss of Individuality.

English critics of the German military system said that this iron discipline would kill individuality and deprive soldiers of all initiative; that in a crisis or a check the system would fall to pieces.

In one sense the system, in its first practical test, has eliminated the sense of individuality from every individual's mind. The engineer on a troop train no longer regards himself as an individual. He retains no sense of his own being or his own importance as an individual.

However, as a part of the system he regards himself as of the utmost importance. He is convinced that he could not be spared. Nor, in truth, could he be.

Alert and Intent.

Therefore he is alert, intent, single minded. Therefore he takes the best possible care of himself. He feels that to damage him is to damage a vital part of the machine.

Hence it came to pass that, when after the mobilization the emperor gave his thanks to every railway man in Germany, from the highest to the lowest, for the marvelous work they had done—hence, I say, it happened that the engineers and their stokers straightened their shoulders, looked at one another, and said:

"You see, the machine could not have worked without us."

Every man thinks imperially.

Everybody is doing something for the fatherland.

The young lieutenant in the field joyously tells you that he has not had his clothes off in two weeks. For fourteen nights he has slept in his boots when the infrequent opportunity to sleep came.

The chambermaid on floor two of the Kaiserhof cannot do much, but she can at least tell the hall porter that the three strange gentlemen in rooms 142 and 143 are always writing; that they frequently refer to maps, and that they do not wear uniforms.

The hall porter cannot do much, but he can—and he does—make known the matter of the maps to the officers at police headquarters.

Second Police Visit.

His report insures the American correspondents another visit—the second in two days—from an extremely polite detective in plain clothes, who refers to another plain clothes man standing twenty feet away at the end of the hall as "my colleague."

For the second time the plain clothes man goes over our passports. He suavely abstracts one which was signed the night before by an officer at military headquarters here and which permits each of us to cross the Holland border to mail at the village of Vaals letters for England.

Make Mild Protest.

We protest mildly as he folds six copies of this valuable paper into his pocketbook. He blandly answers us that those bits of paper must be examined by his superiors at police headquarters.

Without saying so, he leads us to believe that this examination is only a formality and that after it all will be well.

We are fatuously reconciled, as we have been in similar circumstances before. So suave is the detective that we are almost cheerful. But we never see hose Dutch passports again.

Go to Consulate.

When we were released from the troop train that had brought us up from Beaumont to Aix as "guests," we were advised to report ourselves to the American consul for fresh papers of identification and for passports.

Within ten minutes after our arrival at the consulate the officer of police who had escorted us past the sentries at the railway station strolled past, and, seeing us standing in the windows, continued on his way.

Three members of our party stood on the steps of the consulate, and in ten seconds a man who appeared from around the corner fell into agreeable conversation with them. Half an hour later one of the party looked around from a table at which he and his companions were sitting in a hotel bar. Within ten feet of the table sat the German who had chatted so agreeably in front of the consulate. He appeared to be intent upon a newspaper.

Two Detectives Appear.

After leaving the consulate we registered our names, place of birth, and occupation on little cards at the Hotel Kaiserhof. We had hardly got into the bath when a detective in plain clothes and his colleague appeared, made their first examination of our passports, and instructed us to report at 5 o'clock in the evening at the polizei praesidium, or police headquarters, for further scrutiny.

This was on Sunday, but the system takes no days off. It works incessantly—and on a schedule not of hours but minutes.

Espionage of Waiter.

At Nuillens hotel, too, there is an abnormal solicitude as to the activities of American correspondents.

Let two or three of us go over from the Kaiserhof to have a chat with John T. McCutcheon and Irvin Cobb and somehow it happens that a waiter, not rapping, comes bouncing into the room, surveys the group an instant, and vanishes with profuse apologies for having mistaken the number.

If this kind of thing happened once or twice it would mean nothing. As a daily routine it begins to get on the nerves.

Children Give Aid.

During the month now melting into a glorious autumn not even school children whose parents are well to do have been able to go on vacation trips. But there still has been something for them to do. Organized into little bands, they are helping to get in the harvest and clean streets. High school boys and girls have been especially useful in this work.

No distinctions of rank or property are recognized in the formation of the bands. Old age as well as youth is drawn into the work. A professor in Aix who is too old for military service has cheerfully gone into the harvest fields on the heights around this ancient city of Charlemagne.

Foresight of Officer.

I met a German officer who had been wounded in his right arm. He was writing rapidly with his left hand.

"You are so fortunate as to be ambidexterous," I said.

"We are a family of officers," he replied. "When I was a boy I thought that what has happened might happen. Hence I trained myself to write with the left hand as well as the right. Today I find it convenient." He smiled contentedly.

Scrupulosity and the far-carrying look ahead make the maneuvering of every detail.

I look out of the car window at 3 o'clock one morning and I see two officers seated at a little writing table on the station platform at Liege. They are as natty as if they had just been lifted from a clothier's window. There is not a blemish nor a crease to mar the elegance of the material, and the cut of their long, close-fitting overcoats of bluish gray.

GERMANS SHELL FOE'S WOUNDED?

French Say Their Ambulances and Hospitals Are Bombarded.

MANY MEN ARE KILLED.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Sept. 27.—The French government charges that "the German army has adopted a new system, which consists of bombarding ambulances and hospitals and thus slaughtering the wounded in their beds."

The charge is contained in a note appended to an official communication in answer to criticisms which have been directed against the medical corps regarding the transportation of the wounded. The note says:

"Attention has been called to the inefficient manner in which the wounded have been transported at certain points, which might give rise to belief in insufficient organization or the absence of foresight. In order to arrive at a correct appreciation of the actual condition, the facts must be known exactly.

Forced to Retire Rapidly.

"There have been circumstances in which the medical service has been forced to retire with extreme rapidity, taking from the battlefield not only the wounded which they have been able to treat under the greatest difficulties and at great personal risk on the field, but also those wounded soldiers who are being treated in hospitals on which the German fire was centered.

"A hospital sheltering 500 wounded has had to be evacuated in two hours. This explains why many wounded soldiers had to be transported stretched on straw or even in wagons. Only horses were available for the transportation of these wagons.

Rules of War Violated?

"Such conditions could not have been foreseen. They would never have been caused by an enemy who respected international conventions, because all the wounded should have been placed under the protection of the convention of Geneva, whether they were in the charge of field hospital corps or in regular hospitals in the invaded territory.

"The German army has, however, adopted a new system, which consists of bombarding ambulances and hospitals and thus slaughtering the wounded in their beds. If, in view of these hurried retreats, some wounded men have had their wounds aggravated or have even succumbed, how many others have had their lives saved and have escaped from the enemy?"

CONTEMPT SUIT PERILS CASE

Breaking of State Seal Stirs Examiner Coleman.

BANK RECORDS SEIZED.

Hoyne Aid Forces Way to Ashland-Twelfth Vault.

Reprisal in the form of contempt proceedings against Assistant State's Attorney Charles Center Case Jr. is the reply of Assistant State Bank Examiner Charles W. Coleman to Mr. Case's raid on the Ashland-Twelfth State bank, in which he broke the state seals to get data sought in connection with his investigation of Lorimer-Munday banking affairs.

Mr. Case justified his forcible entry of the bank and vaults on the ground that such a violent course was necessary to obtain vital records the examiner had refused to turn over to the grand jury.

To this Mr. Coleman retorts that contempt proceedings are now quite in order and that appeal for such action probably will be made to the attorney general.

Makes Other Charges.

Among other things Mr. Coleman had to say of Mr. Case were:

Mr. Case had done nothing in the course of his lengthy grand jury investigation to place the responsibility for the failure of the bank.

Mr. Case was incompetent to pursue his inquiry, as had been stated by the president of the county board when he refused a further appropriation for the investigation.

Mr. Case had hindered the reorganization of the Ashland-Twelfth bank, and was at present interfering with the collection of notes because of certain records he had seized.

Mr. Case used vile language in the bank examiner's office when he came to demand certain books and records.

Case Defies Coleman.

"Is that Mr. Coleman's excuse?" commented Mr. Case. "Let him go ahead with his contempt proceedings. I know nothing of any power by which I may be held in contempt. If there is any doubt as to who broke the seal, I did it.

"I think the position of the bank examiner and his interference with the inquiry of the grand jury and the reorganization is too well known for me to comment on."

OBITUARY.

J. J. HOULIHAN, 54 years old, chief boiler inspector and secretary of the board of examining engineers during the Busse administration, died yesterday at the Garfield Park hospital of pneumonia. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning from his late residence at 930 Windsor avenue to Calvary.

CLAFLIN CREDITORS TO BE PAID IN FULL IN 3 YEARS.

Chicagoan One of Five Trustees Who Will See to Settlement of $42,000,000 Claims.

New York, Sept. 27.—John Claflin, head of the H. B. Claflin company, is eliminated from any participation in the reorganization of that company and has turned over to the creditors all his personal assets, including not only his bank stock and holdings in dry goods corporations, but his residence at Morristown, N. J., and his summer home in the Adirondacks, it was learned tonight.

Under the plan the creditors will receive 15 per cent in cash and 85 per cent in three year collateral notes. Five trustees, who will hold all stock of the new Mercantile Stores company and name its directors until the outstanding claims of $42,200,000 have been paid, will attend to the working out of the plan.

Business Capper & Capper Bulletin

AUTUMN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 28 1914

A Personal Statement
by
John S. Capper

I take genuine pride in introducing my son, Howard Capper, as the director of a new department in our Michigan Avenue store—a unique room for young men which we have named

The Lounge

In this room you will find that buying is a relaxation—an altogether pleasant business. Here you may sit by an open fire, read the magazines, use the telephone, write your letters or select Fall garments at your leisure.

You are invited to make yourself at home in The Lounge, which opens off from our main clothing room. I believe that you will find such convenience in no other American store.

My son designed this department particularly for young men—though their elders are welcome here.

I believe that he has a better idea of what a young man requires, in the matter of dress, than anyone else with whom I am acquainted. He intuitively anticipates the young man's fashions.

He is what I tried to be when I was twenty-five years younger.

The styles displayed in young men's clothes are his own designs and cannot be seen elsewhere—they display a creative touch which could come only from a young man.

My son has been reared in this business and is filled with its ideals. He knows the inner meaning and the deep sincerity of Capper service, which we try to make a part of every transaction here.

Recently I have had reminiscent chats with several men who were customers of this store when it was first opened—a generation ago. Their sons—babies then—now are patrons, too. This means much to me. I believe that my son, twenty years from now, will get an equal pleasure from chatting with the second generation of Capper patrons—friends who will have known him first as the head of our young men's department.

DEMOCRATIC ECONOMY.

The remarks of the Democratic press over the defeat of the pork barrel, alias river and harbor appropriation bill, take the form, in the main, of pointing out the obvious fact that the Republican party has been guilty of the pork barrel evil for lo these many years.

The point is undeniable but weak. The Democrats made a strategic blunder in a not unnatural but mistaken confidence in the nonpartisanship of plunder. In the face of the important campaign now under way they allowed the Republicans to put them in the wrong as defenders, in the most inexcusable circumstances, of waste. When Democratic congressmen talk economy, the traditional Democratic line, they will be effectively answered by reference to the selfish and desperate defense of the pork barrel by the Democratic leader in the senate and the Democratic vote. Had it not been for Frear, the Republican in the house, with his forlorn hope, which turned out, thanks to his indefatigable efforts and his courage not to be forlorn, if it had not been for Burton and Kenyon in the senate, both Republicans, who would not surrender, the Democratic leaders, although they are ready enough to vote war taxes, would have ruthlessly poured out millions in pork for congressmen and their short sighted constituents with a pull.

Democratic economy is, in fact, a fearful and wonderful thing. We've had a dose of it locally. We are getting a remarkable taste of it nationally. The Republicans have a good fighting issue here and the appeal to the past is a hopeless defense for their adversaries. What voters will consider is how did the Democrats meet their own problems; how, especially after their years of "denouncing" Republican "extravagance" did they meet the challenge to economize? Their record on the pork barrel is a sad answer to these interrogatories.

THE ROMANCE OF RED TROUSERS.

Folk have been groping around for a reason which might explain satisfactorily why a nation so alert as the French, preparing for a war they believed inevitable, should defy all the color theories experimented upon by military men everywhere and send their soldiers into action in red trousers.

That it is merely stupidity of a gross kind hardly seems possible. The French are not stupid. They know that the red and blue uniforms are conspicuous at distances at which the German dust-sprinkled cloth makes men invisible. They have sacrificed the benefit of protective coloration either because they were unintelligent, which is difficult to believe, or to gain an advantage superior in their estimation even to that of masking the movements of their men.

The French believe that in war the spirit of the troops is everything. War is not a practical business. It's a romantic affair. It's not one of cold efficiency. It's one of inspired exaltation. It's a fury. It needs organization and equipment, strategy and tactics, but, above all, it needs soul. That is undoubtedly the French view.

Their republican troops, untrained, went out over a hundred years ago and by the spirit of their attack threw back the professional armies of Europe. Elan is the supreme requirement.

Exaltation needs high colors. It is not a sober quality. The red legs of France are the visible tokens of its military spirit. The French may have reasoned that they must take the chance of exposing their soldiers physically to nourish them spiritually. They may know their own men. They may know that the German would fight just as well in brown, black, crimson, or yellow, but that the French need their trappings; that what they require is not protective but excitory coloration.

If there be not some such explanation as this the red legs of France will be charged up against the authorities in France as a criminal and murderous blunder.

THE SOUTH IN THE SADDLE.

As might have been expected, the war tax bill passed by the house of representatives reveals a furtive sympathy for the south. It was to be expected, because the south controls the government at present and is in position to take care of its own interests.

Representative Hobson of Alabama protested indignantly against the exemption of whisky from the new imposts. Beer and wines were taxed, but hard liquor was left out of the list, revealing that the favorite tipple of the south still comes from the still. Brews and wines have vogue in the north, but the south protects the source of the wisdom and valor of its statesmen.

The importance of hard liquor in sections which go dry to keep the colored commonalty out of temptation is increased by its mobility. It can get around conveniently, combining force with small bulk. A hip pocket is reservoir enough for any except an immoderate gentleman.

Nevertheless, if the south in congress had wished to protect the consumer it need not have exempted whisky. Unfortunately a tax on whisky is a tax which reaches the consumer with difficulty. It might have a moral, physical, and economic value if it could reach him, but it doesn't. Prices in retailing have been established by custom which the retailer would not dare to break, and he cannot pass the tax on to his patrons. Profits from the sale of liquor are so enormous, so out of proportion of every rule of cost and price, that an extra tax is accepted by the business as a loss which it has to stand.

Exempting whisky from the new taxes has not done the consumer any harm. If taxation would have resulted in increasing the price of his tipple he might have been done some good, but the only beneficiary of exemption is the distiller.

Either the southern statesmen hold him in their affections and would not harm him, or they feared that a tax on whisky, whether it affected the consumer or not, would be as odious in principle in the south as the tea tax was in the colonies.

In these days southern prejudices and interests are carefully guarded in the congress of the United States.

SEVEN PER CENT LOANS.

Complaints of the current 7 per cent money market are becoming so general it is believed they should be given consideration. It need not be denied that Chicago bankers in inaugurating a 7 per cent rate for new and old loans have been acting in accordance with banking prudence. Still bankers should neither be considered, nor hold themselves, to be infallible of judgment in gauging changing conditions. When, therefore, conservative interests in the same community with them and directly involved in the consideration of credit welfare feel that conditions which at one time warranted 7 per cent for money have almost, if not quite, passed, our bankers may profitably consider that view.

It is not the would-be borrowers alone who feel that the necessity for charging 7 per cent has passed, but the secretary of the treasury also seems to have reached such a conclusion. While it is possible to argue the treasury department may be in error, still the growing opinion of the people and the government cannot be overlooked.

It is true the banks are paying among themselves 7 per cent on the credit which they borrow from one another in the daily settlement of their balances through the clearing house. Probably if the banks should figure that such settlement rate might be made 6 instead of 7 per cent they would likewise see reason for accommodating commercial borrowers at the lower rate.

Anyway, it is worth while for Chicago banks, through their clearing house committee, to take the matter under thoughtful consideration.

"THE YOUNG" AND GERMAN CULTURE.

An ardent partisan of the allies has drawn up an indictment against the German nation so far as the last twenty years are concerned. His thesis is that Prussian militarism and reactionary autocracy have crushed and stifled the undoubted genius of the Teutonic race in the fatherland. What, he asks, has Germany produced during the period in question in letters, philosophy, science, music, painting, and art generally? Where are "the Young" of Germany, and what have they done for culture?

Hauptmann, Sudermann, Richard Strauss, Humperdinck, Fulda, Haeckel, Eucken, and the rest are not of the reigning generation. They belong to the past. Have they worthy successors? If so, who are these successors? asks the aforementioned partisan.

Here is a challenge that, without reference to the raging conflict, deserves German attention. Racial and national psychology is a terribly complex affair and statements about it are hard to refute. But facts that do not warrant sweeping conclusions may be interesting as far as they go. Lists or catalogs for Germany, England, France, and Russia, covering the last twenty years and showing what the nations named have done, severally, in literature, art, and science, would command worldwide attention.

Twenty years is a very short period, and no race or nation would be judged by it. Still, the subject is full of fascination. What has Russia done since 1890, say, in the realms of intellect and beauty? What has Germany done, and what France and England. A volume attempting such a comparative study impartially and fairly would easily get into the best seller class.

THE LAW'S DELAY.

Two months ago a young man was arrested in New York on a minor charge. He was held to the grand jury and, having no friends to furnish bail for him, was lodged in jail. He appealed for a speedy trial, which, he said, would establish his innocence and return him to his wife and child, who were sorely missing their breadwinner. The reply he received was that most of the judges were on their vacation and his case would not come up until some time in the fall. A few days ago the man's agony apparently got the better of his reason and he hanged himself in his cell.

There is no more potent argument for speedier methods of dispensing justice in our courts than this suicide. The condition of American jails in the summer months is shameful. Many innocent men are kept there during the sweltering heat, to their physical and spiritual detriment, because there are not enough judges in the city to dispose of their cases. Judges are entitled to vacations. But a way should be found of giving them vacations without disorganizing our legal machinery.

The law's delay is a sinister reflection on American justice. The sooner it is ended the better, not only for the poor man who is unfortunate enough to get into conflict with law but for all of us. We cannot afford to let the charge that our courts are indifferent to the fate of the poor gain ground.

The Best Editorial of the Day

HYPHENATED AMERICANS.

[From the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.]

Whatever American citizen cherishes a hyphen in these days ought to take it off and have a good look at it in the cold light of facts. He is going comfortably to his business and pleasures as usual, with nothing worse to fear than a punctured tire or a crowded street car. If he has sons above 18 years of age he knows they are snug at school or at home.

If he were still under the flag to which his hyphen sentimentally attaches him he would probably have comparatively little business left to look after. A dark, chaotic welter would constitute his outlook on the breadwinning side. Heartbreaking search of the lists of dead and wounded would be his chief domestic occupation if he had sons of military age.

And all for nothing—all for paper dogmas of statecraft which have not the least relation to his own real interests and the interests of his neighbors. If he were French or German, Austrian or Russian, or even British, he would be caught in the vast destruction wrought by a failure of government and civilization in Europe. The flag to the right of his hyphen is the only big one left that stands for those things that make the lot of the twentieth century Caucasian better than that of the sixteenth century Indian.

Having looked at his hyphen in the light of these facts, maybe he will stop parading it. This is the worst time there ever was to invite American admiration for any European system.

In the main this war proves the essential solidarity of the American public, and no one objects to any citizen's entertaining in private whatever sympathies he pleases; but if any exceptional citizen of foreign birth or foreign born parents feels so indissolubly wedded to his hyphen that he must flourish it in other people's faces, the logical course for him is to take the next east bound steamer and shoulder a musket.

AN English writer having asserted that golf is a nerve-wrecking game, the Interstate Medical Record welcomes discussion of the subject, as a change from the eternal debate on sex and neurasthenia. Now, for three years we have made a rather close study of golf and golfers, and we are well assured that golf as a health-giving recreation is a greatly overlauded institution.

WE will consider, now, only the person with a nervous temperament; for him, golf is decidedly not a restful game. The failure to bring off a shot that he knows perfectly well how to play, due to the refusal of the muscles to obey the instructions of the mind, sets up an irritation, conscious or subconscious, that more than offsets the good derived from a round on the links.

IF golf works this way on a man who knows why he bungles a stroke, imagine what it does to the man who can't tell what ails him, and must make periodic visits to the golf doctors to have his affliction diagnosed.

UTERINE HEMORRHAGE.

IT looks as though a method of relieving uterine hemorrhage short of operation is in sight. The method consists in treatment with X-rays and with radium. Of the two, radium has given the best results, according to the latest reports, but that may have been because of the better way in which it has been applied.

There are different causes of uterine hemorrhage, and he who does not try to discover the cause in each case is liable to make some grave mistakes. In the first place, hemorrhage is a sign of cancer. Every writer on cancer of the uterus warns of the importance of hemorrhage as a symptom. They all say that the hope of cure of cancer lies in early diagnosis through a proper understanding of the importance of hemorrhage.

Then there is the large number of cases of hemorrhage in which the cause is uterine fibroids. In other cases the trouble is an inflammation of the uterus. In still others no cause can be discovered.

In none of the cases is ordinary medical treatment of any value. Minor surgical treatment is just as valueless. In times past the woman affected had to decide between a radical operation and bearing her infirmity as best she could. Bearing her infirmity as best she could meant a semi-invalidism which totally unfitted her for gainful occupation and nearly unfitted her for the care of her home.

It is proved that the skillful use of X-rays and radium can cause the disappearance of even very large uterine fibroids. The most trying of the symptoms of fibroids, the hemorrhage, disappears before the tumor does. Hemorrhage from other causes except cancer yields still more readily to treatment.

We must not get the idea that the treatment is easy or simple. I should say that in the present state of the art none but the best equipped and most skillful users of X-rays will have any success in removing fibroids or stopping hemorrhage. The dose given is very much greater than any unskilled man is justified in employing.

The excellent results from Dr. Howard Kelly's use of radium be attributes to the fact that he placed the radium in the interior of the uterus. In some of his cases he only used one-eightieth of a gram, but in others he employed fourtenths of a gram of radium.

Whether use be made of X-rays or of radium, the method is about as expensive and almost as troublesome and requires as much skill as does operation. Further study may simplify the process and bring it within reach of the rank and file.

Just now it is the most promising of all measures for those who do not wish to be operated on, but it is out of reach of the masses.

TO FIGHT TYPHOID.

F. W. D. writes: "What precautions should be taken to prevent typhoid fever?"

REPLY.

The person who wishes to escape should
1. Boil the water.
2. Boil the milk.
3. Eat at no place except where he knows everything to be sanitary.
4. Avoid fly-infested places.
5. Keep out of houses where there is typhoid and the attendants are careless.

If conditions are unusually threatening, he should be vaccinated against typhoid.

The local government should study the situation; discover the source of infection, and cure it. If the water supply is polluted, chlorinating should be begun at once and a more permanent remedy should be planned for. If the milk supply is polluted, pasteurization and sanitary inspection should be inaugurated. If the infection is in any material degree due to neglected cases, municipal nurses should be employed. If the infection is due to privies and flies, the proper remedies must be applied.

In addition, the health department must provide a stock of typhoid vaccine and offer it to the people gratuitously or compel universal vaccination, according to the imminence of the danger.

NO TUBERCULOSIS DANGER.

H. H. B. writes: "I am thinking of moving into a house where there was a case of tuberculosis four years ago. After the person's death the house was well fumigated. Do you think there will be any danger for a person who inherits tuberculosis to live in this house? How long does a tuberculosis germ live? Would you advise me to have a sleeping porch? Please give me some advice on the training and diet of a child who is of an excitable disposition. The child is 3 years old."

REPLY.

1. No.

2. In the sunlight, for a few minutes; in a dark, damp place, for a long time—months perhaps.

3. Yes. I would advise every person who is well and wants to stay well to have a sleeping porch. Those with tuberculosis in the family should go to some inconvenience to get a sleeping porch.

4. To answer your question properly would require more space than we can give it. Send to the national committee for mental hygiene, 50 Union square, New York City, for publication No. 2, by Barker. It is a fourteen page treatise. If you wish to learn more, get one or more of the books referred to in this circular.

REPLY TO R. D. M.

No. I do not think you have heart disease, or that you need a tonic. What you need is to change your habits. Overcome your constipation. Try bran in abundance, or agar, or paraffin oil. Change your eating habits. Drink plenty of water. You must exercise in the open air. Sleep in a well ventilated room.

REPLY TO MRS. J. E. M.

You need local treatment, both for your own welfare and that of your child. Be certain that your baby's eyes are washed with boracic acid solution and treated with silver solution immediately after birth.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1914: By the Brentwood Co.]

RUSTEM BEY'S departure from Washington, at the instance of his own government, which has taken strong exception to his behavior in Washington, excites no regret on the banks of the Potomac, where his presence has been regarded, even by the other members of the foreign diplomatic corps in the light of an unwelcome intrusion.

As a rule the sublime porte chooses its representatives abroad more carefully and intrusts its embassies and legations to men of social standing, of breeding, men, in fact, who are in a position to meet their colleagues of the diplomatic corps on a footing of equality and mutual esteem, men who have some notion of the obligations of their calling and some sort of diplomatic training.

Of the latter Rustem Bey has none whatsoever. It is quite untrue that he has ever been stationed before at Washington as secretary of the Ottoman mission, although there have been several Turkish diplomats accredited there who bore the name of Rustem Bey, but who were in nowise related to the now outgoing ambassador.

The now departing Rustem Bey, who, sent by the sublime porte to cultivate the friendship of the United States and to promote American good will towards Turkey, went out of his way grossly to offend the president, the government, and the popular sentiment of the country to which he was accredited, was until comparatively recently a journalist at Cairo where he was connected in a reportorial and afterwards editorial capacity with a somewhat unsavory paper known as the Bourse Egyptienne, frequently in trouble with the khedivial and English authorities by reason of its appeals to Nationalist disturbers and its distortion of facts.

While in Egypt, Rustem Bey, who was then known as M. de Bilinski, was actively associated with all those Nationalist intrigues against the khedivial government and the English authorities which had their origin with certain attachés of the German legation at Cairo, notably Baron Max Oppenheim, formerly a frequent visitor to the United States, and who had large sums of money at his disposal for the promotion of anti-English and anti-French agitation not only in Egypt but also throughout northern Africa.

Finally Alfred de Bilinski found it well to abandon the land of the Nile and to betake himself to Constantinople in search of more profitable and more congenial pastures, where he would not be exposed to the stern scrutiny of a British plenipotentiary such as Lord Kitchener.

He carried with him letters of recommendation from some of the Nationalist agitators at Cairo and Alexandria to people of their own kidney at Stamboul, that is to say, to Turks there who were prejudiced against everything English and French.

At their instance he became a convert to Islam in last May, abjuring Christianity, changing his name of Alfred to that of Achmet, and renouncing his allegiance to the dual empire. Thereupon, thanks to the backing of the German government at Constantinople and to the maneuvers of his new made German friends, he received the poorly paid post of Ottoman ambassador at Washington after it had been declined by nearly a dozen of Turkish diplomats and dignitaries to whom it had been offered.

His apostasy was far from receiving the approval of the better element of Islam, and I have before me a clipping from the Moayad, the most reputable paper of the Moslem press in Egypt, which remarks anent his conversion:

"Whatever may be the cause, all sensible persons admit without the least hesitation that such foreigners who change their faith in order to further their ambition have always been a curse to oriental governments." Rustem Bey quits the United States with an altogether unique reputation for tactlessness and discourtesy towards its chief magistrate and people.

The French branch of the historic house of Bourbon has been placed in mourning by the death on the field of battle of Col. Patrick de MacMahon, who commanded the Thirty-fifth regiment of French infantry, which, until the beginning of the present war was in garrison at Belfort. He was married to that Princess Marguerite of France who is the only surviving daughter of the late Duc de Chartres. The Duc de Chartres, it may be recalled, served with his elder brother, the Comte de Paris, on the staff of Gen. McClellan during the American civil war.

Col. Patrick, or Patrice de MacMahon, was on the eve of his promotion to the rank of general when the war started. This would have enabled him at length to assume his father's title of Duke of Magenta, for he is the eldest son of that fine old Marshal MacMahon who for several years was president of the republic, and who won his dukedom of Magenta on the battlefield of that name in the war of 1859 against Austria, in Italy.

Col. de MacMahon, who had greatly distinguished himself in connection with the conquest of Madagascar, took after his mother, a sister of the last Duc de Castries, rather than after his father. Like her, he was not very tall. He was extraordinarily good humored, a general favorite in fact. He leaves, besides his widow, three children, two girls and a boy of 11, who inherits the dukedom of Magenta, the marquisate of MacMahon, which dates from the reign of Louis XVI., the family château de la Foret, in the Loiret, and the family mansion in the Rue de Bellechasse in Paris.

In the event of the boy dying without issue, the honors and estates will pass to his uncle, Emmanuel de MacMahon, colonel of the One Hundred and Fifty-fifth regiment of infantry, who made a name for himself, besides winning rapid promotion, in the various campaigns against the Black Flags in Tonkin.

The new Duke of Magenta, like his father, is descended from the ancient Anglo-Norman house of FitzUrse. Indeed, among his forbears is Sir Reginald FitzUrse, the leader of the four knights of King Henry II., who at that monarch's instance killed St. Thomas à Becket, the archbishop of Canterbury, on the altar steps of his cathedral.

Sir Reginald, after the crime, fled to the north of Ireland, and spent the remainder of his days in voluntary exile, becoming the ancestor of the Irish MacMahons. FitzUrse means "Son of the Bear," a Norman-French equivalent of the Bjornson of the Viking conquerors, and the Celtic-Irish translation of this is "MacMahon."

One of Sir Reginald's descendants was an Irish physician, Patrick MacMahon who in 1742, after studying medicine in Paris, settled down to the practice of his profession at Autun. Marrying a very rich widow, he became through her the owner of a large estate in Burgundy, was created a marquis by Louis XVI., and died at Spa in 1775. It was his eldest son, the second marquis of MacMahon, who by his marriage to Mlle. de Caraman of the ducal house of that name became the father of several sons, one of whom was the second president of the French republic as well as a marshal of France and first Duke of Magenta.

DIVISION OF PROPERTY.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A man aged 48 years has just died, leaving a widow, a daughter by a previous marriage (who has reached her majority), and a son only 6 years old. Kindly inform us through your columns:

1. Concerning the division of the property left by the decedent.

2. Whether special allowances are not made for the raising and education of the minor child.

3. Whether the interests of the daughter in the estate who has reached her majority cannot be bought or sold irrespective of the remainder of the heirs to the estate.

4. Whether it is compulsory for the widow to live in the real estate in order to secure her homestead rights, or whether she can sublet this homestead and move into less expensive quarters in order to obtain a greater income. G. A. S. JR.

1. The widow takes a dower in the real estate, that is, a one-third interest in the property for her life. In addition the widow takes one-third of the personal property left by her husband. The balance of the real estate and personal property goes to the two children in equal shares.

2. An award will be granted in the estate for the support of the widow and minor child during the time that the estate is being probated. No other special allowance will be made for the minor child except from her share in the estate.

3. After the estate is divided this daughter may make such disposition of her share of the property as she sees fit. Up to the time that the property is divided she can only dispose of her share by court order in the proceeding in which the other heirs are notified.

HALF-SISTER'S INHERITANCE.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Can a half-sister come in for a share of a deceased sister's estate? A brother died, but she did not come in for any money. Why should she come in on this? K. G.

In the event that the deceased died leaving no will and leaving her surviving no parents, it is probable that the half-sister is entitled to a share of the estate. It would be advisable to have an attorney investigate the matter.

DISTRIBUTING AN ESTATE.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—What is the law of Illinois on the distribution of the holdings of the husband, in the event of death, where there is no will and where there are no children? Does the widow receive all moneys in bank, mortgages, bonds, etc., or papers of commercial value, or does she only receive a certain portion? A. M. L.

In this situation the widow takes the whole of the personal property of the deceased, one-half of his real estate, and dower in the other half of his real estate. The remaining one-half of the deceased's real estate will, subject to the widow's dower, descend to his parents, brothers, and sisters. The personal property includes money in bank, mortgages, bonds, and commercial paper.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A. says that a chattel mortgage made out for two years is still good for ten years after expiring. B. claims that if not renewed after expiring within a reasonable time it becomes canceled or is not binding. G. W. H.

Under the law of Illinois a chattel mortgage is effective as a lien on the property and maturity of the debt, or extension thereof, provided such time shall not exceed three years from the filing of the mortgage; and thereafter if within thirty days before the expiration of three years or within thirty days preceding the maturity of the indebtedness, an affidavit is filed setting forth the unpaid amounts of the mortgage indebtedness and the time when the same will become due.

PRESIDENT WILSON AND THE PROTEST.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—While a signer of the protest prepared by Mr. Brand of the Staats-Zeitung, I see the justice of the president's position and believe every citizen of the United States should not only acquiesce in the fine distinction made by our chief executive but should uphold him fittingly.

AGAINST MILITARISM.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 24.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Our schools and churches incite warfare, kindergartens teach war to the death with toy soldiers, public schools with war maps; churches are scouting camps; we sing "Hold the Fort," "Onward, Christian Soldiers"; sermons and prayers are combative toward God's enemies—our enemies; sectarian militancy almost to hatred between 100 sects is our national record. We are ready for some one to strike the match and start the same barbaric flame that is devastating Europe. We had a narrow escape in Mexico, thanks to a wise president. This war should open the eyes of the whole world to the insidious, cowardly, unchristian crimes of militarism. True Christians know not enemies nor enmity. THE TRIBUNE editorials along this line are excellent. W. M. BLACKSTOCK.

FORTUNES OF WAR.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—1. When one nation takes land from another nation as the result of war, does the individual retain title?

2. Many thousands of men in the armies of Europe may have had life insurance. Was it cancelled the moment the policyholder took up arms? Would the cash surrender value be a burden to American companies at this time?

3. What salary does a Chicago alderman get?

4. Also, what does a congressman get? H. S. CARY.

[1. Yes. 2. It depends on the policy. Many American companies have policies which do not exclude military service. 3. $3,000. 4. $7,500.]

SULLIVAN AS A DEMOCRAT.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—A correspondent reveals a mind imbued with hatred against the Democratic primary selection for United States senator. His principal accusation against the candidate is that he refused to vote for W. J. Bryan in 1896 and that "no Democrat can remain true to his country and vote for Sullivan or any of his ilk." At a banquet in Decatur on July 9 Mr. Sullivan said: "I have supported the candidates of the Democratic party loyally and earnestly, whether I liked them personally or not, if they stood for the principles of the party." The clouds of Sullivan opposition are passing away and the rays of the rosy dawn of success in November are illuminating the horizon of his coming victory. Byron's reply to the British bards and Scottish reviewers is pertinent, "Cheer on the pack, the (Sullivan) quarry stands at bay." THOMAS B. O'BRIEN,

WASTING FUEL.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—At a season when the United Charities asks for double the sum which has in previous years been needed, does it not seem that there is something wrong in the following: From an Illinois Central train one day I was dismayed to see huge piles of railroad ties burning. A vision came before me of huddling, chilled humanity shivering in empty tenements and of half clad children seeking a public place in which to warm their benumbed fingers and poor little bodies.

Cannot some influential agency bring the matter to the attention of this great corporation, who, no doubt, would be very glad to serve their fellow beings by the simple use of their waste material. GERTRUDE TUTTLE.

JEWS IN RUSSIAN ARMY.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—With reference to "Domino's" allusion to the Jewish army, she seems to forget that the spirit of undiluted patriotism is just as rife in the Jewish breast as in the Catholic or Protestant. Furthermore, that same spirit is not religionized but is national, as evidenced by the presence of the Jew in the armies of the allies and that of the dual alliance. Also, with all due respect to "Domino's" lovely altruism, albeit the knout, there are specific instances of the heroism of the Jew in the armies of that arch auto-Semitic nation, Russia. Surely such are not the actions of men in fear of the knout but of men who rise above their own terrible grievances to the support of the mother country. NATHANIEL ROSENTHAL,

ROGER SULLIVAN FINDS NEW ENEMY; HINTS POLL FRAUD

CALLED 'PERIL TO NATION'

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The National Popular Government league tonight announced that it will actively oppose Roger C. Sullivan in his campaign to become United States senator from Illinois. The league also formally served notice of a similar fight on Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania, candidate for reelection.

Characterizing Sullivan's election as a "menace to popular government, state and national," the league, in its announcement, charges that Sullivan obtained his nomination through enormous expenditures of money and the sinister power of a bipartisan machine.

Charges Against Two Candidates.

"That both Penrose and Sullivan secured their nomination through the influence of enormous expenditures of money by their supporters and through the sinister power of the bipartisan machines.

"That their success at the primaries was promoted by defective machine made primary laws which deny the secrecy of the Australian ballot, militate against the freedom of the voters, and permit skillful frauds to be perpetrated.

"That if Senator Norris' resolution is passed by the senate and an investigation of these two primaries takes place the results will shock the nation.

"That an enormous sum of money, estimated to be $1,000,000, is ready to be spent if necessary to elect them to the senate, where, because of the peculiar organization of the senate, the rules would give them, and each of them, an enormous influence.

"That both had behind them the support, direct and indirect, of the special interests in these states.

"That they both have been persistent enemies for years of the popular government system.

Repudiated Party Pledges.

"That the followers of Sullivan, in collusion with those of Lorimer, in 1911 and again in 1913, prevented the submission of the initiative and referendum and the enactment of a corrupt practice act by the Illinois legislature after these measures had been twice promised in both party platforms and had been approved by the people by a vote of over three to one.

"That likewise the followers of Penrose in 1911, by the gavel, prevented the submission of the initiative and referendum in Pennsylvania, and that they defeated it again in 1913.

"That both have repeatedly violated their party platforms, acted in direct opposition to the demonstrated will of the people, and have no moral right to claim the allegiance of the rank and file of any political party nor to ask the people to intrust them with responsible public positions, no matter what their platform promises may be."

Announcement Stirs Up Capital.

The announcement caused no little stir in Washington political circles. Senator Owen of Oklahoma, a Democrat, is president of the Popular Government league and signed the announcement. Senator Clapp of Minnesota, a Republican, is vice president. Senator Norris of Nebraska, author of the resolution to investigate the Sullivan and Penrose primary campaign expenditures, is a Republican.

Other officials who signed the attack are Congressmen Crosser of Ohio, Manahan of Minnesota, and Kelly of Pennsylvania, Democrat, Republican, and Progressive, respectively.

One of the features of the active campaign against Sullivan, in view of the league's announcement, probably will be a speech making tour of Illinois by Senator Owen in behalf of Raymond Robins, the Progressive candidate.

Boy Drowns in River.

Yson Voeuszewski, 18 years old, was drowned yesterday in the north branch of the river, near Blanche street. He had been fishing and fell into the water. A friend made unavailing efforts to rescue him. Voeuszewski lived at 1212 Milwaukee avenue.

OAK PARK WOMEN POLITICAL FOES?

ELECTION NEXT MONTH.

Mrs. George W. Plummer of Oak Park probably will be one of the principal "dark horse" candidates to enter the race for election to the presidency of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association at the state convention in the Congress hotel next month. Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, the present incumbent, will be a candidate for reelection, but it is predicted that a formidable fight will be made in the interest of several other candidates.

Several "dark horses" already have been chosen by members of the organization, but so far the name of Mrs. Plummer is the most prominent which has been advanced, and, acording to rumor, she will be the most powerful one whom Mrs. Trout's adherents will have to combat.

Not only will the election of president be fought desperately, it is said, but the adoption of a new constitution will be urged by the opposition.

ANSWERS HIS DOOR BELL; GETS BULLET IN ABDOMEN.

Teamster Wounded Seriously When He Responds to Ring by Man Police Say Had Been Drinking.

Otto Pigusch, 2543 Archer avenue, a teamster, answered a ring of his door bell yesterday. He opened the door, and a man standing outside fired a shot at him. The bullet entered his abdomen. As he fell his assailant staggered away.

The police of the Deering street station were notified of the shooting, and Detectives Creighton and Woods hurried to the scene. Pigusch's assailant, walking at a slow gait, was pointed out to them and was arrested. He gave the name of John Spies, 2702 South Union avenue. He had been drinking, the police declare. They questioned Pigusch and the prisoner, but were unable to learn the motive for the shooting.

Pigusch was taken to the People's hospital, and is in a critical condition.

"DRYS" LINE UP FOR BIG BATTLE

ALL PARTIES GET BUSY.

With the opening of the senatorial and state campaign all along the line this week Illinois also is to be given national prominence in the firing of the first guns against demon rum by the newly combined dry forces under the national prohibition propaganda.

The nation-wide "flying squadron" itinerary, by which it is aimed to bring together all the various organizations now opposing the liquor forces, is to start at Peoria next Wednesday, where three days of speechmaking are to be devoted to the big distillery town.

Swing Around Country Planned.

Oliver W. Stewart, former member of the legislature, and Dr. Wilbur F. Sheridan, general secretary of the Epworth League of America, are to represent Illinois on the "flying squadron." After opening the campaign at Peoria a swing around the entire country will be made, winding up in the spring with a demonstration in Chicago.

The purpose of the movement is to get all the organizations working in harmony for a combined attack on the next congress in behalf of a national prohibition statute.

Battle Lines Formed This Week.

While the dry forces are opening the national campaign at Peoria the Republicans and Democrats will swing into battle line in Chicago and perfect plans for the state campaign. Senator Sherman and the national congressional and Illinois state committees will open headquarters at the Hotel La Salle tomorrow.

Roger C. Sullivan and his aids will hold a meeting of all the Democratic state candidates and the members of the new state central committee at the Hotel Sherman on Thursday.

Senator Sherman already has made his formal reply to Col. Roosevelt, and the Sullivan people will prepare their statement on Thursday. They do not propose to take issue directly with Col. Roosevelt, but to center their attacks on Raymond Robins.

MILK PRODUCERS CALL MORRISON STORY UNTRUE.

Pass Resolutions Denouncing Article in "Tribune" Entitled "Tuberculin Cattle Trust."

The milk board of the Milk Producers' association at a meeting held on Sept. 21 adopted the following resolutions:

"We, the milk board of the milk producers, declare without reservation that the article written by C. M. Morrison and published in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on Sept. 20, entitled 'Tuberculin Cattle Trust,' is a gross misrepresentation of the facts, a libel upon the dairy industry, and an insult to the intelligence of all engaged in the occupation of dairying.

"We reaffirm our position of the past that no city on earth is blessed with a purer, more wholesome milk supply than is Chicago, and that no district on earth can boast of a better, healthier class of cattle than is found in this district furnishing Chicago its milk.

"We care nothing for the quarrel between certain political doctors, veterinarians, job holders, et al., and James Dorsey or other cattle dealers regarding the infraction of tuberculin test regulations.

"We do believe from our knowledge of the men and the test that if these cattle dealers are guilty of all that Mr. Morrison charges in his article they are still just as reliable and trustworthy as the tuberculin.

"We condemn the action of the federal bureau of animal industry in quarantining the counties of Cook, Lake, McHenry, Kane, and Du Page as actuated by motives other than the welfare of our herds or the healthfulness of our product."

ARMED, SHE ROUTS ROBBERS

CHASES THEM IN ALLEY.

Shoots When She Finds Herself Unable to Effect Capture.

Miss Margaret Doring routed an armed robber who entered her grocery at 1456 North Leavitt street Saturday night and ordered her to turn over the day's receipts.

Instead of complying, Miss Doring went to the cash drawer, obtained a revolver, purchased the day before, and pointed it at the intruder. The latter, although armed, fled from the store, closely followed by Miss Doring. On reaching the street the robber was joined by another man, who had been keeping watch on the outside, and both fled north in Leavitt street and then west in Le Moyne street, their intended victim pursuing them and shouting for help.

Neighbor Joins in Chase.

A. Bloch, 1444 North Leavitt street, attracted by her screams, joined in the chase.

Miss Doring, still carrying the revolver, fired one shot at the fleeing robbers. On reaching an alley near Le Moyne street the men turned and fired several shots at their pursuers, none taking effect. They then fled down the alley and escaped. A blue cap, identified by Miss Doring as one worn by the robber who entered the store, was found in the alley.

Miss Doring reported the attempted robbery to the West North avenue police and furnished them with a description of the men. She charged that the robbers worked unmolested because of "sheer lasiness," as she expressed it, on the part of the police.

Says Police Are Lazy.

"If you would only get a little more active you might catch a few of them," she told Lieut. Louis Custy.

Two poorly dressed men attacked and robbed Ida Boyd, 53 years old, 125 West Eighteenth street, of 25 cents in her home on Saturday night. After remaining in the house four hours the men left, locking Miss Boyd, who is a washerwoman, in a room. She was cut and bruised severely in her struggle with the men.

After forcing the night watchman and another employé into a refrigerator and locking the door, four armed men blew open the safe in the office of the Illinois Smoked Meat company, 2910 Poplar avenue, with nitroglycerin and escaped with $110 and $37 in checks.

The safeblowers gained entrance to the plant by prying open a rear window. Henry Plosdecki, the watchman, was overpowered. The robbers were all between 20 and 22 years of age.

Three armed men heldup Alex Weiss, a restaurant owner, while on the front stairs of his home, 5407 South Michigan avenue, and robbed him of $40 and a diamond stickpin valued at $200. The men had followed him several blocks, he said.

Alexander Niosankowski, 1232 Fry street, was robbed of $8 by three armed men at night while walking on the Desplaines street viaduct. They returned a silver cigaret case after he told them it was a present from his mother.

SHERMAN HITS BACK AT FOES

CITES OWN RECORD.

ily for the very valuable aid rendered by you at Springfield in securing the adoption of suitable resolutions by the Illinois state convention and the selection of the delegates at large. I assure you that this is a service which will not be forgotten.'

"I was a delegate in the Republican national convention. I kept faith with the people who sent me. On all parliamentary questions I voted steadily for Roosevelt. I supported him to the final roll call. I refused to bolt the convention. Not a Roosevelt Republican of 1912 or now believes I faltered a moment in obeying the will of the voters expressed at the April, 1912, primaries.

Had Roosevelt Indorsement.

"Roosevelt issued to me a certificate of fitness and character as far back as 1907. A commission I have before me acknowledges this. In it, over his signature, he recites that he reposes 'special trust and confidence in the wisdom, uprightness, and learning of Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois,' in witness of which he caused the commission to be issued and the seal of the department of justice to be fixed. This commission was countersigned by his attorney general, Charles J. Bonaparte.

"Does the colonel, or any of his friends, know of anything since May 17, 1907, the date he commissioned me, that I have done to forfeit the confidence of the people of this state? The difficulty is that the colonel does not remain of one mind long at a time. He is fickle in his affections and equally inconstant in his devotion to his alleged principles.

"Mr. Roosevelt charges that a Sullivan-Lorimer bipartisan combination of former years has continued and at Springfield last year was a Sherman-Sullivan combine. The charge is utterly false. For more than fifteen years Mr. Lorimer and I were not in accord in methods of party management. We both remained Republicans. Mr. Lorimer defeated me in several party struggles. Mr. Roosevelt's Illinois friends were then with Mr. Lorimer and against me. This situation continued for some years, and is so well known in this state to all as to require no further comment.

Turns on Robins.

Turing to Mr. Robins, Senator Sherman says:

"Col. Roosevelt comes a long journey to advise Illinois voters to elect Raymond Robins. Who is Raymond Robins? What does he believe? What has he done? Why should he be elected United States senator?

"During the years of which complaint is made about me was Mr. Robins in the legislature, in congress, or in public office? At the time some of the most remedial legislation for social justice in congress or our state legislature was enacted, I was writing statutes instead of my biography. He is principally remembered during this period as a single taxer. He appears as a member of the commission of the Joseph Fels fund. This is a fund devoted to propagating the single tax.

"The pamphlet describing the purpose of this commission states 'its object was and is to help bring about the practical operation of the single tax.' The commission holds that this object can be more quickly attained in places where the movement is sufficiently advanced to make the single tax a political issue.

Henry George Follower.

"Do you wish your children and your children's children cut off from their inheritance and your possessions held as common property? Raymond Robins belives in the single tax. He is a disciple of Henry George. He has devoted some of his energy in years past to promulgating this theory.

"In practice it destroys the farmer's use and title to his land. It confiscates city property. Homesteads, business property, vacant lots, fertile fields, pasture land, valley and plain with its cattle on a thousand hills, with its waving grain, are all to pass under the confiscating hand of the single tax in that body. He will endeavor, if sincere, to impose upon the government, state or national, his views and embody them in law constitutional and statutory.

Warns Against Appeal.

"Roosevelt now seeks to commit and deliver every Progressive voter in Illinois to Mr. Robins and thereby elect him senator, to the end that the land now held by private owners shall be taken from them and converted into common property. It is time for some independent thinking rather than to heed Roosevelt's appeal for Robins.

"Yet Mr. Robins is a candidate whom Mr. Roosevelt advises the voters of Illinois to elect to the United States senate.

"This is the New Nationalism. It is taking from those who have and giving to those who have not. It is a leveling of possessions. It is an equality of economic opportunity. It will please Debs. It would make Carl Marx rejoice exceedingly if he were alive."

Greg Hamilton .....Richard C. Travers
Helen .....Ruth Stonehouse

THIS is a bit of picturized domesticity that looks like a magazine story reads. It possesses well rounded completeness and is logically put together, and above all, it is a happily human little story that enlists the real sympathetic interest of its observers. That is a point frequently missed by pictures. The thrill is the goal so often of producers, forgetting that people are not always aching to be shocked into amazement, are not always seeking the smashingly sensational, but down in their hearts, most of the time, welcome the simple little real things of life that parallel their own experiences or imaginations, that they can interpret through their own emotional windows.

Books of that sort, for the most part, are kept free from dust on library shelves, and from that evidence it is safe to predict that the pictures of that type will draw ultimately a stronger following than those forever bristling with "the most thrilling sensations," "the most hairbreadth escapes," "the most gigantic, terrifying, and amazing" accomplishments that ever exhausted the gray matter of producers or plumbed the purse of the manufacturer.

But to go back to "White Lies." Greg Hamilton was an artist stung by the bee of ambition. He decided to go east to find a wider field for his talents, and at a gay little Bohemian dinner he and his wife bade their old friends farewell and turned their faces fortuneward.

They didn't find fortune at the station to meet them, however. They set up housekeeping in a studio apartment and Greg went busily to work with his brushes, but still the independent old dame did not call on them. The world of art did not seem to be a suffering vacuum waiting for Mr. Hamilton's efforts to fill it. And instead of fortune, along came misfortune to visit them. While walking one day in the park Greg saved a little child's life by stopping a runaway, but at the cost of breaking one of his fingers. Though the hurt was slight, it effectually prevented any artistic efforts, and thereby heaped up worries on the house of Hamilton.

One day Helen, weary of the inactivity and worried by the bills, came in announcing that she had secured a position as a governess, painting in glowing colors the advantages of the position. And soon thereafter Greg explained how he had a job writing some stuff for a magazine.

The observer on the outside has the advantage over the participants, and so is able to see Greg wheeling trucks of boxes about in the intervals that he is supposed to be doing his "magazine work."

One day a girl came running into the shipping room to borrow a handkerchief for one of the girls who had cut her hand, and Greg produced a neatly folded, unmistakably initialed article, which Helen wore home that evening. The secret of the two occupations was out. The white lies told by each for the sake of shielding the other from anxiety were explained and forgiven—and the next day Greg sold a picture. It was time for him to, and we are glad to have affairs mend.

Altogether it is a very pleasant little picture that leaves one with the feeling of having shared in a pleasantly refreshing experience.

MISS RUTH STONEHOUSE, ESSANAY

MISS RUTH STONEHOUSE, one of Essanay's most pleasing players, is a busy and an energetic person. She appears in a number of the pictures. She is a talented dancer and she keeps an eye on what all the other photo players are doing by constantly attending the picture shows in the neighborhood. She doesn't go for amusement's sake, however, but for rather a post-graduate course in the art of film acting, making the picture she views a bit of laboratory investigation of the heroine's handling of the situations.

Picture Personals.

E. K. Lincoln, formerly with the Vitagraph company and now leading man for the Photo Plays Production company, is an enthusiastic hydro-aeroplanist, due in part to the professional necessity for acquiring the art to use in a forthcoming war picture. Mr. Lincoln finds it much fun even if it is training.

Winifred Greenwood, lovely lead of the American company, has launched into the playwriting practice, and her initial script, "Daphnia," will soon figure as a two reel release from the "Flying A" field.

True Boardman, general utility villain for the western Essanay studio, is now not only a baseball fan but a baseball umpire as well, and they say around Niles that he does the deed very professionally.

Worse than the sands of the sea are motion picture players to keep tab on. Today they are here and tomorrow they are there, and it is awfully hard on chroniclers. Al Filson, for instance, who has long been filed away among the Seligites, bobs up now in the Griffith Majestic studios.

Song of Long Ago.

"I WOULD like to send in the words to the old time song beginning 'A frog went a-courting; he did ride,' which was requested by Mrs. E. C. C. Also, could the Cornerites get for me the words of a song, of which the chorus runs:

"'I hear her singing, sweet and low,
No songs to me such pleasure bring,
I hear them now where'er I go,
The songs my mother used to sing.'

"I would appreciate it very much, as I have looked in the stores in vain for it.

"MRS. J. F. H."

"The frog who would a-wooing go" has gone to Mrs. E. C. C. Thank you for your kind intention. Your request is referred to the hoarders of songs of long ago.

"St. Peter at the Gate."

"Mrs. M. H. N. calls for the poem, 'St. Peter at the Gate.' I have it and will take pleasure in copying it for her and will send it either to you or to her as desired.

"MRS. J. S."

If the member who asked for the poem "St. Peter at the Gate" will let us know if she has not received it, we will put her into communication with you. Please hold the poem until we hear from her.

Entertaining a House Party.

"Some of us intend to make a tremendous success of a pleasure party. My express purpose is to arrange a program of games, etc., for an afternoon and evening, and I seek your assistance in this. Could you suggest a few games and also suitable souvenirs for this affair? It is to be a house party. I know I am indefinite, but I ask for as many ideas and suggestions as you will be kind enough to give me. BEN W. G."

Why not have as the central idea of the evening, a little charade or play? Engage as many of the guests as you can in this. A charade requires little or no rehearsal, if the actors are quick witted. The impromptu character of the affair makes it more interesting. I confess that I am puzzled by your mention of afternoon and evening. It is hard to carry over a program. And do you purpose to have a supper, or an afternoon tea, or informal refreshments both afternoon and evening? However this may be, get up your charade and when this is over set out card tables for some and let those who prefer dancing have room and time for that. Make up a program in which each of these amusements has place, and call upon the various members of the party to help form your "troupe." Like yourself, I wish I could be more definite, but it is not practicable to offer more than an outline without knowing more of the circumstances and conditions under which the entertainment is to be conducted. Will our junior members contribute ideas for souvenirs?

Copying in Longhand.

"Some time ago I heard that there are firms which dictate letters to stenographers, who, after taking them down in shorthand, write them out on the typewriter. Then these are given to another person who copies them in longhand, as some say the latter are more businesslike. I hear these longhand copyists receive good salaries. Could you tell me how I could obtain such a position? I am a girl of 17 and at present I am doing bookkeeping, getting $10 a week. I should like to earn more. M. M. N."

I refer your query to other business women. I supposed that a typewritten business letter is more acceptable to the recipient than one done in longhand. It is certainly more legible. It is possible, however, that you have been correctly informed. Suffer a bit of practical, motherly counsel. If you have a position that brings you in even $10 a week, hold it tightly until these calamities of wars and hard times "be overpast." Then cast about for higher pay. Just now the watchword is, in sporting phrase, "Sit tight!"

An Old Hymn.

"Would it be possible to find out through your Corner the words, or where they could be obtained, of the old song or hymn, 'They Never Say Good-by in Heaven'? It is very old, and it may be that some of your readers could advise where the music and words could be obtained. M. G. L."

The request is referred to readers. Will you, meanwhile, let us have your address in full that the song may be forwarded to you by mail when we receive it?

Hints in Fighting the H. C. of L.

"I send you a few hints to help out in the present high cost of living. Sugar is so high now I intend canning fruit juices and will then proceed to make jelly in the winter. Every year when apples are cheap I make apple sauce without sugar. Use new rubbers, fill can really full; have some hot water on top of sauce. It is as good as fresh sauce. To clean a chicken quickly, after singeing it put into warm water, rub baking soda on the skin, and scrub lightly with a small vegetable brush. Can any one give me a recipe for soft caramel frosting made of dark brown sugar? MRS. J. J. M."

Your helping hints are excellent. Anything that lessens the pull upon the housewifely purse is a benefaction. I pass on your question concerning dark caramel frosting. I have never heard of it until now. Cannot you make it dark enough by browning the caramel? What is the advantage of using the dark brown sugar? Will the member who supplies the recipe enlighten us here?

Veteran Wants Crutches.

"I am an old soldier, 14 years of age. I lost the use of my legs four months ago. Could some one give me a pair of crutches? I am five feet eight inches. I can pay expressage on them. There are plenty of cast aside crutches somewhere, and some one can help me. M. McK."

"A pair of crutches for a crippled veteran." It should be needless to enlarge upon the simple statement.

Doris Blake Says

"When a woman talks alone it is a monologue. When she talks with another woman it may be a dialogue, and again it may be a catalogue."

Beware Girls!

BEWARE of the male flatterer, girls. Yes, of course, you do love a little flattery. So do I. And who doesn't? But do please be warned against taking the male flatterer's lovemaking seriously.

There are men who take to lovemaking as a duck takes to water, and, like the duck, the affair slips off their minds quite as easily as that same water.

I have in mind one particular male creature who is fully characteristic of this type. He simply cannot talk to a girl for five minutes without his conversation becoming the most delicate and dangerous of flattery. He is just as dangerous today as he was years ago when I was 18 and susceptible enough to believe that I (and not any and every woman) was the inspiration for his delicate deference and honeyed speech. I tasted sweet revenge, however, over the heavy and aching heart I carried within me for weeks after his flattery had penetrated its inmost recesses and he had left me "for pastures new and equally green." I know he is a bachelor today because the one girl he would have take him in earnest refused to do so. That's when his type meet their deserts. And it often happens thus—a man who has been too much to all is doomed to be nothing to any one.

To these male flatterers a girl is a delightful and captivating creature to while away a sunny day or hour.

One secret of his success with quite young girls, as I may testify from heartaching experience, is that he treats them with the most delicate deference, as if they were already women of the world. This they find such a refreshing change from the rest of their acquaintances, who consider them as mere children.

With older women, of course, he takes exactly the opposite course. He treats them as younger than they are—a flattery which few of us can resist.

O, he's a cunning rogue—the flattering male person—and one of whom to beware! For to take his lovemaking too seriously will spell a heartache later on.

It is far better to have a wooer who is shy and possibly awkward in his courting. His heart is almost certain to be in the right place, even if his tongue fails him at the moments when it might be eloquent. Gold and diamonds in the rough don't look as attractive as paste or gilding, but they are the real and the others are the false.

He Doesn't Answer.

Dear Miss Blake: Will you advise me in this? The boy I love, age 19, and my age, 15. I have gone with him a year now, have written him a registered letter, but received no answer. Can you tell how or why he has not answered? Will you tell me the style I must wear my hair and the length must wear my dresses? I am engaged to him. How can I win him? Do you think that two dark haired people would make any difference in their happiness? HUNEY BUNCH.

My dear child, you are far too young to be thinking of love. You are not engaged to the boy at all. He does not answer your letters because he does not care enough about you. That is the only interpretation that can be put on his silence. Do not allow yourself to think of love until you are older. Be a little girl while you can. Why don't you wear your hair down your back in a braid or in curls. Dresses to your shoe tops are long enough. It is an old superstition that a dark haired person should marry a light haired person, but there is no foundation for it.

Afraid She'll Be Old Maid.

Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 16 and am considered very beautiful. I have dark brown hair and blue eyes and am very fair complexioned. I am deeply in love with a boy 17. I have gone with him a few times. He acts like he loves me. How can I find out whether he loves me or not? He never goes with any other girl except me. My relatives do not like him and are always meddling with my affairs. I do not believe I could like any one but him. I'm afraid if I don't get him I will be an old maid. All the girls are crazy about him. I am short and heavyset. How long should I wear my dress? And how should I fix my hair—as I haven't very much? ROMPING JACK.

You are too young to be thinking seriously of love. Do not bother about the young man. Be good friends, but not at the expense of gaining your relatives' displeasure. When you are older you will be able to do as you like, but now you must obey your parents and relatives. Of course you won't be an old maid if you don't marry him. Don't be silly. If all the girls are crazy about him, he is probably conceited and you would not want to have much to do with a conceited man. Wear your dresses to your shoe tops and wear your hair down your back or in a loose coil at the back of your neck.

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets

By Lillian Russell

Too Much Scowling.

[Copyright: 1914: By Lillian Russell.]

WHERE there is a scowl on the face it is, of course, a reflection of a mental condition, and the mentality may be burdened with a physical weakness due to worry or strain or bodily illness. It is to be hoped that people will never permit the scowl to permanently abide upon their features, for it would mean that something is wrong with the habits of life.

High nervous tension quickly becomes a habit when the victim of it subsides and makes no effort at relaxation. The cheeks become drawn. Lines form and wrinkles soon groove the forehead.

Worry probably has much to do with the tendency to scowl, which unquestionably is afflicting the people of this nation. It would be all right to worry if worry accomplished anything, but worry can never undo the cause of worry.

Where the scowl comes from extraordinary demands upon the vitality, the mirror should tell the scowler to "ease up"—to become moderate in all things. It is as easy to dissipate in the dance, the card party, the late dinner, or in work, as it is to dissipate in strong drink.

Study the features carefully, calmly, and with good judgment. Take advice from the mirror and when a scowl is discovered, moodily resting upon features which should be serene and pleasant, seek out the cause. Do not worry. Do not overtax your strength. Be calm—always. Excitement soon places a human upon the home stretch of life.

Remember: A scowl is but a reflection of the inner self, and is a poor recommendation to the world.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

MRS. A. P.: I am no physician and cannot give advice in regard to internal diseases and ailments. I would advise you to take your children to a good physician immediately. Don't give them patent medicines without the advice of your physician.

M. E.: If you are going out immediately after bathing the face, a small amount of cream may be applied, rubbed into the skin and then the surplus cream taken off with a soft cloth, and a good face powder put on. This will not harm the skin. It is not absolutely necessary to use a face powder. Many people have lovely skins and do not use powder at all. If you use a cold cream before using powder, the powder will not clog the pores and cause blackheads, for the cream protects the pores of the skin.

GRACE: You must be patient if you wish to succeed. It takes some time before you notice any results when developing the bust with cocoa butter, for the process is slow. You have not used the treatment long enough.

THOMAS: I am sorry, but there is nothing you can do to make your nose smaller.

FLORENCE: I think if I were you I would consult a physician. There may be some infection in the skin of your face to cause it to become sore and red and peel off, and I think it would be best to find out what the trouble is right away. If the skin were just chapped the cream would have healed it, but when it has been troubling you for such a long time, there must be a deeper cause.

RUTH: Warm water will not make the face dry. Hot water will dry the skin. After washing your face with warm water dash cold over it. At night massage a good greasy cream. This will remedy the dry condition. If you care for the formula for a good cream send me a stamped, addressed envelope and I will gladly send one to you.

Clever Use of Tulle to Disguise Thinness.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—Sleevelessness in evening frocks is a mandate for the coming season. For even the thin woman only the filmiest drapery over the arms is permissible if she wishes to be au fait, and strangely enough there is a cleverness that can conceal a lack of flesh with tulle where velvet would have been transparent.

One frock in particular designed for a slim girl was a splendid example of this art. It had sleeves to the elbow of flesh colored chiffon, which gave the upper arm a plump look and yet were not noticeable at all, and from the shoulder almost to the wrist and caught into the back of the girdle a frill of silk fishnet in palest blue to match the satin of the gown fell in soft ripples. This frill was cut on the bias and the edge was picoted.

Another striking treatment was in black tulle. The frock itself was a combination of black satin and white charmeuse with a wide black velvet stripe. The armholes were cut almost to the waist line and filled in with black tulle, then a capelike frill of gray tulle hung over the shoulder and was caught in at the wrist with a band of black jet; thus the graceful curves of the arm were visible through a mist of gray, which lent a softness to the otherwise too striking appearance of the striped material.

Fur plays as important part as ever in the trimming of the new gowns. A gorgeous creation of crême panne velvet has a black martin band outlining the neck and fringing the tunic. It cleverly carries into the ballroom the smart look of the Russian frock by having a wide, loose girdle of self material heavily embroidered in gold and black with a pendant sash ending in two gold cords supporting two balls of the fur. It has something also of the Russian gorgeousness and the fur gave the look of warmth so desirable in the winter evening frock.

Among the fall textiles for evening wear satin holds its place of honor still, and one meteor which seems to have been made on a fairy loom is neither white nor pink, but just that wonderful tint between them that we see sometimes in the most delicate of shell cameos. It is satin that seems suddenly to have come to life; motionless it is dead white, in motion it has a shimmering pinkness that is exquisite.

Food Discussions.

WE are getting many invitations in these days to be neutral. In the food question let us particularly be interested in the right neutralities. For instance, there is the neutralization of diseases by foods. Germs of disease are undoubtedly neutralized or modified or destroyed by the right foods. At any rate, high energy which comes from right eating will neutralize almost any of the agencies of weakness called disease.

An unhappy form of neutralization that some people are practicing with foods is to try to neutralize the destructive food agencies by unnatural preservatives, which are not foods, and foods treated by them cannot be eaten by the ill or weak without disaster. The well can never measure how much they lose by wrong eating.

Doctors are making great efforts to keep the blood of their patients alkaline, by giving them various forms of salts, etc., but their efforts are vain if the food of every meal ferments or for any reason throws a lot of acid into the blood. There are foods which neutralize acids a little after the manner that alkaline cooking soda neutralizes the acid of sour bread or that of cream of tartar.

Turning the tables, the alkaline digestive juices of the mouth are neutralized by acids. These alkaline juices only act upon the starchy things such as bread, cereals, pie crust, macaroni, etc., which make up 60 per cent of our diet, and if we put into our mouth at the same time with these any acid thing they cannot work, though their work is very much needed to forward digestion. Their failure to work is indigestion, which literally means "not digestion."

The above statements are probably true beyond question, but in this matter of food doctrines there are many points yet under discussion. The calorie as a measure is the best unit we have at present, but there are good reasons why some doctors and dietitians reject it. Only those who have the expensive apparatus for measuring food thus can speak authoritatively. Those who follow tables made by authorities may fall into error, for several reasons, and typographical errors are not unknown. The food portion of 100 calories is distinctly uncertain.

In all these matters it is easier to travel over old roads than over newly plowed land. So new is this subject of dietetics that it is stated authoritatively that fifteen years ago one of the leading medical colleges of the country tried to get a man to teach the subject and could not find one. Prodigious advances have been made since then, and doctors everywhere are beginning to realize that "materia alimentaria" is quite as important as "materia medica," and dietitians believe it is everything.

A doctor in a distant city recently wrote to this column as follows: "Lately I have noticed in your department of THE TRIBUNE some hints on the proper and improper combinations of foods. Can you refer me to some authoritative discussion of this phase of dietetics? The texts on dietetics to which I have access throw little light on food compatibilities and incompatibilities, yet I feel the subject is one of great importance."

"All waste of life falls upon the stomach," said one of the earliest dietitians. "The character and perfection of life depend upon the nature and perfection of the diet." "Nature is equal to the common accidents of life, but when we habitually, persistently increase her work and at the same time diminish her power, she must break down at last."

Bruce, aged 5, had hurt his foot quite badly, and his aunt, who was a physician, had dressed the wound with absorbent cotton and a bandage. When the bandage was removed some of the cotton stuck to the wound, and Bruce looked up at his mother and said, "Mamma, is that what I'm stuffed with?"

A few days ago a little friend of ours, 3 years old stopped for her daily visit, but as we had other company we did not pay much attention to her chatter until she said that she would go home. ## Pastors See Peace in Labor's Attitude.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

HOPE for the world's peace is seen in the attitude of the laboring classes, according to the Rev. W. O. Waters, rector of Grace Protestant Episcopal church, South Wabash avenue and Fifteenth street, who spoke last evening on the subject "Socialistics and the War."

"It is the laboring man, not the kings, who are fighting the battles of Europe," he said, "and there is hope for a future day of peace in the attitude of the Socialists and laboring men generally who have organized a world brotherhood and on that account are opposed to the war.

"These men say, 'We do not hate our brothers, no matter what nation they are in.' They do not intend, therefore, to fight their brothers. Of course, they are drawn into the present conflict because they cannot help themselves, but their attitude is a promise of a peace which will yet come."

The Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, pastor of All Souls' church, Abraham Lincoln center, who preached an after-vacation sermon on the subject "Clouds," likened the European war to a "cloud which has overcast the sunny skies of the twentieth century civilization."

"America's Supreme Opportunity" was the subject of an address delivered in the afternoon by L. Wilbur Messer, general secretary of the Chicago Young Men's Christian association, in the central department auditorium at 19 South La Salle street.

The meeting was a union meeting of all the Chicago departments and was attended by about 200 secretaries and special workers in association activities. Mr. Messer returned from a tour around the world a few weeks ago.

"This is a time when the United States is being put to a supreme test with reference to the rest of the world," he said, "and it is our business to maintain high standards of government, business ethics, and individual character."

Sunday Eve. Club for Evanston.

Evanston is to have a Sunday Evening club. It will be held for three months, beginning Jan. 1, and the meetings will be held in the First Methodist Episcopal church.

The speakers already engaged include representatives of several denominations. They are the Rev. N. D. Hillis, the Rev. J. W. Gunsaulus, Dean W. T. Sumner, Fred B. Smith, J. Campbell White, Bishop C. F. McDowell, Bishop F. J. McConnell, Prof. H. L. Willett, the Rev. Thomas Nicholson, Prof. C. R. Henderson, Harry L. Wheeler, Prof. Lynn Harold Hough, and President J. G. K. McClure.

This will make the sixth Sunday Evening club in Chicago or suburbs started since the Sunday Evening club which meets in Orchestra hall was organized eight years ago.

Pastor Gets Two Calls.

A fatal automobile accident and the European war have opened the way for two calls to come to the Rev. A. L. Murray, rector of St. Mathew's Protestant Episcopal church of Evanston.

The first call came from the St. Paul's church, Evansville, Ind., whose rector, the Rev. Horace Jones, was killed in an automobile accident a week ago. The second call came from St. Margaret's church, Pointe, Canada, whose rector, the Rev. J. W. Woods, has gone to the European war as chaplain. The Rev. Mr. Murray announced yesterday to his congregation his reception of the two calls, but explained that owing to their sudden and unexpected character he would not decide at once on his future course.

Orchestra Players Face Hard Season.

BY RONALD WEBSTER.

OPERA singers and well advertised soloists have been able to gain considerable sympathy because of their predicament in the present war time. Most of them have taken advantage of the hopeful publicity in this country and are making for these shores as fast as they may, cabling in the meantime to their agents for dates.

No such helpful hand has been extended to the orchestral musicians in this country, particularly those of the canceled opera seasons. A violinist, not personally interested except as his friends have been caught, came into the office yesterday.

"Mrs. — [the wife of a Chicago orchestral man who has a canceled contract for the winter in his pocket] came to our house weeping a few days ago," he said. "There didn't seem to be any prospects for the winter. A dozen others have been looking for jobs."

It is entirely possible that unless some sort of opera is given in Chicago this winter, we will lose many men trained to opera, both in the orchestra and chorus. Trained chorus singers are not easy to come by and are a necessary part of the opera organization. It would seem reasonable that the orchestra of any company coming here to fill in the season, and if possible the chorus, should be recruited from resident musicians.

The English firm of managers, Schulz-Curtius & Powell, is planning the invasion of this country. They are attempting to arrange tours for Melsa, a Polish violinist; Guido Ciccolini, tenor; Mme. D'Alvarez, contralto; Edmund Burke, baritone; Mme. Regina Vicarino, Mark Hambourg, pianist, Maggie Teyte, and Edna Thornton, contralto. Practically all the announcements read "available for recital and concert, from October to April."

This winter will be the time for colorists of impressions to add extensively to their vocabularies.

All of the members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra are reported in America except Bruno Steindel, cellist, who expects to sail Oct. 3.

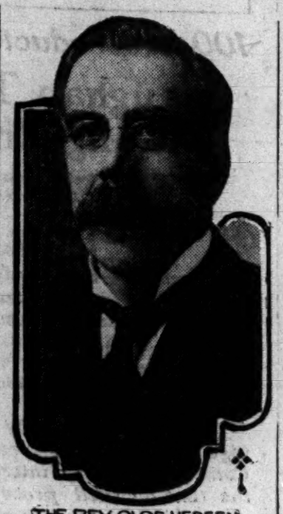

Pavlowa is touring England with her orchestra and company "to relieve the needs of the inhabitants." She will be in Chicago about Christmas time.

Honor Memory of Irish Heroes.

In an impressive ceremony witnessed by many persons at Mount Carmel cemetery yesterday the Clan-na-Gael guards of Chicago dedicated a monument to the memory of Lieuts. Michael O'Hara and Thomas Naughton, who lost their lives in South Africa while serving in the Irish brigade of the Boer army during the struggle of the Boers against Great Britain.

Five hundred of the guards entered the cemetery to the slow strains of funeral dirges and the beat of muffled drums.

THE REV. OLOF HEDEEN.

THE REV. OLOF HEDEEN, who was elected president of the Swedish Baptist conference of America, which closed its sessions in St. Paul Saturday evening, is pastor of the Englewood Swedish Baptist church. Up to a short time ago he was for seventeen years professor of New Testament Greek and biblical interpretation in the Swedish seminary in connection with the University of Chicago.

When the seminary was removed to St. Paul he was invited to go to St. Paul and continue in his professorship. He declined and became pastor of the Englewood church last May. The church has a membership of 600.

Mrs. Hedeen, on being called over the phone by THE TRIBUNE, was surprised to learn that her husband had been elected president of the national body. "I am sure," she said, "that he didn't have any thought when he went to St. Paul that he would be elected president. This is the first word I have received of his election."

Says Normal Family Is Ten Children.

THE normal scriptural family is ten children. It may be more, but it ought not to be less.

Before an audience of a thousand, many of whom were young people, the Rev. W. M. Stanford of Harrisburg, Pa., yesterday afternoon quoted scripture and added exhortation to show that large families were enjoined by nature and holy writ.

The audience was composed of delegates to the first general convention of the Sunday schools and the Keystone League of Christian Endeavor of the United Evangelical church. The meeting was held in Grace Methodist Episcopal church, Locust and North La Salle streets.

"Children are like olive plants about the table," Dr. Stanford quoted from the Bible.

"Notice that it says plants, not plant. David was one of ten children and had as many more of his own."

Again he quoted the words of the Bible: "Children are a heritage of the Lord. Happy is the man who has his quiver full of them."

He then denounced society for its failure to bear the burden of child bearing.

"This is a delicate subject," he said, "but the only way to drive out sin is to expose it.

"The average American family, especially in the so-called higher class, is small. This means national decadence. It means not only a decreasing population but a less virile and red blooded race.

"Formerly it was not so. When Jacob went down to the land of Goshen his children and children's children numbered seventy-five. In 200 years the Hebrews increased until they numbered from two to three million. God gave the command in the beginning: 'Be fruitful, multiply and replenish the earth.' God's word is the final authority and so-called would be high society has no right to clog the wheels of progress by refusing to obey the command."

E. P. Gates, field secretary of the Illinois State Christian Endeavor society, spoke on the motto, "Trust Plus Strive Equals Do." He urged the endeavor societies to advertise and make their meetings attractive. The convention will meet today in the Moody church.

Odd Fellows Buy Church.

In 1890 T. W. Harvey built a picturesque little stone church which he intended as a union church for Harvey people. Evidently he did not anticipate the proportions to which the town would grow, as the building was soon too small for the First Methodist Episcopal church, by which it was purchased in 1891. During the early days before and during the world's fair Mr. Harvey delighted to bring interesting people as a treat for the Harvey people, and Sankey, the famous singer, was one of the first to occupy the platform.

Last year the Methodists decided to seek more commodious quarters and sold the building to the Odd Fellows. They have moved across the street and taken possession of their new church.

The Odd Fellows have remodeled the building for lodge purposes and expect to take possession on Thursday.

The Odd Fellows, Harvey lodge No. 80, will hold an old timers' farewell meeting in the hall, which they have occupied for over twenty years, next Thursday evening.

On Saturday Harvey encampment No. 208 will hold a district meeting in the new hall. Grand encampment at 7 p. m., open meeting at 8 p. m.

Willard Hall Noonday Meetings.

Memorial services in honor of the seventy-sixth anniversary of the birth of Miss Frances E. Willard will be held at noon today in Willard hall, under the direction of Miss Mary C. C. Hopley. Miss Willard's grave at Rosehill will be decorated following the ceremonies.

The Rev. William Rice, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Homewood, will address the meeting tomorrow and Wednesday's meeting will be in charge of the Rev. Victor W. Thrall, pastor of the Wesley M. E. church. Thursday's meeting will be in charge of the Christian Missionary alliance, as usual, and the Sunday school lesson will be taught on Friday. The regular prayer and praise service will be held on Saturday.

THE REV. CONSTANTINE J. LAGAE.

ROMAN CATHOLICS from nearly every parish in the city assembled yesterday at the Holy Family (Jesuit) church to honor the Rev. Constantine J. Lagae, who celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his religious life in the Society of Jesus. A special high mass was celebrated at 7 o'clock in the main church. Several priests from other parishes were in attendance within the sanctuary, and the large edifice was filled with old time friends of Father Lagae.

Father Lagae came to Chicago as assistant pastor of the Holy Family church in 1885. He remained here ten years and was removed to Omaha, Neb., where he was made pastor of the Jesuit church in that city. He was at Omaha less than two years when he was transferred to St. Charles, Mo. Here he was stationed for nearly fifteen years, in charge of St. Charles Borromeo church. In June, 1911, he returned to Chicago and has been here since.

Dog Show Plans Ready.

The fifth annual dog show held under the auspices of the Associated Specialty clubs of Chicago is announced for Friday, Oct. 9, at the Bismarck garden, Grace street and Broadway. Dogs to the number of 400 will be shown by their owners, who will enter into the contests for the valuable cups and prizes offered. The entries are to close Sept. 30.

The association is composed of fanciers of English bulldogs, Boston terriers, French bulldogs, and Scotch collies, and its purpose is to bring together and judge in competition the best dogs in these breeds in the United States.

James A. Pugh and William Hale Thompson are in the prize list with offerings of cups for American bred bulldogs. Other prizes in this class are offered by B. A. L. Thompson, Henry D. Coghlan, A. F. Kramer, Greenebaum & Sons of Chicago, J. A. B. Hossack of Norwood Park, George Campbell of Liberty Center, O., and others.

In the collie class the Chicago Collie club has provided for the prizes to include puppies, novices, American bred and best male and female in the show. There is also a long list of prizes for the terriers, the donors being Mrs. F. A. Dallien, Dr. J. E. De Mund, Dr. C. A. White, Harry Osbourne, J. W. Burton, C. B. Clemons, Glen R. Perkins, Mrs. S. R. Simpson, and the Boston Terrier club of Boston. The French bulls are encouraged in the contest by prizes of value. The boulevard trophy by P. K. Georgiewich is for the best French bull owned by a member; the Hale puppy cup for the best puppy; the Normandy cup by Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Fisher for the best novice dog; the De Luxe cup by Mrs. George Hesse; and a cup by Mrs. A. Tooke for the best bred dogs of this class or among the offerings.

Gives Funkhouser Credit for Raids.

MISS HATTIE SATTLER, who has waged a steady war on South Chicago's "red light" district, the Strand, yesterday wrote to THE TRIBUNE declaring all of the credit for the raids of Saturday is due to Maj. Funkhouser and his aid, Capt. Philip Crippen. She says Capt. Morgan Collins consistently had refused to heed complaints of wide open vice, and declares his claiming credit for the cleanup is an injustice to those who brought about the results.

Her letter, in part, follows:

"In your issue of Sunday appears an article entitled 'Frenchy a Good Porter, Also a Good Sleuth.' You then tell how Frenchy, one of Maj. Funkhouser's men, obtained evidence against ten resorts here, and how Capt. Morgan Collins of the South Chicago police, at the head of a squad of policemen, arrested thirty-five inmates, etc.

"Now, as I believe I know as much about this matter as any one, and believing in giving every one credit for what they do, I give the facts.

"It is true Frenchy, one of Funkhouser's men, has been here obtaining evidence against resortkeepers, as well as some five or six saloons running without license. It is also true Frenchy did his duty in an acceptable and able manner—in fact, with his associate, got convicting evidence against some thirty-one houses, including five 'blind pig' keepers.

"But right there the truth ends. Capt. Morgan Collins had nothing to do with it. Maj. Funkhouser and Capt. Philip Crippen of his office are the ones who managed the entire matter, and to them belongs the credit. Capt. Collins has been shouting through the local press for months that his district was clean; that the resorts were all closed 'tighter than a drum,' etc., etc.

"Now come Maj. Funkhouser and his men and find thirty-one houses open and running right under his nose, all in the old 'red light' district and where he keeps his men night and day, supposedly to see there is nothing doing. These men, while frequently seen drinking and talking with the inmates, apparently never knew or heard of a resort in the neighborhood. They are as blind as Capt. Collins himself is oblivious.

"Mr. Farwell of the Hyde Park Protective league sent Capt. Collins a list of these five 'blind pigs' weeks ago. The Liquor Dealers' Protective association did the same thing, while I furnished him with a list of these same resorts months ago, with no results.

"Now to see him come to the front and claim the credit due to other parties is too great an injustice to those to whom the credit is due to pass unrebuked."

Packers to Meet in Chicago.

Representatives of nearly a thousand packing concerns and packing house supply companies will attend the annual convention of the American Meat Packers' association to be held in Chicago at the Hotel La Salle Oct. 19, 20, and 21.

Numerous papers of interest to the packers and the public will be read and discussed. With an even greater shortage in live stock than any time previously, it is expected that the speakers will be able to point out some way to bring about greater public sentiment in an effort to encourage more general stock raising in the United States.

LIKE an Embassy Ball staged but to give some social season a fitting introduction, the Autumn Opening punctuates the real beginning of the daily displays of new incoming fashions for which this store is broadly known.

Each week, each day, almost each hour finds some new arrival of a reigning mode emphasizing its continued favor—or revealing some new and even more fascinating variation.

So it is that every one of these days is signalized by the receipt of some new collection of fabrics or apparel worthy of a special display—and almost every hour brings new merchandise which of itself would make a visit to the store well worth while.

THESE are the last three days of the September Sales of Homefurnishings. They will come to a fitting close by a series of feature events in rugs, furniture, beds, chinaware and housewares. Space does not permit details, but your attention is well merited.

Many French Blouses Reproduced

$5, $8.75 and $12.75

Lace and chiffon and satin in combinations typically French—and crepe de Chine in colors exquisitely dainty tell only part of the story of these newest blouses.

It's the very artistic way in which they have been reproduced so that none of the original charm and beauty is lost which tells another part.

But it remains for the blouses themselves to give the most interesting phase of this chronicle of reproduction.

And so we illustrate four of these fascinating blouses taken from a group containing many replicas of the French models we were fortunate in securing in Paris for this very purpose.

Just out of the boxes with the "foreign stamp," yielding their treasures to be fashioned in our own ateliers into hats of absolutely exclusive design.

Silk velvets of wonderful weave,
Metallic flowers and foliage,
Ostrich feathers in the new chinchilla effect,

Suits and Frocks

Fashions of Distinguishing Excellence

That the wider skirt has "arrived" and that the suit coat of the moment flares even more is a fashion fact firmly founded by these new modes presented last week.

So the new suits tailleur—many presented for the first time today—offer long suit coats or short or in-between—all delightfully "different" and all equally fashionable.

The broadcloth suit illustrated shows the coat of medium length with the coat skirt flaring full, and the skirt has the new hip girdle of broadtail cloth. $47.50.

Silk Frocks That Fill Many Needs

For street wear now—later, for street wear with furs—later still, for wear at home—could any dress be more practical?

The charmeuse frock illustrated proclaims its inherent good taste by the simplicity of its long tailored lines and thus bids fair to be becoming to the slender and the stouter women as well. $40.

Frocks of crepe de Chine, charmeuse, and silk and wool in combination, in all the dark shades, range in price from $20 to $45.

New Coats—A Delight

Utility Coats $18.75 to $45

Then here are Coats of that fabric-fur, Arabian lamb, in broad or narrow stripes—

M'ADOO CALLED A MONEY TRUST; BANKERS ANGRY

MANY PROTEST ACTION

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The bankers of the country are up in arms over Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo's charges of hoarding and usury.

In hundreds of letters and telegrams received by senators and representatives in the last few days the bankers contend that Mr. McAdoo is inveighing against a state of affairs resulting largely from his mistaken handling of the financial crisis produced by the European war.

The "money trust" has been transferred from Wall street to Washington, the bankers say, and given headquarters in the office of the secretary of the treasury. A sample of the operation of the new political money trust, according to the bankers, is now being given to the country.

Charge of Hoarding Denounced.

The secretary's charge of hoarding is denounced as wholly unjustifiable. He has named 250 small national banks out of more than 7,000 institutions in the country. State banks are neither hoarding nor exacting usurious interest rates, according to the reports of the state officials to Washington. The controller of the currency's report disclose generally deficient instead of excessive reserves in reserve and central reserve cities.

Mr. McAdoo, pressed for proof of the accusation that excessive interest rates are being exacted in New York, named two banks that charged 7 per cent for loans.

Today Mr. McAdoo made public a letter sent by the president of a southern state bank (name withheld) to affiliated banks, containing instructions to call all loans and shut off further credit to customers.

McAdoo Denounces Conduct.

"Nothing could be more reprehensible," Mr. McAdoo said, "than the conduct of this bank, nor more clearly show how credits are being restricted and money being hoarded by some banks. A similar policy pursued by all the banks in the United States would produce untold suffering and general disaster."

Treasury officials defend the policy of Mr. McAdoo and assert he acted just in time to save the people from the rapacity of the bankers.

A banker of national reputation gave in an interview today the bankers' reasons for the high reserves of which Mr. McAdoo complains.

"Putting the Aldrich-Vreeland emergency currency act into operation presupposed the existence of an emergency," said this banker. "There is undoubtedly an emergency. The emergency was undoubtedly not of such proportions as to warrant the amendment of the law so that the amount of currency could be tripled by a nod from the secretary of the treasury.

Theory of Currency Act.

"The theory of the Aldrich-Vreeland act was that the currency issued should be retired concurrently with the subsidence of the emergency. The tax on it is progressive. At the maximum of 6 per cent, which would be reached in the seventh month, it is presumed the cost of it would be so great that it would be all sent in for redemption.

"Secretary McAdoo no longer speaks of emergency currency as such. He refers to it as additional national currency. He will not issue it to banks which are carrying what he considers excess reserves or are charging what he considers unduly high rates of interest. But he has been industrious in promoting the formation of national currency associations and he has fairly thrust the emergency notes on the banks.

Reason for High Reserves.

"It is not surprising that reserves in country banks have piled up. There are several reasons for it. Despite the reports of alleged demands for loans, the demand is not, of course, nearly as great as in normal times. Six per cent for time money will always check the demand for cash, and 7 and 8 per cent will check it much more. Accumulation of funds in the banks resulted naturally.

"Secretary McAdoo has put out more emergency currency than was necessary. With business decidedly under check there is a larger circulating medium now than there was before the European war started. This is inflation. Paul M. Warburg called attention to it on Sept. 11, before the senate committee which was considering giving state banks the same privileges as national banks under the Aldrich-Vreeland act.

"Finally, bankers are justified in being unusually careful and conservative—much more careful and conservative than would have been necessary if the federal reserve banks were in operation as they should be. It is more than nine months since the president signed the Glass-Owen bill.

McAdoo Commands Situation

"The secretary of the treasury is the commander of the situation. He can issue emergency notes, or refuse them, as he pleases. He can force them on the banks if he will. He can punish banks by charging them with unpatriotic hoarding, and he can and has threatened to withdraw government deposits if they dissent from his judgment as to what constitutes adequate reserve and what are reasonable rates of interest. The late money trust was never charged with anything more grievous.

"There is apparently to be no speedy cessation of this form of duress. As a member of the federal reserve board the secretary of the treasury will continue to be the most important factor in the matter of note issues."

"Nell," Famed for Peace Traits, Shows Spirit at Right Time.

THE daily routine of life for Nell, a fox terrier belonging to Edward R. Steuer of 2235 West Twelfth street, during three years of life had been rather commonplace. Indeed, for a dog of spirit, the monotony was galling. Nell had likes and dislikes, being fond of cats but hating children and rats. An occasional rat chase or a good scrap with a neighboring poodle was all there was to break the quiet of the days spent chained in the rear of Steuer's crockery store. Saturday night came opportunity—and glory.

Two armed men pointed revolvers at Mr. Steuer and Edward Moy, a clerk, and attempted to force the cash register. They were off guard for a moment when they both bent their efforts to prying open the cash drawer. Steuer backed toward the rear of the store and unchained Nell.

Quick as a flash the dog sprang at the robbers, who had not noticed the animal before. There was a cry of pain as the dog's teeth sank into the calf of one of the men's legs. A second spring of the terrier and the robbers fled into the street. The barking dog pursued, but after a chase of half a block returned triumphant with a bit of trouser leg.

The West Thirteenth street police believe they may be able to arrest one of the men because of the marks left by the dog.

WOMAN GIVES CLEW TO DEATH

Motor Driver's Illness Leads Coroner to Analyze Body for Poison.

ALTER BOTTLE LABEL.

Mrs. Carrie Olander, proprietress of the Narragansett poultry farm, yesterday supplied a clew which Coroner Peter Hoffman believes may clear up the mystery surrounding the death of Edward L. Baker, a motor truck driver employed by C. J. Harth at 317 South Jefferson street.

Baker died Saturday morning after a week's illness at his home, 3002 Narragansett avenue. Preceding his death he had symptoms indicating the probable presence of arsenic and these caused the coroner to hold a postmortem and take the vital organs for a chemical analysis.

Dr. William J. Moldenhauer, who attended Baker, had made out a death certificate giving the cause of death as gastritis. A telephone message from some of Baker's fellow workmen led to a more complete investigation.

"Mrs. Baker gave me Dr. Moldenhauer's prescription to have filled for her husband Friday morning," said Mrs. Olander to a reporter for THE TRIBUNE. "George Winholt, a druggist at 6338 Irving Park boulevard, told me he was out out of one of the ingredients and would have to send out for it. As I was leaving he said he had found the ingredient.

"I took the refilled bottle to Mrs. Baker, who gave her husband a dose of it. Then it developed the label bore the name of Dr. De Witt instead of Dr. Moldenhauer.

"I took the bottle to Winholt. He said I had the right medicine, but he had made a mistake and had put a wrong label on it. He then put Dr. Moldenhauer's prescription on a new label and I took the bottle back."

Winholt admits the mistake in the labels, but declares that the medicine containing chloral hydrastis and sirup of hypophosphates was the remedy prescribed.

Coroner Hoffman is having the medicine analysed. He also took all salt and pepper shakers and food containers in the house.

Son of Missouri Farmer Arrested in Chicago Blames "Wine, Women and Song" for Trouble.

Lester F. McDonald, 20 years old, of Jackson, Mo., son of C. A. McDonald, a wealthy retired farmer, was locked up in the detective bureau yesterday, suspected of violation of the Mann act. He was arrested at the Hotel Planters with Miss Elizabeth Holland, 18 years old, of Webster Groves, a suburb of St. Louis, who was locked up in the South Clark street annex. McDonald blamed "wine, women and song" for landing him in jail.

BOY DROWNS WHEN FISHING.

Vnon Voeuszewski, 8 years old, 1240 Milwaukee avenue, was drowned in the river last night when fishing with several companions at the foot of Blanche street. He rowed to the spot, but when he reached it the child had disappeared beneath the water. The body was recovered.

FAITH HEALER SUED BY WIFE ON GRAFT CHARGE

SAYS HE STABBED HER

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hester A. C. Laflin Jones, whose first husband was Albert C. Laflin, a business man of Chicago, is suing for a divorce from Gardner D. Jones, a faith healer. In a second suit she is trying to recover about 500 shares of Diamond Match stock and about $50,000 which she alleges Jones extorted from her while she was under duress.

Mrs. Jones, who lives in a house she owns at Park avenue and Sixty-first street, makes charges of cruelty against her husband, including his keeping her locked in a room at the Hotel Gotham and preventing her from seeing her friends. Jones also was profane, and struck and stabbed her, Mrs. Jones says. She asks an injunction to restrain the New Netherlands bank from delivering the stock to her husband.

Had Physical Fear.

According to counsel for Mrs. Jones, it is said that Jones worked on the "religious susceptibilities" of his wife, and, because of her physical fear of him, he was able to extort about $50,000 from her.

The alleged terrorism under which Mrs. Jones suffered started a few days after the marriage, when Jones began to obtain "mental domination" over his wife, she says.

On one occasion, the allegations continue, Jones displayed a loaded revolver, saying: "My finger is on the trigger. Suppose it should slip; what would become of you then?"

Mrs. Jones bore her troubles alone, not revealing them even to her mother.

Used Hunting Knife.

The stabbing which Mrs. Jones complains of occurred on Dec. 12, 1912. The assault followed a consultation she had had with her attorney, which angered her husband. He plunged a hunting knife into her abdomen, it is alleged, and left her lying in the hall of her home.

This charge is corroborated by Mrs. Jones' maid and by her physician, Dr. Max Marschark. The maid makes an affidavit saying that she withdrew the knife after the stabbing and called Dr. Marschark, who says that he treated Mrs. Jones for two weeks for the wound.

Mrs. Laflin Jones left Chicago almost eight years ago, following the death of her first husband in Paris. It was said at the time that through his demise she came into possession of a fortune of almost $2,000,000 which he had amassed through his connection with important iron interests in Chicago.

Albert C. Laflin was a son of Lycurgus Laflin and a grandson of Matthew Laflin, one of the first white settlers in Chicago. His name and that of Lycurgus Laflin were linked with the development of the powder interests here.

Mr. Laflin, it was said, met his wife while attending Yale. She never was cordially received by members of the Laflin family, it was said. It was generally believed she had been on the stage in the east.

Following her husband's death she moved to New York and took up her residence in East Seventy-sixth street. While she was still a resident of Chicago friends of the family were startled by a dry point etching made of her by the French artist, Paul Helleu, showing her holding a cigaret in her hand.

HORSE DRAGS POLICEMAN TO BRINK OF OPEN SPAN.

Patrolman, Clinging to Runaway, Releases Hold as Animal Heads for River—Two Others Hurt.

Three men were injured yesterday in attempting to stop a runaway horse. One of them, Policeman Clarence Krumbein, narrowly escaped being thrown into the river at the Madison street bridge while clinging to the galloping animal.

The horse, attached to a newspaper delivery wagon, became frightened at West Madison and Market streets, and ran west. Policeman Krumbein seized its bridle. While being dragged he noticed the bridge was open and was forced to release his hold. A rear wheel passed over him, injuring his back.

James A. Adamson, the bridgetender, waved his arms and the horse turned at right angles. The wagon struck him and he was slightly bruised. Philip Kramer of 3868 Broadway finally halted the horse.

Lincoln Park Policeman Towne incurred severe bruises when he leaped from the running board of an automobile and stopped a runaway horse and carriage containing women at Dearborn street and North avenue.

POLICE RAID GIRLISH BOYS.

Take Twenty-seven Young Men Attired in Silk Gowns at Evangelist's House.

Twenty-seven young men, decorated with beauty patches and attired in silk gowns, were locked up early yesterday after the police had interrupted a "costume party" in the home of Harry Benson, shipping clerk-evangelist, at 2022 Orchard street. Benson said the men were friends of his 21 year old son, Elwin. One prisoner said he was Albert Leonard, settlement agent for the United States revenue service in the federal building. Thirty others escaped by leaping from windows.

Dies from Effects of Fall.

Mrs. Dora Weinert, 816 South Lavitt street, died of the Garfield Park hospital yesterday of injuries sustained Sept. 29 when she slipped and fell on the sidewalk in front of her home.

CHICAGO LAGS IN CARE OF IDLE

Miss Sears Reports Public Work Must Be Provided Family Heads Not Employed.

SEES RELIEF DANGERS.

Social Worker Asserts Alms Will Not Solve Jobless Problem; News Stands for Cripples.

Miss Amelia Sears director of the bureau of public welfare of the county, has submitted to the municipal markets commission a comprehensive report on the problem of unemployment and destitution. Some of the salient points follow:

Unemployment cannot be cured by relief giving.

Disaster alone follows when an effort to deal with the unemployed is confused with the problem of caring for the dependent group of the city.

Chicago today is far behind other cities in the care of the casual laborer and the odd job man.

As long as society permits some forms of industry to so organize as to create homeless men, so long must society pay the bill by supporting them during periods of unemployment.

The "sine qua non" of the problem is that public work be provided for heads of families out of employment.

Miss Sears' report analyzes the situation that confronts Chicago every winter and suggests remedies.

Classifies Needy Groups.

She classifies the groups needing assistance as habitual dependents, the casual laborer or odd job man, and the unemployed Chicago workman.

Organized relief agencies can care for the first group, the report says, while the other two classes require immediate activity on the part of the authorities.

The recommendations are:

A municipal lodging house capable of expanding to care for thousands.

A method of correlating existing agencies for the care of this group.

Consideration of labor conditions throughout the entire country and a federal employment bureau.

"Not until these far reaching changes are made will it be possible to handle the problem properly," concludes the report.

Charities Pleads for Funds.

An appeal for funds to check the rush of poverty caused by the backwash of the European war—the greatest this city has experienced since the Chicago fire—was issued to the public last night by the board of directors of the United Charities. Already taxed beyond its financial means, the organization has helped 7,500 more families than it did last year. This means that assistance was given 30,380 persons who were not compelled to seek aid from charities in 1913.

At the rate applications have been coming in one in every twenty-eight of the city's population will have been befriended during the fiscal year which ends on Sept. 30.

Fully 84,000 Aided.

"Fully 84,000 individuals, equal to the total number of enlisted men in the regular army of the United States, were helped in the twelve months passed," the appeal reads. "We are helping them still in increasing numbers.

"There is still a deficit in the amount needed to see this organization through the last few days of its fiscal year. It is not fair to shift the load to the few—the many should bear the burden. Surely the $3,500 that the society needs to carry it to Oct. 1 will not be withheld at the very beginning of its new year."

MARKET OPEN ON SUNDAY DESPITE RULE ADOPTED.

Crowds Insist on Buying and Dealers Have Busiest Day Since the Opening.

Less than ten days ago the municipal markets commission voted to close the new market at the Goldsmith school on Sundays. Mrs. John C. Bley, a member of the commission, said she could never sanction operating the trading place on the Sabbath.

But the crowds that gathered around the school yesterday were so great that Chairman James H. Lawley was forced to abrogate the rule. The gates were thrown open, and it proved to be the busiest day since the market was started last Thursday. Forty-five peddlers with fruit and vegetables were on hand.

SHOT WHILE EXAMINING GUN.

Italian Receives Bullet Wound in Lung from Weapon in Hands of Rooming House Keeper.

Dominicum Maggio, 855 West Ohio street, an Italian laborer, was shot in the right lung yesterday by Frank Lusco, keeper of the rooming house in which Maggio lives. According to both Maggio and Lusco, the shooting was accidental. Lusco told the police that they were examining an old rifle and that it was accidentally discharged. Lusco and his wife are being held by the police to be questioned further.

He will be escorted to the Congress hotel by members of the Chinese National body and several policemen.

U. S. ATTORNEYS WILL DECIDE ON MANN ACT CASES

WILL END BLACKMAIL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Attorney General Gregory, largely as a result of developments in the Edwards-Cox white slave case at Chicago, has determined to give the various United States district attorneys throughout the country absolute control of all cases arising under the Mann act in their territory.

Charles F. Clyne, United States attorney at Chicago, will not be compelled to ask the attorney general whether to proceed with the prosecution of William Rufus Edwards, the wealthy lumberman, on the indictment returned under the Mann act.

If Mr. Clyne decides that the indictment was obtained as a result of "a frame up" by Miss Ada Cox and others, he can quash it. If he decides Edwards should be prosecuted, he is absolutely free to move without orders from the department here.

Seeks to Stop Blackmail.

Officials of the department of justice make no secret of their opinion that the Edwards indictment appears to have been obtained under suspicious circumstances. It is only one of hundreds of cases which have come before the department since the wave of hysteria swept over the country during the progress of the Diggs-Caminetti case on the Pacific coast.

In 90 per cent of the cases, according to a high department official, the men have been deliberately inveigled into violations of the law just for purposes of blackmail.

The blackmail element is so apparent in many of the cases that the attorney general has determined to put a stop to it by adopting the only course within his power.

State Prosecutors Use Discretion.

Although the various states in which violations of the Mann act actually occur have powers just as great as the national government for the prosecution of the offenders, few of the Mann act cases ever reach the state courts. The reason, according to the department of justice, is that the state prosecutor has a final say as to whether he will prosecute or not. If he discovers that the case was started merely for blackmail purposes he can end it promptly without any publicity.

On the other hand, the ways of the federal courts are cumbersome. Until the local district attorneys are given absolute power over a case it will be possible for designing women to entice men into violations of the law with the deliberate purpose of making them pay or subjecting them to the unfavorable notoriety of a federal prosecution.

Victims Fear Federal Courts.

Special investigators of the department have discovered that in all cases the men who are victims of blackmail plots would willingly tell their stories to state authorities, whereas they felt certain such a course in the federal courts could not prevent their conviction under the Mann act.

The department in no way intends to excuse men for violations of the law, but in giving the district attorneys final authority to pass on the merits of each case arising in their territory it hopes to eliminate the blackmail element from the cases.

MURDERED MAN FOUND WRAPPED IN GUNNYSACKS.

The body of a man with his skull crushed and a bullet wound in the side of his head was found wrapped and tied in two gunnysacks and a canvas wagon cover in the rear of 120 North Sheldon street yesterday. The body was that of a man about 40 years old. He had on nothing but a pair of new shoes and socks.

Gerald McNichols of 4700 West Jackson boulevard went to the undertaking rooms where the body was taken by the police and said he was nearly positive the man was his brother-in-law, Patrick Kanan, who has been missing since Friday morning. McNichols said his brother-in-law came to Chicago from Detroit three weeks ago and obtained a position at Sears-Roebuck's.

A suit of clothes identified as those of Kanan was found on West Twelfth street in the afternoon by McNichols. There were bloodstains on the sleeves of the coat.

A light buggy was used in carting the body to the alley. The sacks used were stamped with the name of the Wasco Milling company of Nebraska.

"COPLET" MAKES A "PINCH."

Nine Year Old Son of Police Lieutenant Recovers Stolen Money, but Thief Breaks Away.

Edward J. Garrick, 9 years old, son of Lieut. Luke Garrick of the Town Hall police station, is following in the footsteps of his father. He reported his first arrest to his father last night and asked to be put on the regular force. His prisoner, a boy about 13 years old, got away from him, but not until he had recovered $42 which had been snatched from John Youngquist, proprietor of a coal office at North Clark street and Belmoral avenue. Edward, with Walter Youngberg, 12 years old, of 1469 Summerdale avenue, caught the thief after a chase of two blocks. While they were leading him to the patrol box he broke away.

SIESTA IN PARK COSTS HIM $350

THEN ROBBERS PROFIT.

A siesta in Grant park last evening cost Earl Knowles of Dayton, O., $350. He also was minus his hat and shoes. The only thing the thief overlooked was a check for his sleeping car berth, and that was of no value.

Before misfortune befell him he applied at the Hotel Blackstone for a room. The price, $5, staggered him. He went out into Michigan avenue and gazed across that brilliantly lighted thoroughfare. Grant park beckoned to him. He would stretch out on the grass and enjoy a peaceful repose.

When he awoke at 9 o'clock he discovered his shoes had been removed. He felt around on the grass for his hat, and that, too, was missing. The lights from the Blackstone seemed to be mocking him. He stood on his feet and thrust his hands in his trousers pockets.

Finds He Has Been Robbed.

Slits cut in each pocket allowed his hands to go through. His money was gone. A policeman found him hatless and shoeless and took him to the South Clark street station.

"I don't mind the loss of the money so much," said Knowles, "as I do the kidding I'll get when I get back to Dayton. I belong to the Dayton fire department and the boys on truck No. 2, where I'm the driver, will never let up on me.

"My annual furlough started yesterday. I had been saving up for it and when I went to the bank to draw out what was there I was given $350. An old friend of mine named Harry Kennedy lives at Harvey, Ill., and he wrote me to come to Calumet lake for my outing.

First Trip in Sleeping Car.

"I left Dayton last night and got into Chicago this forenoon. It was the first time I ever traveled in a sleeping car, and I couldn't close an eye to save my soul. When I got into Chicago I was tired out, but as I didn't want to miss anything, I started out in search of an sement. I kept looking up at tall buildings till I got a crick in my neck. All told, I didn't have more than five or six beers.

"When I entered the Blackstone hotel a German general took my telescope. I asked the price of a room and the clerk said $5. I told him I'd take it for just one week. He said "$5 a day not a week." What do you think of that?

Could Have Bought a Hotel.

"Come to think of it, I would have been $345 ahead if I had taken the room at the hotel. Or I could have bought a small hotel some place and still be money ahead.

"The firemen call me cocky. Say! I'll never hear the last of this. If I ever take another furlough I'm going to hire a man to lead me around with a halter."

PRESIDENT IN BALTIMORE; VISIT IS NOT ANNOUNCED.

Chief Executive Motors to Neighboring City from Capital and Attends Church with Relatives.

The president was accompanied from Washington by his brother-in-law, Dr. Stockton Axson, and his cousin, Miss Helen Bones. They were followed by a car containing secret service men.

Shortly before church time the president and his relatives left on foot for Franklin Street Presbyterian church, a few blocks distant. A number of churchgoers recognized the president and he was saluted several times.

INQUIRY FAR FROM FINISHED.

Water Investigation by Bureau of Efficiency Expected to Last at Least Six Months More.

Investigation of city bureaus in charge of the municipal water system may not be completed for six months or possibly a year. The inquiry is being conducted by the Chicago bureau of public efficiency. The work so far has been devoted to gathering data regarding the activities of the different departments concerned. Five men are engaged in this phase of the investigation. Later technical experts will analyse the information now being collected.

STATUTES LOCKED UP

The western stump speaking tour of the Chicago suffragists has been rudely interrupted by the long arm of the city marshal of Minot, N. D. As a result Minot may be a closed town to suffrage lectures henceforth, especially on the Sabbath, since Minot has a justice of the peace who cannot interpret the statutes of the state on Sundays "because they are locked up."

News of the interruption arrived in Chicago yesterday in the form of an "emergency" telegrams from Mrs. Antoinette Funk to Mrs. Medill McCormick, chairman of the congressional committee of the National American Woman Suffrage association. It stated that the said city marshal had dragged Mrs. Funk from a soap box in the public square of Minot and that the justice of the peace, unable to obtain copies of the statutes at the moment, had imposed a fine of $5 upon her on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Message Causes Hubbub.

The message caused excitement at suffrage headquarters in the City Hall Square building. T. C. Hallinan appeared at his desk, which usually has the lid down on the Sabbath.

Mrs. Funk was one of the first of the suffrage speakers sent out to the campaign states by Mrs. McCormick, who has been busy "routing" them for several months.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National American Woman Suffrage association, had preceded Mrs. Funk in the campaign in North Dakota. There was no intimation of arrest for her. Miss Jane Addams had been scheduled to speak to the North Dakotans on suffrage in three weeks. The arrest of Mrs. Funk caused some uneasiness for Miss Addams.

Consents to Speak.

The telegram from Mrs. Funk explained that she had received an invitation to speak on suffrage soon after she had reached the New Imperial hotel in Minot. Although her throat was husky and she was weary from a long automobile trip, she consented to speak.

There were 5,000 harvest hands in Minot and no work for them to do. They were all ready to listen to a suffrage speech.

So a box was planted in the main square and Mrs. Funk, who is small but intrepid, was able to reach the throng with her husky voice. They cheered her remarks, much to the displeasure of the city marshal.

Mrs. Funk Protests.

Mrs. Funk protested, and so did Mrs. Clara Darrow, president of the Equal Suffrage Association of North Dakota, and all the local suffragists. But the city marshal did his duty. He served the papers upon Mrs. Funk, who, being an attorney, demanded an immediate trial.

When she appeared before the justice of the peace she asked by what statutes of North Dakota she had been denied the right of free speech.

The justice of the peace replied that he could not give the information immediately, as the statutes were all locked in the safe.

He then placed Mrs. Funk's fine at $5, and upon second thought wished to remit the fine. But the suffragists decided to take an appeal to the Circuit court and employed an attorney to fight Mrs. Funk's case.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS STIRS TOWNS ALONG NORTH SHORE.

Schools and Movies May Be Closed to Check Outbreak at Waukegan and Other Places.

Infantile paralysis is sweeping over the towns of the north shore. Four cases are reported in Highland Park, five in Waukegan, and one death occurred last week at Grays Lake. The cause of the threatened epidemic has not been ascertained.

Most of the cases began a week or ten days ago. If new cases are reported in any considerable number the authorities declare they will close the schools and the motion picture houses.

Health Commissioner Floyd M. Bergen of Highland Park has advised parents to keep their children at home for a week rather than to allow them the association with other children at school. It is asserted the cases are the first along the north shore for twenty-five years.

GANG CHAUFFEUR IDENTIFIED AS ROBBER OF MESSENGER.

Fred Corrigan, Held in Franklin Park Case, Picked as Accomplice in Holdup of Bank Employe.

Fred Corrigan, alias "Tige," who was identified as the driver of the automobile used in the attempted holdup of the Franklin Park State bank last Monday, was identified yesterday at the detective bureau as the accomplice of Seth Piper, 3501 South California avenue, who was held to the grand jury Sept. 4 for robbing a messenger of the Garfield Park State bank a year ago.

Denlik was waiting for a street car in front of the bank, 4004 West Madison street, when he was knocked down and a satchel containing the money was taken.

Arrest Sixteen in Raid.

Sixteen men were arrested early yesterday in a raid on a poolroom owned by John Hrejsp at 3973 Cottage Grove avenue. They are alleged to have been gambling with dice.

FOOTBALL TEAMS TO CENTER HOPES ON OPEN ATTACK

Initial Games Show Forward Pass Will Be Big Factor This Season.

POOR START FOR INDIANA

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

Cornell's defeat by Pittsburgh, 9 to 3; the early strength displayed by Yale, which won from the University of Maine eleven, 20 to 0; Harvard's overwhelming defeat of Bates, 44 to 0, and Indiana's poor showing against De Pauw were the features of the opening games of the 1914 football season played on Saturday.

That forward passes and other plays of the open variety will be the principal weapons of attack this season was shown in almost every contest. The coaches are getting away from the idea of being afraid of taking a chance of losing the ball on a forward pass, and they are busily engaged in the formation of plays of the most open sort.

Watch for Foes' Mistakes.

Not since the adoption of the forward pass rule eight years ago [illegible]ave any teams shown such tendencies to get away from the old style of football as they did Saturday. The players have been taught to take advantage of the slightest mistakes of their opponents, as was shown in nearly every struggle.

Taking these games as a criterion of the play to be expected this year, the season should be featured by some of the most spectacular work seen on the gridiron in years. Coaches and players have become converted to the forward pass. They realize that only a varied attack can bring about the desired results, and present indications point to stronger offensive play than defensive.

Task for Hoosier Coach.

Naturally interest of western followers of football was centered around the Indiana-De Pauw game, which Coach Childs' eleven won after a hard struggle, 13 to [illegible]hat the Hoosier mentor has plent[illegible]rd work ahead to get his eleve[illegible]pe for the Chicago game next S[illegible] is certain. Although not much wa[illegible]pected of the Hoosiers after only five days of practice as an organized squad, the line play of the forwards should have been better.

Unless Childs can brace his line, the Indiana backs will be unable to get started on end runs, the plays which resulted in De Pauw's defeat. Chicago is certain to have a good line, and if the Hoosier forwards are not able to hold their own with the Maroon wall, the Indiana backs will be tackled before they even get started on end plays.

Must Develop Team Play.

Indiana will be represented by a number of veterans this year, and the team is expected to make a much better showing than last season. It now remains for the coach to develop team work and teach the eleven a few things about defensive play if any hopes of making a good showing against Chicago on Stagg field are to be entertained at Bloomington.

By winning from Bates, 44 to 0, Harvard, last year's eastern champion, demonstrated it is going to be represented by another formidable eleven which make a fight to retain the honors. Although the Crimson's big count may be attributed to a large degree to fumbling by the Bates players and also to the poor punting, for the losers, the result nevertheless shows that Capt. Brickley and his warriors are going to be a hard aggregation to dethrone.

Haughton Tries Out Men.

Coach Haughton took advantage of the chance to give every prospective candidate a thorough tryout, and from the form displayed by the players the Crimson coach has plenty of material to fill the vacant berths. Mahan and Brickley displayed all the prowess that made them All American selections last year, and they should improve with every game.

By frequent use of well executed forward passes, Yale won from Maine after an interesting struggle which showed this year's Eli eleven will be well versed in forward pass formations. Two of Yale's touchdowns were the direct result of forward passes, while its straight formations were executed with precision and harmony. On defense, Yale showed strong, as Maine not once threatened the Bulldog goal.

Princeton was given a hard battle by Rutgers, which succumbed to a 12 to 0 defeat after an uphill struggle. The fact that the Tigers were able to score only one touchdown does not speak well for this year's outlook. Princeton's other points were the result of a field goal and a safety. Mike Boland, the Tiger fullback, was a power on offense and defense, and he was a factor in every play.

Cornell Must Improve.

Pittsburgh's victory over Cornell showed that Coach Sharpe, the former Yale player, has a task ahead to develop a team to battle Pennsylvania and Michigan. The Ithacans were beaten last year by the same eleven, but Sharpe rallied his men to such a point that the team won from Lafayette and Pennsylvania. A defeat at the start of the season is a severe setback for any aggregation, but Cornell can be depended upon to recover quickly and be in shape to play hard games against its future opponents.

The western conference elevens will start their second week of practice today in preparation for the opening struggles on Saturday. In most cases rudiments of the game have been mastered, and the coaches will bend their energies in the intervening time to perfecting team play and teaching their charges fine points of defensive work. Scrimmage will feature the practice of the first three days and on Thursday and Friday the teams will be driven through fast signal drills to make sure all the players are certain of their parts in the execution of the different formations.

RAY EICHENLAUB HURT IN NOTRE DAME DRILL.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Raymond Eichenlaub, Notre Dame's star fullback, had his leg seriously injured in the varsity-freshman scrimmage Saturday on Cartier field. His injuries may keep him out of the first game of the season. Eichenlaub's injury put the entire backfield out of commission, as Flannegan, Larkin, and Bush also are on the hospital list, which is assuming such proportions as to alarm Coach Harper.

The other men out of the game at present are Capt. Jones Mills, Ward, and Daly. Most of them, however, are expected to be in shape for the opening game with Alma college on Saturday.

Coach Harper will allow no letup in the work this week, although he does not expect much difficulty in the first two games. He is trying to whip his men in shape for the Yale game on Oct. 17. Freshman-varsity scrimmages almost daily will be the routine this week.

BARRETT ON AMATEUR TEAM.

John Barrett, the Oak Park High school football player, will be seen in the lineup of the North Ends of Evanston, amateur title holders. Barrett has been the mainstay of the west side "preps" for the last three seasons. Barrett will be used at half or end. Hanna, the old star at the extremity, may not be seen in the lineup this season as a result of a shoulder injury sustained in the game against the Cornells which decided the city championship in 1913. If the veteran does not return, Barrett probably will be used in his place.

EASTERN PLAYS FOR HOOSIERS

GETS HELP OF ALUMNI.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—When Coach Clarence C. Childs of Yale took charge of the Indiana university football squad last week, succeeding James M. Sheldon of Chicago, the eastern style of play was inaugurated in place of western methods.

Childs surrounded himself during the week with several Indiana alumni, including Roy O. Pike, star guard of '95; Hence Orme, a tackle of the class of '96; "Phip" Hill, a tackle of '98, and Payne, a guard of the teams of '04 and '05. Before the season is over the coach expects to receive the assistance of many other veterans of years ago. He has addressed letters to more than fifty of the alumni, inviting them to come and either assist in coaching or offer suggestions.

Two Drills Every Day.

During the last week two practices were held each day for the De Pauw game. Childs started his men out on the rudiments and made the work a little harder each afternoon.

The eleven will miss the work of Oliphant, Vincennes, brother of the Purdue star, and Scott, the speedy full back of last year's team. With the two Ereharts, Capt. Mark, and Archie, holding down positions at the halves, however, and with a fighting bunch of good men for the other backfield positions, the Indiana backfield promises to be one of the best for several seasons. Whitaker and Swope will be used at quarter.

Plan for Maroon Game.

Now that the De Pauw game is over safely, Childs will begin getting the squad in shape for Chicago. The Indiana hosts will leave on a special train Friday morning at 11 o'clock and will arrive in Chicago at 5:20 the same afternoon. The team probably will practice in Chicago Saturday morning. It is expected that more than 1,000 rooters and alumni will follow the squad to the Midway. The university band of forty pieces will accompany the rooters.

ANOTHER NORGREN JOINS MAROON GRIDIRON SQUAD.

The second scion of a famous house was given a flattering reception at Stagg field last week when young Hans Norgren, brother of the original Nelson, made his first appearance as a Maroon gridiron figure. Hans, who plays half back, made many of the runs and passes when the freshmen beat the varsity second string men, 6 to 0, in a scrimmage Saturday.

Norgren II. formerly played half back at Lane "Tech." He weighs in the neighborhood of 150 pounds, about twenty pounds lighter than his brother was last year, but the Maroon fans remember that Nelson was almost a lightweight when he entered athletics at Chicago and afterward became a winner of twelve "Cs" and the title of best punter, half back, and basketball forward in the conference.

Athletic coaches at the Midway are delighted with the caliber of the candidates for the yearling eleven. Twelve men already have reported to "Red" Paine, former quarter back, who is in charge, and enough to compose a second complete team are expected to answer a call for first year men this afternoon when all squads will drill in absolute secrecy.

A notice was posted at the entrance to the grounds last week warning spectators that no one would be allowed to pass the gates. An average turnout of 400 rooters rushed the gatemen every day last week, when the coaches condescended to give them a look at the candidates at the end of the daily secret drill.

Coach Stagg's absence from the practice field will mean additional hard work for his assistants and the players, for all are anxious to make good against Indiana on Saturday. The Maroons will be on edge to show their best under the handicap of the loss of the "Old Man's" guidance. The date of Stagg's reappearance on the field is uncertain. He is said to be improving, and the Chicago officials state he should be on the field in time to look over the list of men and give some tips on the play to be followed in the opening game.

The roster of candidates who have reported to Trainer Johnson for equipment now stands at thirty-five. This mark is almost a record at Chicago. The last to appear was John Edgeworth, a graduate of last year's freshman team, who played at right half for a time in Saturday's scrimmage. He weighs 150 pounds.

BADGERS WANT LINE MEN; JUNEAU SENDS OUT CALL.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—In a further endeavor to solve the Wisconsin football situation Coach Bill Juneau tomorrow will issue a second call for material. The Badger mentor is not satisfied with the material on hand.

Juneau hopes to get out some more line material. In the minds of many Wisconsin rooters the situation is as complex after a week of strenuous work as it ever was.

According to Juneau the week will be given over largely to the hardest kind of scrimmage work to prepare the Badgers for the Lawrence game on Saturday. Juneau is working Bellows to the limit on his kicking ability, so that he may help Wisconsin to score by the air route in the event that the machine fails on ground gaining.

NEW YORK GOLFERS HERE TO FINISH TITLE CONTEST.

It is not often a golf championship is staged 1,000 miles away from the original scene of operations, but H. B. Martin, captain of the New York Press club, and Charles L. Fletcher, a Gotham thespian, are playing a series of three matches here to decide the New York vaudeville championship. They reached the finals of the tournament played last July at Van Cortland park and both had to leave before they could play the match. Martin defeated Charles Irwin in the semifinal and Fletcher defeated Harris West, the English actor.

Martin came here last week and accidentally met Fletcher and they agreed to play a series of three games here, total holes to count. They played the first match at South Shore, Fletcher getting a lead of two holes. The second match will be staged this week at the Calumet Country club.

Semifinal matches for the president's cup were played yesterday at the West Pullman Golf club, F. T. Graham defeating Stafford Bristol, 3 and 1, and H. A. Parker defeating Martin Johnson, 3 and 1.

HATCH WINS TIME PRIZE IN ST. LOUIS MARATHON.

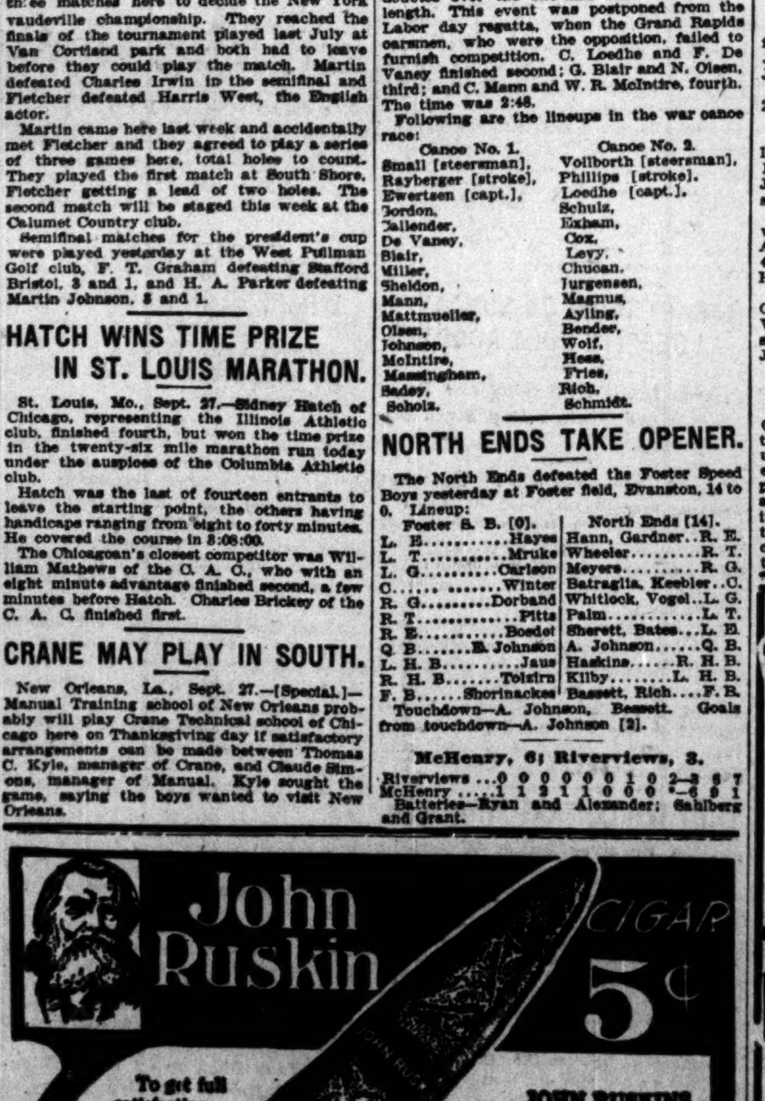

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 27.—Sidney Hatch of Chicago, representing the Illinois Athletic club, finished fourth, but won the time prize in the twenty-six mile marathon run today under the auspices of the Columbia Athletic club.

Hatch was the last of fourteen entrants to leave the starting point, the others having handicaps ranging from eight to forty minutes. He covered the course in 3:08:00.

The Chicagoan's closest competitor was William Mathews of the C. A. C., who with an eight minute advantage finished second, a few minutes before Hatch. Charles Brickey of the C. A. C. finished first.

CRANE MAY PLAY IN SOUTH.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Manual Training school of New Orleans probably will play Crane Technical school of Chicago here on Thanksgiving day if satisfactory arrangements can be made between Thomas C. Kyle, manager of Crane, and Claude Simons, manager of Manual. Kyle sought the game, saying the boys wanted to visit New Orleans.

CREWS COMPETE IN UNIQUE RACE

EWERTSON BOAT WINS.

BY JACK PROCTOR.

Guided by Capt. Ewertson, war canoe No. 1, manned by seventeen contestants, defeated Capt. Loedhe and his crew in the feature event of the regatta program of the Lincoln Park Boat club yesterday morning in the park lagoon. This was the first time that war canoes with seventeen on each side ever competed in a race in the central west, and it marked the innovation of contests which should furnish as exciting sport as eight oared contests.

Ewertson's craft won by less than a length over a half mile course. It was not until the last 200 yards that the winning canoe was able to draw away from its opponent. The race was started at a point opposite Grant's monument in Lincoln park.

Even for Quarter Mile.

For the first quarter mile the contest was almost a dead heat, with one bow, then the other, forging ahead by inches. When the quarter mile was reached canoe No. 1 gradually forced its nose to the front and succeeded in adding a few inches to its margin, finishing victor by twenty-five feet, or a little better than three-quarters of a length.

Frank De Vaney carried off the Davenport cup, emblematic of the novice canoe championship. He won the quarter mile event from Leroy Miller by one and a half lengths. De Vaney paddled a consistent race, using the same even stroke throughout except in the last 100 yards, when he increased the number of strokes to the minute. Matt Mattmueller finished third, and W. R. McIntire fourth. The time was 2:58.

Johnson-Anderson Team Wins.

With A. C. Johnson acting as stroke and A. Anderson as bow, the pair won the junior doubles over the one-half mile course by a length. This event was postponed from the Labor day regatta, when the Grand Rapids oarsmen, who were the opposition, failed to furnish competition. C. Loedhe and F. De Vaney finished second; G. Blair and N. Olsen, third; and C. Mann and W. R. McIntire, fourth. The time was 2:48.

GUN CLUB TITLE GOES TO SILVER

GRAHAMS SHARE PRIZE.

Defeating J. H. May by one target in the shoot-off of a tie, Edwin Silver yesterday won the fourth annual championship of the Chicago Gun club, the feature event of the weekly shoot of the Kensington organization.

May and Silver earned the right to shoot in the last round for the title after both had defeated some of the best amateurs in the west. In shooting at the last twenty-five birds each registered a perfect score. In the shootoff Silver broke twenty-five straight and May missed the last target. Silver succeeds Jesse Young as the club champion.

In the special challenge match for the Chicago Gun club cast iron medal Dave Thomas, challenger, won from O. P. Goode, holder, 98 to 90. Edward Graham, professional champion, and his brother, Jay, who won fame at the Olympic games, engaged in a special challenge match. Each broke 98 targets out of 100, but refused to settle the question of supremacy by shooting off the tie. Scores:

TWO SURPRISES IN SOCCER PLAY

BRICKLAYERS IN LEAD.

Standing of the Teams.

| Mason Park | 2 | 1 | 4 | Cam. Rovers | 0 | 1 | 2 |

BY J. G. DAVIS.

The third round of the Association Football League of Chicago schedule played yesterday produced two big surprises. The champion Pullmans were soundly trounced by the Calumets, the other Pullman club, 4 to 1, while Mason Park defeated the Campbell Rovers, 3 to 2. Victory by the Bricklayers over the Hibernians put them at the top of the list, leaving Pullman, McDuffs, Mason Park, and Calumet tied for second place.

Even the absence of S. Govier, Shallcross, and Watson from the Pullman team hardly accounts for the heavy defeat of the champions. The Calumets composed mostly of younger players, were not considered strong enough to outpoint the veterans, but they played in such aggressive fashion there was no doubt as to which was the better side. It looks as if Pullman will have a harder task this year than in the three preceding seasons. Lineup:

|---|---|---|
| Flynn | Goal | Wettengell |
| Sharpe | Right back | Blockley |
| Newton | Left back | Nelson |
| Erickson | Right half back | Parkinson |
| Sutton | Cen. half back | J. Cartwright |
| Galloway | Left half back | Dixon |
| P. Brown | Outside right | Pollitt |
| Pollitt | Inside right | Mackie |
| Suchan | Center | J. Cartwright |
| Quaite | Inside left | B. Govier |

Joliets Win Hard Match.

Joliet, making its first local appearance, defeated the Hyde Park Blues, 2 to 1, at Fifty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue. The match was the best fought of the season, the visitors showing the better staying powers and finishing strong. Without the aid of Archie Scott, McKay and Parker, the Blues made an excellent showing and gave Vilt, the visitors' goal keeper, some good shots to stop. Joliet has a team of rangy players and should finish well up in the race. Lineup:

| H. P. Blues [1]. | | Joliet [2]. |
|---|---|---|
| Gant | Goal | Vilt |
| Burton | Right back | Enrietta |
| Snedden | Left back | Kelly |
| Overberg | Right half back | McKeand |
| Houston | Cen'r half back | Jones |
| Hawke | Left half back | Wilson |
| Dunlop | Outside right | Drury |
| Marley | Inside right | Smith |
| Smith | Center | Rodway |
| Cowan | Inside left | Herroom |

Big Crowd at Evanston.

Mason Park defeated the Campbell Rovers, 3 to 2, before a big crowd at Mason park, Evanston. The Rovers scored first on a penalty by Armstrong, W. Paul getting the goal. Wilson then scored for the home team and later a fine shot by Jardine put Mason Park in the lead, 2 to 1. Trueman tied the count in the second half, but fifteen minutes before time Webster again counted for the home side. Wood was ruled out in the second half for scrapping.

The McDuffs, showing a strong attack, swamped Washington Heights, 9 goals to 2, at Washington Heights, where the local team has one of the best fields in the league. The Scotsmen led, 3 to 0, at half time. In the second half their forwards went through the home defense and scored six more goals, while the home side counted twice. Monroe scored six goals and Halsall two.

The Bricklayers defeated the Hibernians, 2 to 1, at Forty-eighth avenue and West Sixteenth street. A kick gave the winners their margin. This came in the first half. Galbraith took the kick, but Thomson saved. An offside play enabled Galbraith to take another kick and he scored. Galbraith scored another goal and Walker counted for the Hibernians. McGinnis and Galbraith were put off for scrapping ten minutes before time. The former started the trouble by hitting Jackson.

Chicago League Games.

In the third round of the Chicago Soccer league in section A the Western Electrics defeated the Norsemen, 8 to 1, at Forty-sixth street and Fullerton avenue. Goals were made by Cowell [3], Poulter [2], Herries [2], and Dickey. Mathiesen scored for the losers.

East Side United and Slavia played a 2 to 2 tie game at One Hundred and Seventh street and Ewing avenue, and the Campbell Rover Juniors won from Kenwood, 3 to 1, at Fifty-second avenue and West Madison street. Nolan, Endicott, MacLean, and Powers did the scoring in the latter match.

In section B the Chicago Swedish defeated the West Side Bohemians, 7 to 1, at Central avenue and Twelfth street. Ogden Park defeated Lincoln Park, 4 to 1, at Ogden park.

CHICAGO BOY GAINS FAME BY RING WORK IN WEST.

A Chicago boy who left this city some five years ago to seek his fame and fortune in the west is back home. He acquired plenty of the former and quite a little of the latter, but in a field for which he had no liking when he shook the dust of Chicago off his feet. He left to see what the world had in store for him and returned a member of the boxing profession.

Johnny O'Keefe, known to the ring followers as "Denver Johnny," is the Chicago boy. O'Keefe, who is managed by Carl Powles, is a middleweight and is ready to don the mits and step into the ring against any of the men of his class.

O'Keefe was born and brought up on the west side. He did most of his fighting in the west, particularly in Denver. He also has battled in California. Sixty-nine fights make up the record. Among the most promising battlers he has fought and defeated are Dick Gilbert, Rube Smith, Jimmy Gardner, Clarence English, Frank Mantell, Tim O'Neil, and Jack "Twin" Sullivan.

CHAVEZ TO BOX MITCHELL.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Benny Chavez will clash with Richie Mitchell before the South Side A. C. tomorrow night. Chavez arrived Thursday and worked at Larkin's gymnasium. He was in fairly good condition and needed little work to put him in shape for the local boy. Mitchell arrived home from Columbus and worked out Friday. Houlihan has been named as third man in the ring. Mitchell and Chavez fought a twenty round draw in Denver recently.

BOUTS FOR HAMMOND SHOW.

Promoter Charles Kuhn of the Moose club of Hammond, which will stage the ten round bout between Mickey Sheridan and Eddie Mohn Wednesday night, yesterday announced the complete card. In the eight round semi-windup Joe Genaill of St. Louis will meet "Rabbit" Kedlin of Chicago. In the opening contest Mike Oswego of East Chicago will exchange punches with George Adams of Chicago.

Kelly Awarded Decision.

In a private fight held on the west side yesterday, "Spike" Kelly was awarded the six round decision over George Duffy. In the opening contest, "Young" Kelly won from "Young" Willis in four rounds.

TWO CLUBS LEFT TO DECIDE TITLE

TIGERS DROP 2-1 GAME.

Two clubs remain in the running for the Sweitzer cup, emblematic of the free lance amateur baseball championship of Chicago, as a result of yesterday's round. The Topaz club defeated the Kramer Colts in the morning at Kramer park, Twenty-fifth street and South Park avenue, and was in turn downed by the Eclipse at Roseland in the afternoon, 7 to 3. The Loudins invaded the stronghold of the Johnsen Tigers at Kilpatrick and Ferdinand avenues and beat the home club, 2 to 1.

Threats that the Topaz club would protest Catcher Ganzer, with the Roselands, were made after the game, but Manager Gene Vollmer of the Roselands asserts that Ganzer's eligibility has been passed upon favorably by the board of directors.

Maager Opposes Kuhn.

The Loudin Colts-Johnsen Tigers game was the hardest fought of the three. Elmer Maager and Ollie Kuhn were the opposing twirlers, the latter holding the winners to four hits and fanning fourteen. Maager allowed six scattered hits. Score:

WHY GOLF IS GOLF.

MACKS WIN FLAG WHEN SOX DIVIDE WITH CARRIGANS

Red Hose Drop Out of Race After Fumble Gives Locals Second, 4 to 3.

FIRST TO VISITORS, 8 TO 6

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

By winning the second game of a double header from the Red Sox yesterday at Comiskey park the lowly and struggling White Sox put the Boston boys completely out of the running for the American league pennant. Boston won the first game, 8 to 6, and lost the second, 4 to 3, darkness ending the contest after seven innings.

While the double header was being played here, the Athletics won one game from the St. Louis Browns and clinched the pennant for the second successive time and for the fourth time in five years. They have eight more games to play, and if they should lose all of them and the Red Sox should win all of their nine remaining contests, the Athletics still would be two points to the good in the percentage table.

Fumble Gives Sox Game.

A fumble by a Red Sox recruit killed the last ray of pennant hope in the last of the seventh inning with darkness coming on. A White Sox runner was on third with two out and the score tied when the ball bounded to Young Swanson, who had replaced Ed Scott on the infield. It was an easy chance, but the youngster booted the ball and the batter was safe while the winning run went over the plate. In another minute the inning ended and the game was called because it was too dark to continue play.

Because there still was a spark of hope left for the Boston boys to win the pennant they played baseball for all get out in both contests and because the White Sox must keep their heads up in order to stay at the top of the second division they played just as hard, although not as well. Consequently the two combats furnished exciting moments to the crowd of about 20,000 fans who enjoyed the pastime along with the swell weather.

Feature Play by Collins.

Tris Speaker as usual furnished most of the thrills by his sparkling fielding stunts and gallant hitting and base running. He executed a half dozen or more feats of brilliant athletic prowess for the entertainment. The biggest thriller of the game, however, was turned by "Shano" Collins in the second inning of the second game when he went dashing back into deep right center, then made a leaping one handed stab of Gardner's terrific drive, which was booked for a three baser. That catch probably saved the ball game and "Shano" had to doff his cap several times as he walked in to the bench.

With sturdier pitching the Sox might have won the first game. After they had staged a big seventh round rally, which netted four runs and put them one to the good, they were unable to restrain the speed boys and make that one extra run win.

Three Local Pitchers Fail.

Three Sox hurlers had a fling at the slabbing in the first game and one was lammed almost as hard as another. Boston piled up a total of fifteen swats, and among them were four doubles and two triples. Urban Faber attempted the job at the start, but after going through three rounds with no trouble he was bumped fiercely for four runs in the fourth, a triple by Speaker starting the fuss. It was followed by doubles by Lewis and Hoblitzel, a single by Carrigan, a walk to Scott, and an error by Daly.

These four put Boston two to the good and brought High Jasper to the mound. He hurled three rounds, yielding one run in the sixth on Hoblitzel's single and Carrigan's double. In the last of the seventh the Sox put on their big rumpus, then Jim Scott took the hurling job with a one run lead, but three singles in the eighth pushed over the tying count, and Jim's wildness in walking Janvrin and Speaker in the ninth opened the way for his defeat, for Gardner sent the two men home with his vicious triple.

Ray Collins, the stalwart southpaw, performed for the visitors, and, although in great distress many times, he stuck to the finish because his mates gave him all the runs he needed. Singles by J. Collins and Fournier, followed by a three bagger by Roth, gave the south siders a pair of tallies in the first. They didn't get any more until the seventh, when singles by Roth, Kuhn, and Daly and doubles by Blackburne and Schalk, the latter acting as pinch hitter, gave the Sox four runs, which put them ahead until the speed boys took up their bats again.

Benz Opposes Bedient.

Joe Benz and Hugh Bedient were the hurlers in the second combat through the entire seven innings. Benz was hit the harder, yielding nine blows, while only five were made by the south siders. Bedient's support in the crisis failed him, however, and he lost the verdict.

In the first inning, Janvrin lined one fiercely to center and Roth ran in for a shoe string catch. He missed, and the ball went to the fence for a home run. The White Sox tied it in their half, when Demmitt singled and Blackburne was hit by a pitched ball. A sacrifice hit and a sacrifice fly brought Demmitt home. E. Scott's single, Gardiner's triple, and Bedient's single gave Boston two in the fourth, and the Sox came right back and tied it on Fournier's two bagger, Roth's walk, and Weaver's double. In the seventh, Breton began with a walk. Benz sacrificed, and Demmitt flied to Hooper, Breton taking third after the catch, from where he scored when Swanson booted Blackburne's roller.

NOTES OF THE WHITE SOX.

One game today will wind up the series with the speed boys.

The Sox leave tonight for two days of it at Cleveland, then return to the south side to meet the Browns on Friday. Four games in three days with St. Louis will end the season.

The report is out that a new umpire will appear at the south side today to help Billy Evans. His name was not announced, but he is coming from the American association.

Duffy Lewis brought the first game to a close by making a thrilling one handed catch of Blackburne's long drive in deep left close to the foul line. Previous to that he had captured one of Breton's long liners down by the flagpole.

On Thursday, which is an open date for the Sox, a game will be played between them and the Milwaukee club, which won the pennant in the American association. The contest will take place in Milwaukee. Several of Callahan's players don't want to make the trip to Milwaukee for fear of not getting back.

Ray Schalk did some expert base running in the sixth round of the second game which nearly produced the winning run. With two out he was hit by a pitched ball. He turned a delayed steal of second base and a moment later went to third when the catcher made a bad peg trying to get him off second. He followed by trying to steal home, but was out by a hair.

Speaker robbed Fournier of a triple in the first game by making a great running catch in deep right center. In the fourth round of the second game the Frenchman hit a terrific liner straight over second, and it should have gone to the fence, but Speaker ran straight back to the fence, made a leap into the air, and knocked it down, almost holding it. If that ball had stuck in Tris' glove Fournier might have run out there and choked him.

Pennant Dope.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

By beating St. Louis yesterday while the Red Sox lost the second game of a double header to the White Sox, the Athletics clinched the pennant. Even if Philadelphia should lose all of its eight remaining games and Boston should win its nine the standing at the finish would be:

| | W. | L. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Philadelphia | 95 | 57 | .625 |
| Boston | 96 | 58 | .623 |

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Following are the greatest number of games possible for the contenders in the National league race to play this season: Boston, 11 (Chicago, 2; New York, 5; Brooklyn, 4). New York, 11 (Pittsburgh, 3; Boston, 5; Philadelphia, 3).

In order to insure their winning the pennant, the Braves must win three of their remaining eleven games. Even should New York win all its eleven contests, the standing in that case would be:

| | W. | L. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Boston | 89 | 64 | .582 |
| New York | 89 | 65 | .578 |

Both Chicago and St. Louis were eliminated from the pennant race yesterday.

FEDERAL LEAGUE.

In the Federal league, Chicago and Indianapolis each have ten games left to play, divided as follows: Chicago (Brooklyn, 2; Indianapolis, 1; St. Louis, 3; Kansas City, 4). Indianapolis, (Pittsburgh, 2; Chicago, 1; Kansas City, 3; St. Louis, 4). If Indianapolis should win all ten of its games, Chicago would have to win nine of its ten to secure the pennant. The standing at the finish in that case would be:

| | W. | L. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Chicago | 91 | 63 | .591 |
| Indianapolis | 90 | 63 | .588 |

SEEKS RULE ON NEW DELIVERY

HENDRIX TO GO ON SLAB

BY KEENE GARDINER.

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Manager Tinker of the Chifeds has made an appeal to President Gilmore of the Federal league to issue a ruling against the use of the emery ball in the new organization, similar to the action taken by President Johnson of the American league.

Umpire Barry McCormick also has sent a report to the head of the league relative to the action of Tom Seaton in the first game of the double header between Chicago and Brooklyn yesterday, in which Tinker discovered Seaton was using a piece of emery paper on the ball, thereby making his delivery decidedly more effective.

"Emery Ball" Fans Two.

Manager Tinker was on third base and Beck on second in the second inning when Farrell and Brennan fanned. Before Flack came to bat Tinker appealed to McCormick and the game was delayed. The umpire went to the center of the diamond and examined the ball he had just tossed out to Seaton. He found one side had been scraped as if with a file.

Seaton denied using emery paper, but Tinker discovered the paper inside the pitcher's glove. Seaton refused to remove it, but Manager Bradley rushed out from the bench and Seaton handed him the slip of emery. Bradley refused to give it to McCormick. Instead he returned it to Seaton when Tom went to the bench, according to Manager Tinker, who watched Seaton when the inning ended.

Tinker had refused to finish the game unless Seaton quit roughing the surface of the balls. Seaton only laughed and continued. Tinker proceeded with the game under protest, but in the eighth inning Seaton weakened and the Tinx jumped onto him for five runs, thereby pulling the game out of the fire.

Seaton Refuses to Quit.

During the eighth inning, when Seaton walked four batters, Manager Bradley ordered him from the mound and called on Lafitte. Seaton refused to quit and motioned Lafitte to remain where he was. The score was tied at the time and Seaton wanted to finish. He failed to prevent Chicago from scoring the winning run, and at the end of the inning Somers replaced him.

The Tinx will continue their series with the Tip Tops tomorrow, when Claude Hendrix will oppose the Ward combination. This practically gives the leaders a cinch on four straight games, according to Manager Tinker, and they will fight desperately for the final game on Tuesday, after which they will invade the Hoosier bailiwick for a one day's stand to play off a postponed game.

MINOR LEAGUERS BEAT CUBS, 8 TO 7

Providence Wins in Ninth After O'Days Tie Score in Eighth Round.

ATHLETES SHARE COIN.

Providence, R. I., Sept 27.—[Special.]—It does not seem possible for the Cubs to defeat even a minor league club. After dropping a double header to the Boston Braves yesterday, they came here today for an exhibition with the Providence Grays and submitted to an 8 to 7 defeat.

Defeat came after the Cubs had tied the count on the International league champions in the eighth inning and it had been agreed upon to call the game at the close of the ninth to let the Cubs catch a train. It was not necessary for the game to be called, for the Grays won before any one was out, and even then the Cubs failed to make their train back to the Hub.

Play at Rocky Point.

The game was not played in the city, but at a place called Rocky Point on the shores of Narragansett bay, a forty-five minute ride. The park is directly on the water's edge and a home run usually sends the ball into the bay. Two balls were driven into the water, one by Pitcher Ruth of the Grays and the other by Wilbur Good Weather conditions during the first half of the game were excellent, as the sun shone brightly, but after the sixth inning Old Sol hid himself and the air was anything but comfortable. The 2,400 fans present were satisfied that the game ended when it did.

Cubs Get Nearly $400.

The trip was worth while for the Cubs, as their share of the gate was nearly $400. The Grays were given half of the receipts to divide among themselves.

Pitchers Lavender, Pierce, and Smith toiled on the slab for the Cubs. The first two were brought here by Manager O'Day because they were once members of the Grays. Smith twirled with Jersey City and is well known to the fans. Score:

BUTLERS ENTER FINAL FOR TITLE

TWO HITS OFF DE LAVE.

Butler Bros., amateur baseball champions of Chicago, earned their way into the finals for the national amateur title by defeating the Vinton Street Merchants' club, champion of Omaha, at Comiskey park yesterday morning, 10 to 0. "Tacks" De Lave was in splendid form and allowed the visitors only two hits. Both hits were of the scratch variety, and were off the bat of Koehler, the visiting left gardener.

Two infield hits, followed by De Lave's triple and a wild pitch that counted the home pitcher, resulted in three runs in the first round. The Butlers filled the bases again in the third with nobody out, but De Lave's sacrifice fly counted the only tally of the session. Two more hits and an error in the fourth earned another run, while five hits in the eighth off Moylan landed four more runs.

May Play Final Here.

The Omaha players arrived before 8 o'clock in the morning, but looked fresh enough on the field, although outclassed by the local men. The pennant battle probably will be staged in Chicago Oct. 11, between the Butlers and the winner of next Sunday's battle between St. Louis and Cleveland. Score:

RECEIPTS CHECK WHEAT DEMAND

CORN REPORTS BEARISH

A tremendous primary movement of wheat helped create a more bearish view of prices in the wheat market last week and temporarily the reports of export sales have failed to stimulate the usual amount of outside buying. Public interest in the wheat market has been dwindling ever since the big shakeout which followed the advance in the May to $1.32. From the high point there was a drop of about 22 cents, and a subsequent rally of approximately 10 cents. From the last bulge there has been a gradual decline, with the volume of trade decreasing.

Primary receipts of wheat for three weeks have been approximately 55,000,000 bu, the largest receipts on record for that length of time. Last week primary arrivals were 17,736,000 bu, against 19,582,000 bu for the previous week, and 11,122,000 bu a year ago. In addition to the big receipts in this country, Winnipeg receipts were 7,146 cars for the week, compared to 8,744 cars a year ago.

Foreigners Still Buying.

Representatives of foreign governments continue to buy wheat and flour, as well as other grains in this country, and there is no let up in the movement of wheat and flour from the country. Clearances from this country and of American wheat through Canadian ports average better than 1,000,000 bu per day. From the Pacific coast wheat is being shipped rapidly and there promises to be an early and heavy movement of the Canadian exportable surplus. This will mean a temporary abundance of wheat and flour abroad, which in turn will ease the situation in western Europe.

From reliable European reports it may be taken for granted that the export buying will continue heavy. This makes the situation in this country strong, as the export movement started unusually early, the July exports having been the largest in the history of the country.

Visible Stocks Increasing.

At present visible stocks of wheat are increasing rapidly, but are not especially large in view of the enormous primary receipts. Apparently the high tide of receipts has been passed. It has been increasingly apparent that the majority of farmers are in no hurry to sell on the decline. There is enough wheat bought to arrive to keep receipts liberal for some time, as wheat owners who were under financial necessity of selling have marketed their wheat.

Efforts are credited to foreign governments to hold down the price of wheat abroad for the purpose of making purchases easier in this country. Such efforts are entirely natural. This country is the only nation having a big surplus available.

Russia may ship spasmodically, but no great pressure at any time is likely from that country, as stocks are likely to be held in reserve until the following crop year discloses whether or not there will be a scarcity of grain.

In some quarters the flour trade is reported slower. The earlier frantic buying is conspicuous by its absence. However, the export movement is heavy and stocks are not large.

Speculative sentiment is greatly mixed, and local professionals have become bearish owing to the small interest taken by the public.

Corn Prices Work Lower.

Corn prices have worked lower during the last few days and there has been an absence of speculative activity, which has operated against the maintenance of prices. With no outside buying demand to contend with local pit traders have been inclined to press the selling side at every opportunity.

Recent reports have indicated a better corn prospect than was indicated earlier in the season. This has checked the buying demand to some extent and there has been considerable apprehension as to the effect of a liberal movement of new corn a few weeks hence if the weather continues favorable.

The cash demand has been spasmodic, with several cargoes of corn taken for export. The lack of any big available stock of old corn has limited the export trade, but there is every reason to expect a big export movement as soon as the new corn moves. Argentine competition is likely to increase, as it is estimated that country still has 150,000,000 bu to market, but the inquiry for American corn is good and the sales of old corn at high prices suggest an even better demand for new corn.

Two moderate crops in succession, with the demand for new corn coming unusually early, owing to partly exhausted old stocks, make a strong legitimate situation. There is now no danger of any substitution of wheat or other grains for corn. The feeding demand will be normally heavy. The shutting off of coarse grain shipments from Russia should increase the foreign demand. Primary receipts for the week were 1,955,000 bu, compared to 5,117,000 bu a year ago.

Easier Tone in Oats.

A reactionary tone developed in oats. Offerings increased and while the market gave way grudgingly there was less outside demand than in other grains, and on the lowering of prices there was some liquidation by local longs. The export demand has been fairly active and offerings from the country are falling off. Primary receipts are still large, 6,736,000 bu against 6,168,000 bu a year ago. Canadian markets have firmed up relatively to Chicago and there is a substantial demand for both Canadian and domestic oats on all the setbacks.

Provisions have been irregular, lowering of hogs prices causing a little liquidation in products. On the declines there has been an excellent demand for January products and packers have been credited with buying the near by stuff. A big decrease, possibly 60,000 tcs., is expected in lard stocks for the month and there has been a marked improvement in the cash lard trade, shipments having been liberal.

In meats the trade is still moderate. Receipts of hogs are moderate, western points for the week having 325,000, against 307,000 the previous week and 380,000 a year ago.

Four Public Utility Corporations.

G. B.—The Continental Gas and Electric corporation, whose bonds you think of buying, is a holding company which controls a number of gas and electric light and power companies in Iowa and Nebraska. Its earnings from operations last year were $136,134, against $107,474 for the year before. The bond interest is $43,015. Dividends of 6 per cent on preferred and 2 on common were paid, amounting to $43,015. The bonds are collateral trust obligations, but with earnings two and one-half times the interest and increasing they appear well secured. The Wisconsin Gas and Electric company earns slightly less than twice its bond interest. The Southwestern Power and Light company is earning several times its bond interest. This is a holding company and it is controlled by the Southwestern Utilities company, a larger holding company. The Consumers' Power company is a Minnesota holding corporation. Its bonds are a first mortgage on a number of plants and a second mortgage on others. The earnings are increasing, but in 1913 they were considerably less than twice the interest.

Anglo-American Reinsurance.

A. T. H.—The Anglo-American Reinsurance company is the new name of the Central National Fire. The latter company reinsured most of its direct risks last year and proposed to confine itself wholly to reinsurance. The last annual statement, Jan. 1 last, showed capital paid in $200,000 and surplus $75,000, making the book value of the stock at that time about $34.37 a share of $25 par. The company is preparing to increase its capital stock to $250,000 and the new stock is being sold at $50 a share. It is stated at the offices of the company that its office expenses are now low and that economy is practiced in all departments under the new management.

Street's Western Stable Car.

W. P. G.—According to the annual report of Street's Western Stable Car line lately issued the company is not now earning enough to retire its bonds as they fall due. Its net earnings for the year were $106,307 and bond interest was $82,084, leaving $24,222. Apparently the $90,000 of bonds due June 1 last were retired, but $95,000 fall due June 1 next, and the amount continues to increase yearly. What value, if any, is back of the common stock depends on how the inventory of $7,372,537 of cars, franchises, etc., was made. There are $1,600,000 of bonds, $775,000 of preferred stock, and $157,181 of floating debt. There are 31½ per cent of cumulative dividends on the preferred shares unpaid.

Wheeling and Lake Erie.

M. H., Freeport, Ill.—We have no information as to what the prospects of stockholders are in the coming reorganization of the Wheeling and Lake Erie. A committee to represent the interest of the minority stockholders was formed some time ago. J. B. Nutt is its chairman and the Citizens' Savings and Trust company of Cleveland and the United States Mortgage and Trust company of New York are the depositories.

Brief Answers to Correspondents.

Mrs. E. W.—The fact that a mortgage is past due does not lessen the security in any way. In some parts of the country it is the usual practice to let loans run indefinitely without formal renewal, each payment of interest being in effect a renewal. The loaner is put at a disadvantage in one way: the borrower can pay the loan at any time without notice.

R. F. D., Sweetwater, Okla.—The Orizaba Rubber Plantation company owned land in Mexico, but was compelled to abandon it during the war there, and all its buildings have been burned and its movable property stolen. It is doubtful, however, whether any one will advance any money to resume operations for many years.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR OPENING OF STOCK MARKET.

New York Brokers Think Exchange Will Be Operating in a Short Time.

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—With the $100,000,000 gold pool for easing our international money market formed, and with New York City's $80,000,000 maturing European indebtedness cared for, Wall street bankers turned their attention this week to solving the stock exchange problem.

From the highest authority it was learned that plans are now being formed to open the stock exchange. Up to now the Wall street bankers have not been willing to admit that it was possible to open the exchange. According to the plans now under way, trading will be confined at first to a few selected bonds, the list to be increased as buying power develops. No date has been named for opening the exchange, but the mere fact that bankers are now working toward that end is significant.

Bankers who are working on the stock exchange problem point out that despite European liquidation a seasoned railway bond, unlike a stock, will not decline very far below the price representing intrinsic value.

After bonds have adjusted themselves to the new world-wide conditions—that is, have declined to a point representing the world-wide increase in the cost of capital—holders will refuse to sell. By opening the stock exchange for bond trading on a limited scale, therefore, bankers believe that the way can be paved for complete resumption of business.

RAIL EARNINGS DECREASE.

First Two Weeks in September Show Falling Off of 6.3 Per Cent.

Railroad gross earnings continue to show a falling off from a year ago, the total of all roads making weekly returns to Dun's review amounting for the first two weeks in September to $17,210,208, a decrease of 6.3 per cent as compared with the earnings of the same roads for the corresponding period a year ago. Almost all roads in the south report more or less contraction, one notable exception being Chesapeake and Ohio, on which there is still a substantial increase. In the west and southwest there is, however, some evidence of improvement, although most of the leading systems continue to make smaller returns than in 1913. The losses in many instances, however, are much smaller than a short time ago.

WEEKLY BANK CLEARINGS

Bank clearings in the United States for the week ending Sept. 24, as reported to Bradstreet's Journal, New York, aggregate $2,281,288,000, against $2,461,834,000 last week and $3,095,357,000 in this week last year. Canadian clearings aggregate $151,142,000, as against $152,623,000 last week and $177,980,000 in this week last year. Italian Olive Oil Imports.

Unusually heavy shipments of Italian olive oil, both edible and for mechanical purposes, are being received in New York. Handlers here of the commodity, who have been watching developments in Italy for several weeks, fear that that country may begin hostilities.

PRODUCE GENERALLY LOWER; BUSINESS IS RESTRICTED.

Eggs and Potatoes Lead in Decline —Buyers Have Difficulty in Obtaining Financial Support.

Lower prices were made in nearly all branches of the produce market at Chicago last week, eggs and potatoes leading the decline. The trade was of restricted volume, with unsettled weather, Jewish holidays, and the difficulty experienced in obtaining financial support factors contributing to the curtailment of business.

Egg prices declined 1 to 2 cents a dozen. Receipts for the six days made a smaller aggregate, but dealers in carlots found it almost impossible to obtain sufficient money from their bankers to carry on their usual volume of business, and this same lack of funds brought out a lot of weakly held cold storage eggs which came into direct competition with the fresh receipts.

Offerings of eggs on the market throughout the period were larger than the immediate requirements of the trade demanded and prices had to be shaded to stimulate buying. The market closed in a weak and congested condition, with buyers looking for values to seek still lower levels.

WOMEN'S WEAR.

The variety in shapes and sizes of the fall hats that are popular at the moment is pleasing to the manufacturer of veilings in that it presages a more varied and larger demand for his wares than is the case under other conditions. The various types of filet effects are in especially good request, some of the new styles showing meshes that are unusually large. However, hexagonal and hair line meshes seem to have lost none of their strength and are being well taken. The "nose" veil also is active, and the new things in this line show a variety of unique and natty border effects. In sympathy with the season's color scheme in other articles of apparel, black is the most popular hue at the moment. Other dark shades, notably brown, green, and blue, are favored, with the darkest hues the most popular.

The agent for a well known English house making mohairs reports that sales of this fabric for next spring have been five times the amount of those made last year. Three-quarters of the goods sold have been fabrics that are not shiny. There is still some demand, however, for the materials with a sheen. "It is not a question with us," said the agent, "of being able to sell the goods we make but of being able to make the goods we sell."

There was little snap to trading in gray goods last week. Some business was done on 38½ inch 64-64s at 4¾c, while a fair movement of 60-52s and 60-48s in that width took place at 3¾@3⅝c, respectively. A few trades were also told of on 36 inch, 48 square, four yard sheetings, mostly for nearby delivery, at 4⅜c. Fine yarn goods showed no unusual feature. The day's closing prices follow:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 39 inch, 80-80s | ....5⅝c | 38½ inch, 64-56s | ...4c |
| 39 inch, 72-76s | ....5⅜c | 38½ inch, 60-52s | ....3⅝c |
| 39 inch, 68-72s | ....4⅞c | 38½ inch, 60-48s | ....3⅝c |
| 38½ inch, 64-64s | ....4¼c | 27 inch, 64-60s | ....2⅝c |
| 38½ inch, 64-60s | ....4⅛c | 27 inch, 56-52s | ....2⅛c |

Embroideries are now selling better than they did and the outlook is now considered to be encouraging both for the fall and next spring. Goods are being produced in St. Gall to some extent and shipments are made, though at greater cost and trouble. In regard to production in St. Gall, in the cases where factories are equipped with machinery of the latest design, requiring a much smaller force of labor, the chances are that the output is not suffering to the extent that some claim.

A cablegram was received in New York recently from one of the largest English silk dress goods houses, in which it was stated that all orders received could be taken care of.

MEN'S WEAR.

Tartans are enjoying about as much popularity in men's clothing as almost any pattern that has been introduced in recent years. The idea is not new, but the fabrics are very handsome, bringing out combinations of blues and greens in checks and stripes. This enables the production of some very fascinating effects. Some people get the idea that, since a Tartan is a Scotch plaid, the suits now called Tartans are a direct imitation. As a matter of fact, it is the colorings of the Tartan plaids which have been used in the new fall goods.

Trade conditions in men's clothing are reported satisfactory when compared with conditions generally. Southern clothing merchants, as in other lines, are hopeful that some solution of the cotton problem will be found, but, outside of that section, the country seems to be in excellent condition.

While the slow accounts are more slow this year, one large house reports the receipt of money from May to September to be as large as last year.

No difficulty has been experienced in getting goods from abroad. Large quantities of linings, buttons, and woolen goods come from Europe, but have been received in plenty of time.

Piece goods importers who had sufficient foresight before the war broke out to provide themselves with fair sized stocks of fancy overcoatings now find that they are in a position to supply what the clothing trade wants. During the last week or so the demand for fancy goods on the balmacaan order has shown a healthy increase, and the styles desired are fetching good prices. One importer who makes a specialty of foreign low priced serges is also doing an exceptionally fine business.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

It is not surprising if the shoe trade is finding it difficult to know its exact status. Dealers, certainly, are becoming doubtful of the future, and are uncertain what to do. Even the manufacturers are advising moderation in movements.

It is thoroughly understood that present conditions, which will be duplicated in the future, show that the growing scarcity of raw materials must increase the cost of leather, and ultimately increase the retail price of shoes. Already values of such goods have been advanced in some cases from 5c to 25c a pair.

"After us the deluge" seems to be the situation of the shoe manufacturers, so far as raw materials are concerned. Some of the essential materials are becoming scarce, and the vanishing point is not far away, after which no price will be able to secure them. Substitutes must be used, and while a large supply of imported fabrics suitable for tops is believed to be held by the shoe manufacturers, there is a limit even to such material. American materials and substitutes for leather now have their opportunity.

It is estimated that the supply of shoes of all kinds in this country is ample for a considerable time, and if the goods are not exactly what the public desire, the emergency is sufficient to repress fastidiousness. Indeed, any one may best be satisfied and thankful that any suitable shoes are available. Dealers are recognizing this condition, and are not increasing their stocks too fast, and clearance and bargain sales are not considered good business at this time.

BOSTON COPPER NEWS.

The Shannon Copper company has shut down its mines at both Metcalf and Gleason, Ariz. The smelter was closed on Saturday.

This cuts out about 1,200,000 pounds of monthly copper output and to that extent assists in preventing the accumulation of any surplus of the metal.

Shannon cannot make a dollar on 12 cent copper and stockholders are better off with ore assets conserved than with its resources wasted on a metal market which admits of no profit.

Boston.—The bulk of copper cleared from the United States continues to be consigned to ports in the British Isles. One of the recent features of the copper export movement has been the appearance of Christiania, Norway, as a port of consignment.

Last week's clearances from New York totaled 6,402,722 pounds, as compared with 13,458,811 pounds in the preceding week and 7,209,648 pounds two weeks earlier.

Liverpool has been the chief port for American copper of late as evidenced by last week's clearances of 2,185,262 pounds for that port, against 2,700,108 pounds and 4,942,635 pounds in the two preceding weeks. London has taken over 6,000,000 pounds, while shipments to the continent have been very small.

Unless there is further recession in copper from present level of 12 cents, Old Dominion will have no difficulty in continuing its annual dividends of $1 per share. With the 25 per cent restriction in output, costs have naturally risen, but even now they are not running much above 10¼ cents, a creditable showing. Up to within a comparatively short time this was considered very satisfactory even when the plant was running full time. Thanks, however, to the large expenditures for new equipment during the last eighteen months, an efficiency has been attained which had, up to the time the curtailment was put in force, a most salutary effect on the cost sheets. Another important factor has been the decided improvement in quality of the ore on the lower levels.

Old Dominion is outputting about 2,000,000 pounds of copper a month. At this rate the company would earn close to $400,000 per annum, or $1.25 per share.

A sidelight which may interest stockholders who have had to accept a reduced dividend is that the salary account of everybody on the Old Dominion payroll, from President Smith down, has been cut 10 per cent, the reduction to remain in force until operations have been restored to normal.

Twelve cent copper continues to be taken in fairly liberal quantities. Domestic demand holds well, and American consumers have taken steps to replenish their depleted stocks. On the other hand export business keeps pace with the volume done during the last few days.

Underwriters in London have been warned by the Times that it would be well for them to use caution in insuring large quantities of copper, "which it is proposed to ship from the United States to Rotterdam. As copper has now been declared conditional contraband, it rests with the consignees to prove that the ultimate destination is neutral."

Local creditors of Ohio Copper company have been making an effort to have a local receiver appointed to act in conjunction with the receivers appointed in the east. The federal court will take up the matter some time within a week. The local management of Ohio Copper has indicated that the property would be reopened within a month, but there seems to be some doubt about it among local mining men who are familiar with the grade of ore that has been treated. The opinion expressed is that unless a larger tonnage can be handled Ohio Copper cannot be made to pay even with the metal around 14 cents.

The decline in copper to a point closely approaching its cost of production has started some figuring on the possibilities of a profitable speculative purchase of this commodity should the price recede say to 11 or 11½ cents.

It can safely be declared that the mean average cost of producing the world's copper, with due allowance for depreciation of machinery and equipment, but with no allowance for exhaustion of ore, is over rather than under 10 cents per pound. About 10½ cents is a fair estimate, and this only when working at full mine capacity.

Working on but 50 per cent time the average cost must exceed 11 cents and is probably nearer 11½ cents. There are many small producers, who, if their accounts are honestly kept, cannot show better than a new dollar for an old one, even on 12 cent copper.
